LAWYER PIQUETT CONVICTED

MOVE TO FORCE EARLY VOTE ON SOAK RICH BILL

Senate Committee Is Busy on Measure.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Amid Democratic dissension over procedure and Republican outcries against "the Roosevelt dictatorship" the Democratic leaders went into action today to carry out the President's orders to jam the New Deal share-the-wealth taxes through congress in the next four days.

With a view to reporting to the senate tomorrow the finance committee began framing a measure based on the following recommendations by the tax experts:

1. Graduated corporation income tax beginning at 10 per cent on net profits up to $2,000 and rising to 17½ per cent on all over 20 million. Corporations with net incomes below $100,000 would pay less than at present under the 13¾ per cent corporation income tax and corporations with larger profits than $100,000 would pay more, averaging the 16 2-3 per cent proposed by the President.

2. Inheritance taxes, in addition to the present estate taxes, beginning at 4 per cent on inheritances of more than $300,000 and rising to 75 per cent on all over 10 millions.

Propose Levy on Gifts.

3. Commensurate taxes on gifts to circumvent avoidance of inheritance taxes.

4. Increased surtaxes on incomes exceeding 1 million dollars rising to 80 per cent on incomes exceeding 10 millions.

The Democratic members in conference before the meeting of the finance committee decided that the President's tax program should be put through as a rider on the resolution to extend the "nuisance" excise taxes which expire June 30. They deemed this procedure the only way to get the measure through unless congress is to stay in Washington all summer. They are determined to adhere to this strategy event although failure to reënact the nuisance taxes by Saturday night will cost the treasury 1½ millions a day beginning Monday.

Nuisance Taxes Up Today.

The finance committee, at a two and a half hour session, decided to call up the nuisance tax resolution tomorrow with at least one and possibly two amendments carrying out the President's recommendations. Debate would proceed in the senate on these amendments, the graduated corporation taxes and possibly the higher individual income taxes, while the committee conducted "very brief" hearings on the inheritance tax proposals. This subject was the most controversial in committee.

Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee, said the members did not conclude their work and would meet again at 10 a. m. tomorrow, when requests for hearings would be received.

"We want to make these hearings very brief," he said. "I mean by that not more than two days. There will be no extended hearings."

Asked About Hearings.

Asked whether there would be an opportunity for hearings on the corporation and individual income taxes, as well as the inheritance levies, Harrison replied:

"Well, if anybody wants to be heard and he gets here before we report out the amendments he can be heard. Nobody has asked to be heard yet."

After the evening session of the committee, which also worked out a tentative schedule of rates, Senator Harrison said it was the plan to put the program through as quickly as possible and that there would be no separate hearing of the nuisance tax extension measure.

"If the miscellaneous taxes lapse they'll just have to lapse," he said.

Senators in Angry Debate.

While the members of the finance committee were drafting the bill the President's demands for immediate passage of a measure that ordinarily would require three months or more evoked angry discussion in the senate. Some Democrats agreed with Republican Leader Charles L. McNary that it was "unseemly haste." Outside the chamber Huey Long and other radicals derided the proposed tax rates as wholly inadequate to accomplish an effective redistribution of wealth.

Rumors were afloat that rich New Deal insiders have been putting their fortunes beyond reach of confiscatory taxation. By distributing their fortunes to their heirs in the form of "gifts" rich persons who act before the pending bill becomes law can beat not only

REFEREE HALTS BATTLE AFTER 3D KNOCKDOWN

Huge Italian Beaten from Start.

FIGHT PICTURES

Action photos of the Louis-Carnera battle, sent from New York to Chicago by wire are on the back page of this paper.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Joe Louis, 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves champion, knocked out Primo Carnera tonight in the sixth round of their heavyweight battle at the Yankee stadium. Fifty-seven thousand watched the bout, the most spectacular since the days when Jack Dempsey strode across the pugilistic stage without fear of any man. The receipts were reported as $340,000.

A knockout? Well, it won't be a knockout in the record books. Referee Arthur Donovan stepped between the men and called a halt after Louis had knocked Carnera down three times. Because of this the book will record it as a technical knockout. But the thousands of wildly enthusiastic fans, many of whom favored the stoic Louis before the match and all of whom stood cheering for many minutes following the end of the battle, knew that Louis was the master.

One more punch and the 21 year old 196 pound fighter from Detroit would have knocked the 260 pound Italian into the laps of the New York boxing commissioners in the first row.

All Louis from Start.

At no time was the issue in doubt. Louis, ruthless, methodical, and heartless, shuffled forward the first minute of the first round. Without delay he gave Carnera a hint of what was in store for him. He brought blood from Primo's drooping lips with a hard right hand blow.

Louis won every round of the five that were completed. Then came the sixth. Louis jarred his gigantic opponent with a left and followed with a right that landed flush on his opponent's lips. Carnera fell like a steer. His back to Louis, Carnera awkwardly tried to get to his feet with the aid of his hands which supported his weight. He collapsed on his haunches, but rose at the referee's count of four.

Carnera Down Again.

Calmly the modern David moved in to finish the Goliath of the ring. Louis circled, crouched, and charged forward. This time he led with a right and followed with a left hook, the blow which had helped him bring down 18 of his 22 professional foes. Carnera, a vast grin of surprise embroidering his stricken face, again sank before the fury of the attack. This time he stayed down for a count of five seconds. His befuddled brain could not command his muscles to draw his hulk from the canvas.

For a last time, Louis closed in on his rival, ready for the kill. Out in the vast reaches of Yankee stadium the mob roared. They had come to see this youngster make his Broadway debut. They had read he was a deliberate killer. Now they waited expectantly.

Louis walked forward. Bang went that left hand to Carnera's head, and almost in the same motion the right followed to the jaw. Primo teetered on his feet, swayed and fell. Courageously he came up almost before the time keeper could swing his arm. But Carnera long had forgotten where he was. He lifted dazed eyes to the ringside where excited men stood yelling. He failed to find, or couldn't see, the man who had brought this calamity.

Referee Saves Primo.

Spinning around, wabbling on his large feet, Carnera looked in vain for Louis. Joe was there, marching forward, his lethal right leveled. But Referee Donovan took charge. In he rushed and guided the helpless Carnera to his corner.

Minutes later, after the roar of the throng had subsided, the announcer beckoned to Joe Louis. Then he bellowed through the loud speaker.

"The winner, Joe Louis by a technical knockout in 2 minutes and 32 seconds of the sixth round."

Joe Louis, who gave Chicagoland a thrill by his victorious march to a Golden Gloves title, tonight brought New York's thousands to the realization that a new heavyweight specter

SPINSTER LEAVES ENTIRE $25,000 ESTATE TO A DOG

Pet, a white Eskimo dog, was bequeathed the entire $25,000 estate of its mistress, Miss Margaret McDermott, 70 years old, 5347 Wayne avenue, a spinster, who died June 4. This was revealed yesterday when the will was filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin of the Probate court.

Under terms of the strange document, George A. Trude, who is named trustee of the estate, is to place Pet in the care of some woman who loves dogs, and in "a first class home without children." Upon Pet's death the estate is to go to the Anti-Cruelty society.

The hearing on the will was set for Aug. 30. Attorney David W. Kahane, who filed the will, said that Miss McDermott's nearest living relative is a cousin, Martin J. Clark, 335 North Latrobe avenue. He said that he believes Pet is now "in the hands of friends."

ALMOST CROWD JUROR OUT AT VIEW OF MOVIE

New York, June 25.—(AP)—A crowd so large that one juror almost failed to get into the room gathered in the Federal building today when Federal Judge John C. Knox and a jury viewed the Czechoslovakian film "Ecstasy" to see whether it is indecent. The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow after the film was shown.

The government is proceeding against the film under section 305 of the tarif act of 1930, which prohibits importation of obscene and immoral objects.

Imported last November, the film was seized by customs authorities. Recently the picture was seen by Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr., wife of the secretary of the treasury, and later the secretary pronounced it indecent.

Political Boys Push Sale of Picnic Tickets

As the deadline neared yesterday for the first of a series of picnics and tournaments sponsored by political organizations, the corridors, courtrooms, and inner chambers in the county building resounded with the rising hum of high pressure salesmanship of tickets.

The sales persons included scrubwomen, elevator operators, and other minor employés, as well as deputy sherifs, clerks and bailifs and others in the higher pay brackets. It was clear that the chief incentive behind the sales pressure was the desire of the sellers not to be "caught" with any of the tickets they had been "asked" to dispose of.

It's Politic Just to Pay.

Some of the harried ticket dispensers explained that they felt it would be better to pay for the unsold tickets out of their own pockets than to return them to their political superiors.

No more enviable was the plight of lawyers and similar outsiders who do business in the county building and find that "coöperation" with the county building staf pays dividends in the form of speedier service and preference over those who don't see any reason for buying the tickets. Rather than hazard outright refusals to ticket sellers numerous lawyers contrived not to be too conspicuous as they went about their business. Some achieved this end by pausing momentarily (and frequently) in the lee of pillars until some eager eyed county employé with a fistful of tickets had passed.

$50 Worth—For Continued Service.

Typical was the case of one lawyer who checked up yesterday and found that he had spent nearly $50 for tickets to various political functions.

"The sherif's office is the worst," the lawyer said. "There I have bought 44 tickets for the John Toman annual outing at Kolze Electric park on July 20, at 40 cents each. The deputy sherifs, clerks, and deputy bailifs who serve writs and do other official work in my legal cases have large blocks of tickets to sell. They assure me that I needn't buy, but of course I don't want to be marked for their displeasure by refusing.

There Are Days—And Days.

"The same holds true in the offices of the Circuit and Superior court clerks and among the courtroom bailifs. I have bought six of the $3 tickets to Frank V. Zintak day at the Cog Hill Country club on Wednesday for the benefit of the Superior court clerks' welfare association. I also have taken a $10 advertisment in the program for the boxing show for John E. Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court, at the Normal Park athletic field Wednesday night.

"I don't intend to go to any of the functions. In fact, I have torn up all my tickets."

GERMANS CLAIM THEY HAVE NEW RADIO WAVE WITH NO INTERFERENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 25.—German radio experts claim they have perfected a "decimeter wave" which can be directed with accuracy without interference, which is not possible with longer waves.

Experts say the waves will facilitate radio telephoning and will also enable them to develop a new device to guide ships and airplanes in fog and rain.

Telefunken experts worked for eighteen months on the experiments, and hope to translate them into practical work.

THREE BROTHERS FIND EXPLOSIVE IN DUMP; ALL DIE

Elkhart, Ind., June 25.—[Special.]—While searching a dump here this afternoon to find parts for their bicycle, three Elkhart boys, sons of an FERA laborer, found an explosive which they set off after carrying it to the back yard of their home. Two of the boys, Charles Canen, 14, and his brother, Laverne, 13, were killed in the blast and the third boy, Wayne Canen, 8, died tonight in a hospital.

Mrs. Orville Canen, mother of the boys, said she heard the explosion which she thought to be an automobile collision. A daughter, Erma, went out to investigate and found the mangled bodies of her brothers.

A rail or beam which the boys had been using as an anvil was found split in two by the explosion.

Duel Between Chiappe and Critic Believed Averted

PARIS, June 25.—(AP)—A duel between Jean Chiappe, former Paris police prefect, and Pierre Godin, Chiappe's predecessor as president of the Paris municipal council, apparently was averted today. After a conference of seconds one said he did not expect the meeting to take place and indicated they would agree tomorrow on a statement finding insufficient grounds. Chiappe, who is "mayor" of Paris as president of the council, challenged Godin because of the latter's criticism of his (Chiappe's) police administration.

Horner Gets Home Rule Transit Bill

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—Mayor Kelly's bill to give Chicago home rule over its local transportation companies was through the Illinois general assembly tonight on its way to Gov. Horner for action. Its final hurdle before reaching the governor was passed when the senate concurred in house amendments by a vote of 41 to 5.

When the measure, originally introduced by Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], first passed the senate it gave Chicago home rule over all utilities. In the house it was amended to limit the control to transportation companies, and it was on this amendment that the senate voted tonight without the bitter debate that had accompanied its adoption in the other chamber.

Searcy Seeks Amendment.

"We had a home rule bill for downstate, also," said Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Republican minority leader. "There should be an amendment to this bill that would prohibit the city council from giving a franchise to a transportation line competing with an existing line, which might result in an increase in the 7 cent fare. That is why I want this bill to go to a conference committee."

"I voted for this bill when it was first in the senate," said Senator Noah M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], "because it had complete home rule in it and there was another bill for downstate. I would like to see this bill go to conference for an agreement that the downstate measure also would be called up for passage."

"With Mayor Kelly on the rostrum and the Chicago senators voting for this amendment," said Senator Thomas P. Gunning [Rep., Princeton], "I'm satisfied that the bill is satisfactory to Chicago. I vote aye."

Gives Franchise Control.

In the house charges had been voiced that the measure would result in advantages for the Chicago rapid transit and the motor coach company as against the surface lines. None of these charges was heard in the senate except through Senator Searcy's insinuation that the 7 cent fare of the surface lines might be lost.

The bill, now in the governor's hands, gives the Chicago city council control to grant franchises to transportation lines and to govern their physical activities, but does not give the council power over their rates or valuations.

Earlier the senate had passed four bills in brief meetings before and after the joint session to which U. S. Senator James Hamilton Lewis talked. These bills now go to the house for concurrence. In addition to passing these bills, the senate struck about fifty measures from its calendar.

Senate Acts Speedily.

Shortly before midnight Senator Richey V. Graham [Dem., Cicero] began the onslaught on senate bills that presages the early closing of this session of the 59th general assembly. With a whoop the senate adopted his motions to strike all senate bills in

DILLINGER ALLY FACES TERM IN FEDERAL PRISON

Jurors Act Swiftly on U. S. Evidence.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Louis Piquett, attorney for gangsters and city prosecutor in the William Hale Thompson administration, was found guilty yesterday of the charge of having harbored and concealed Homer Van Meter, John Dillinger's lieutenant, during the summer of 1934 in Chicago, a few weeks before both these outlaws were slain. The guilty verdict was returned by a jury in the court of Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

The conviction carries with it a maximum penalty of two years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

This was the result of the second effort of the government, spurred on by Attorney General Cummings, to punish Piquett for his actions while the department of justice was engaged in a hunt for the two desperadoes. The first effort, a trial on the charge of having harbored Dillinger, who was Piquett's client, ended in acquittal last January in Federal Judge William H. Holly's court.

Special Prosecutor Pleased.

"The move to eliminate the lawyer-criminal from society has received great impetus from this conviction," said Brien McMahon, assistant to the attorney general, after the verdict was returned. Mr. McMahon was sent from Washington to prosecute the case with Austin C. Hall, assistant United States district attorney.

Piquett was unusually grave and silent as he stood in the courtroom after the jurors had given their verdict and filed out.

"Not a word to say," he told interviewers. "I am fighting this out to the end."

A motion for a new trial was immediately made by Attorney John Elliott Byrne, who, with Attorney Edwin Peifer, represented Piquett. This motion was set for hearing tomorrow morning. Piquett will remain at liberty on his bond of $20,000 until then at least.

Jury Returns Quick Verdict.

The jurors deliberated little over an hour on the case. They received instructions and went to their quarters at 1:24 o'clock. After luncheon there they began their deliberations about 2:30. At 3:40 o'clock they knocked on the door to say that a verdict was ready.

Judge Sullivan was at that moment entering his chambers. He immediately donned his black robe and ascended the bench. He warned the crowded courtroom against demonstrations and ordered the jury brought in.

As they came in, with solemn faces, Piquett and his friends lost hope and the prosecutors were correspondingly elated.

"Have you agreed on a verdict, gentlemen?" asked the judge.

"Yes," said several of the jurors at once.

The verdict was handed to the clerk, who read: "We, the jury, find the defendant, Louis Piquett, guilty as charged in the indictment."

Motion for New Trial Made.

Judge Sullivan nodded to the jurors to retire and a minute later they had left the room.

There was silence in court. Piquett sat slumped in his chair for a moment, then spoke to his attorneys and approached the judge's bench with them.

When the date for hearing the motion for a new trial was disposed of he turned to his wife, who sat against the wall, white and tearless. He went up to her and kissed her.

A group of his friends sat with Mrs. Piquett. They acted as if stunned. On the occasion of the verdict in the first case they had danced down the corridors singing for joy.

One woman friend as she edged her way out of the courtroom spoke bitterly to the prosecutors. She is Mrs. Ada Martin, a nurse.

"You think you're big, don't you?" she said. She was taken in hand by a bailif, who hustled her out of the room.

Jurors Refuse Comment.

The jurors went to their room for a few minutes and when they came out the foreman, Walter H. Miller, a supervisor for the Commonwealth Edison company, said that there was nothing more to say, that the verdict spoke for itself, and that they had agreed not to discuss their balloting or argument.

Piquett's real hope of evading prison life now rests on the appeal which he will take on the double jeopardy feature of the case. He and his lawyers emphasized before the jury many times that the same facts which were settled by the jury in the first trial were brought up against him again to place him in jeopardy. This will be the basis of his appeal and he professes to expect to win on that issue.

Piquett became Dillinger's attorney before the outlaw's famous escape from the Crown Point jail on March 3, 1934. The government's prosecution of the lawyer began to take shape during the summer when it was discovered that late in May and early in June he had been in a house at 2509 North Crawford avenue with the fugitive gangsters, Dillinger and Van Meter. Federal agents learned that face lifting and fingerprint obliterating operations had been performed there on the two outlaws.

The next steps were the arrest of Dr. Wilhelm Loeser, Dr. Harold Cassidy, and Arthur O'Leary, then an employé of Piquett. Loeser was a violator of parole from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, where he had served part of a term for narcotic law violations. He and Cassidy confessed they had performed the Dillinger and Van Meter operations. Their statements and that of O'Leary implicated Piquett.

Later through the arrest of Anna Patzke, Dr. Loeser's housekeeper for many years, further details were discovered. It developed that the owner of the Crawford avenue house was James Probasco, long a friend of Piquett, and that Dillinger and Van Meter had hidden there for at least two weeks, with Piquett visiting them at intervals.

Three of Conspirators Dead.

Piquett was arrested in September. Meanwhile Dillinger had been slain in Chicago on July 22 by federal agents. Van Meter was shot to death in St. Paul a month later by police of that city. Four days after Dillinger's death Probasco was killed in a fall from a window of the federal agents' office on the 19th floor of the Bankers' building in the loop.

Throughout both trials it was Piquett's contention that O'Leary and not he was the leader in the conspiracy to conceal Dillinger and Van Meter. He pictured himself merely as Dillinger's attorney.

Arrayed against him was the evidence given by Dr. Loeser, Dr. Cassidy, O'Leary, and the Patzke woman, all of whom linked him directly with the plot. Miss Patzke testified that after the plot was discovered and before Dr. Loeser was arrested Piquett urged Loeser to "get out of town" and gave her $500 to give to Loeser to speed him on his way.

CLOSING TRIAL SCENES

The closing scenes of the trial yesterday formed a drama in which Piquett himself took a spectacular rôle with a plea to the jury in his own behalf.

When court opened in the morning the first order of business was the story of the mysterious witness whom the defense on Monday said it hoped to put on the stand. This hope was a vain one. The witness did not testify.

It turned out that he was Nicketes Kominiakis, son of James Kominiakis, a veteran member of the federal alcohol tax unit. The younger Kominiakis was in court just before the session opened, but fled from the room when he saw his father. He was to have testified, according to the defense, concerning negotiations, outside the knowledge of Piquett, for a Dillinger-Van Meter hideout. The defense asked Judge Sullivan to call him as a court's witness, but the judge refused.

Hall Opens for Government.

Prosecutor Hall then took the floor before the jury box and launched into the first of the government's closing arguments.

"Piquett gave you a pretty true picture of himself in his cross-examination on Monday," Hall said. "We think Piquett is intelligent, dangerous, a criminal. Piquett was not a lawyer out at the Crawford avenue house. He was a criminal.

"Do not let a master criminal enshroud and protect himself behind the great profession of the law from a crime which he deliberately committed. Louis Piquett is a master criminal. He is guilty of the charges in the indictment. Gentlemen of the jury, find him so guilty."

Defense Attorney Byrne made a calm, dissective talk, declaring that the prosecution, which he described as brilliant, had placed a false issue before the jury. They were trying Piquett now, he said, because the defendant had displayed a bad memory on the witness stand. They had succeeded in proving some points in Piquett's testimony as faulty. But that was not proof of crime, he said.

PIQUETT MAKES PLEA

When Byrne had concluded he urged his client to go into the breach and do his best. Piquett came up fighting. His experience Monday on the witness stand, when he had wilted and squirmed under the cross-examination of Prosecutor McMahon, had left him in a defeatist mood and when court convened he was discouraged, ready to give up, unwilling even to argue his case before the jury.

As the arguments proceeded, however, he became aroused.

"I don't believe that fellow likes me," he said after Prosecutor Hall had concluded his address to the jury. It was in a fighting mood therefore that Piquett responded to his attorney's suggestion that he do battle for himself.

In this last desperate effort Piquett reached his highest point of effective action. He punched in all directions, above and below the belt. He drew on the tear founts and wore his collar down to a limp rag in his plea.

He pictured himself as a poor, humble fellow, up against the great, all mighty government, with imported prosecutors bent on putting him in the penitentiary to satisfy a whim of the United States attorney general.

Mr. McMahon interrupted him once and suggested that he leave the name of Attorney General Cummings out of his argument. But Piquett paid no heed. He accused the government of framing evidence. He accused them of giving immunity to "depraved" criminals in order to pin this case on himself.

Appeals to Jury's Emotions.

"This case don't mean much to Mr. McMahon or Mr. Hall," he said, "but it means so much to me."

He was leaning across the jury rail, putting the magnetic touch on his fellow humans for all it was worth, holding their attention, getting close to their emotions.

"I am past 50 years of age," he went on. "I have never been arrested before. Hall told you, warned you, that I would ask for your sympathy. I don't care. You have everything I possess in the world in the palm of your hand. I haven't murdered anybody, or robbed any widows or banks. All I have done was to represent a criminal.

"Through this association I met Van Meter. I hope you see my side of it. My own future, my wife, my father and mother—all the dear friends I have made in Chicago. This is my home. Illinois is my state. America is my country.

"If you see it your duty to vote me into the penitentiary I won't receive it with tears. Give me what consideration you can. I, alone, have had to protect myself against the great and mighty government.

Says He's Entitled to Doubt.

"If you have a scintilla of doubt, let it resolve to me. I could not pull witnesses from trees. My witnesses are dead. I am entitled to that doubt. I am a defendant now, not a lawyer. May God speed you in your verdict."

Piquett led up to this peroration by a series of attacks on the government witnesses.

"Look over Dr. Loeser's first statement carefully," he told the jury. "In that he told the truth. I was not in this case."

[This "first" statement of Loeser to government agents was disclosed for the first time at this trial on demand of the defense. It did not connect Piquett with the conspiracy. On the stand, however, Loeser denied the truth of the statement, saying he was confused when he made it.]

"The government carried Loeser around town for 30 days," went on Piquett, continuing his argument to the jury. "When they were satisfied with his story he was booked. That was against the law, running him around until he made a statement to convict me, because the attorney general wanted to get me.

"Loeser made wild charges against the late attorney general of Illinois, Edward J. Brundage, a man of high character. He is a case of dementia præcox."

Piquett attacked Dr. Cassidy's story that he (Cassidy) had received $600 for assisting Loeser with the operation on Van Meter. He accused Cassidy of changing his evidence between trials.

[The government's testimony was that Dillinger and Van Meter paid O'Leary a total of $10,000 for their operations. This money, according to the prosecution, was split among O'Leary, Loeser, Cassidy, and Piquett. Piquett admits receiving $3,000, but claims it was all for attorney's fees.]

Release on Bonds Cited.

"Why were Cassidy and O'Leary released on bonds at the motion of an agent of the attorney general?" Piquett continued. "It is all right with me to let them go home, but I am a bit nauseated when I think the government would take me, a practicing attorney, a man with an untarnished reputation, and put me in the penitentiary.

"Why, even the men who killed Lincoln and Garfield and Cermak had lawyers to defend them. I thought I had a right to defend Dillinger.

"I never expected to be tried again [that is, after his acquittal on the charge of harboring Dillinger]. I did say my memory was hazy on cross-examination. I didn't have the record. I was convinced that if you came back with a not guilty verdict I would be indicted for perjury. I had to be awfully cautious.

He's Not a Reformer.

"I am not a lily white reformer. I have represented a lot of criminals. That's my business. I think as much of my profession as Hall does. I will practice the best I can for the rest of my life if you will let me."

Piquett took up Miss Patzke's story that he gave her $500 to give to Dr. Loeser so Loeser would "get out of town." This was in the Patzke woman's house at 1127 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, she testified. The government introduced the $500 in bills in court during the trial.

Piquett declared that if he had been as clever as the prosecution contended he would never have sought to bribe Loeser with new federal reserve notes bearing regular serial numbers.

"I am not so sure they didn't plant the money," he said. "The bills are too nice and new.

"This is the greatest frameup since the crucifixion of Christ. They are trying to railroad me to the penitentiary—my government—your government—through the attorney general's office.

"O'Leary and Cassidy will never do a day in jail. Stool pigeon—snake in the grass—what shall I call O'Leary? Dr. Cassidy is a confessed criminal, but he is allowed to practice medicine at Lawrence and Broadway."

M'MAHON'S ARGUMENT

Prosecutor McMahon completed the arguments in his address to the jury. It was the government's purpose, Mr. McMahon said, to eliminate the lawyer-criminal, not the criminal lawyer.

"It is the criminals' mouthpiece, their front men like Piquett," he cried, "that allow desperadoes so often to escape justice."

He sketched the government evidence, beginning with Dillinger's escape from the Crown Point jail.

"How did Piquett know he was going to have a 'meet,' as he calls it, with Dillinger just after his escape? Here is a man who meets desperadoes just out of jail," McMahon said.

Two Cases, Is U. S. View.

"It is the government's attitude in this case that there are two separate and distinct cases, the conspiracy to harbor Dillinger and the conspiracy to harbor Van Meter. This mouthpiece, by his own admission, said he was one of the mob and then tried to explain it away.

"Then he would stoop so low as to say the money was planted. His own counsel would not stoop so low.

"This man swore to uphold the constitution, and yet he said to Loeser, 'You better blow, the government is after you.' The result of a guilty conscience. He admits he tried to get Loeser out of town.

"Piquett said to Mr. Hall that after this was over he did not think Hall would have anything against him. I have a different opinion. If he tried to shake hands with me he would not get very far. I haven't vengeance in my heart, but self-respect.

Finger of Scorn for Piquett.

"I have a zealous respect for my duty as a member of the bar and for the traditions of this country, not to fraternize with—that [pointing to Piquett].

"I would be prostituting my ideas of what a lawyer should be.

"This mouthpiece stands and asks for sympathy. That is a claim every man on trial makes. The only thing he can do is to beg for mercy.

"I have a duty and you have, to ascertain whether or not Piquett is guilty of the crime charged. Gentlemen, I have every confidence that you will see your duty and do it.

"Let word go out to young men entering the legal profession that they must be decent and straight. Let those who are tempted to dealings with a mob know they can't do it without paying the punishment. Think of the innocent victims of the criminals."

Instructions to the Jury.

In his instructions to the jurors Judge Sullivan said that the defendant could not be found guilty just because as attorney for Dillinger he had failed to notify the authorities of the whereabouts of Dillinger's lieutenant, Van Meter.

The court did not comment on the evidence. He said that where accomplices had been offered as witnesses, as the government did in this case, it was necessary to take their evidence with careful consideration. The government must prove, he said, that Piquett and at least one other had entered into a conspiracy to harbor Van Meter, and that they knew Van Meter was a fugitive.

Asked to Resign in St. Paul

Plan to Fight Ouster

St. Paul, Minn., June 25.—[Special.]—Four St. Paul police officials involved in a sweeping investigation of police connections with the underworld today defied demands for their resignations. They prepared to fight ouster orders issued by Safety Commissioner H. E. Warren.

As ouster of the four and 30 day suspensions of five other police officials became effective late today, reports were current that Chief Michael J. Culligan, one of those ordered suspended, had turned in his resignation four days ago. Officials, however, denied the report.

Meanwhile Ramsey county prosecutors conferred behind closed doors over continuance of the investigation which so far has shown police to be in ownership of slot machines, having connections with organized vice, working with a race horse gambling clique and tipping off suspects in impending raids.

The officials ordered dismissed were Inspector James P. Crumley, Detectives Fred Raasch, Michael McGinnis and Ray Flanagan. They prepared to fight the ouster through an appeal to the civil service branch of the Ramsey County District court.

Formal charges of "soliciting and accepting bribes" were being prepared against Crumley and Raasch today.

PROSECUTOR DEMANDS ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR LUER KIDNAP SUSPECT

Edwardsville, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—In demanding the electrocution of Walter [Irish] O'Malley for kidnaping, Prosecutor M. L. Geers today pictured him as a bullying extortionist and the prime influence in the 1933 abduction of August Luer, wealthy Alton, Ill., banker.

"If we prove what I have told you," the prosecutor informed the jury, "that O'Malley was the head and shoulders of this crime, we shall expect you to bring in a verdict of guilty and fix the punishment of this man at death by electrocution."

The kidnaping of Luer has already resulted in life sentences for two and lighter prison terms for four others. O'Malley, dapper ex-convict, was trapped by department of justice agents at Kansas City last month after a search of nearly two years.

Two members of O'Malley's gang have been brought from prison to testify for the state against their one time leader. They are Mrs. Lillian Chessen, "finger woman," and Randolph Norvell, driver of the kidnap car, both serving life terms for the abduction.

Four business men from Minnesota, who stopped in Chicago on their way to the national convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Columbus, O., reported yesterday to the police that thieves had broken into their automobile and taken golf clubs and shoes valued at $400 while they were in the Subway café, 507 North Wabash avenue. The complainants are Michael L. Libera, Norman W. Schellhas, and Gordon R. Closway, all of Winona, and Charles Eldridge of St. Paul.

Heady, and Leonard Short, accused of taking $7,000 from the bank in a holdup last December.

EMBLEN IS GIVEN 1 TO 14 YRS. FOR BEATING DAICHES

Jury Decides Hoodlum's Fate in Hour and Half.

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Connolly, attempted robbery, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

Arthur Emblen, assault to murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

Arthur Emblen, 44 years old, Gary hoodlum, was sentenced to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer in the Criminal court on a charge of assault to murder. The state charged that on Jan. 24, 1933, the defendant entered the office of Eli Daiches, advertising agency executive, since slain by gunmen, and beat him on the head with a revolver.

The jury returned a guilty verdict after deliberation of an hour and a half. The court denied at once a motion for a new trial and pronounced the sentence. Emblen was given thirty days in which to perfect an appeal to the state Supreme court.

The History of the Case.

A confession by Emblen, introduced into evidence by the prosecution, said that Irving Weitzman, operator of a chain of bakeries on the south side, paid Emblen $1,000 to "put Daiches out of the way." When Emblen failed to kill the advertising executive, the state contended, the job was turned over to Walter Murphy and Jack London, Chicago hoodlums, who were paid $6,000.

The prosecution charged that Murphy and London in turn sublet the murder contract to Jerry Pilot, alcohol peddler, for $3,000. Pilot shot and killed Daiches at 53d street and the outer drive last March 3, according to a confession by Murphy, and then Pilot was slain by unidentified assassins in August.

Weitzman Connection with Affair.

Irving Weitzman was sentenced to life imprisonment on a charge of murder last February for his part in the killing of Daiches, and has an appeal pending in the state Supreme court. Murphy testified for the state at this trial, but Emblen, when called to the stand, refused to be a witness.

Weitzman's brother, Louis of New York, is controling stockholder in the Thomas M. Bowers Advertising agency, 304 South Wabash avenue, of which Daiches was president. Daiches carried more than $300,000 of insurance, with the agency as beneficiary.

Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart, who offered no testimony in defense for his client, charged in his closing argument that the state case against Emblen was "a frameup."

PARKS OFFERED $275,000 IN LIEU OF FAIR REPAIRS

Chicago park district commissioners yesterday considered the possibility of releasing A Century of Progress management from responsibility for restoring land formerly occupied by the Exposition upon the payment to the parks of $275,000. Maj. Lenox Lohr, manager of A Century of Progress, and Ralph Burke, chief engineer for the park district, recommended that such action be taken. Action was deferred until the next meeting of the park board.

Burke told the commissioners that the park engineering department desires to make certain changes in walks and drives and prefers not to have the original roadways and walks restored by the Fair officials.

The park board yesterday named W. I. Bell, assistant general superintendent of the park district, acting chief engineer to replace Burke, who is accepting the post of assistant works progress administrator for Illinois, under Robert J. Dunham, administrator.

INDICTS PEORIA RAPIST-SLAYER AS MURDERER

Grand Jury Spends Day Hearing Evidence.

Peoria, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—Gerald Thompson, 25, confessed rapist-slayer of Mildred Hallmark, 19, was indicted on a charge of murder here this afternoon.

The grand jury returned the indictment after spending all day listening to evidence presented in the slaying of the pretty waitress, whose body was found June 17 in Springdale cemetery.

John Hallmark, father of the girl, was the first witness called when the jury opened its session. John McGinnis, Bradley student, who accompanied Mildred to a show and saw her board a street car for home, followed.

Other witnesses were William McGarvey, Springdale cemetery teamster, who found the girl's nearly nude body with her coat flung over it, in a ditch in the cemetery, and Dr. E. C. Burhans, coroner's physician, whose autopsy showed the girl had died of a broken neck and that before she died she had been raped.

The girl's bloodstained clothes, the black diary in which Thompson chronicled his attacks on other girls, together with an album of nude pictures, were presented as evidence by State's Attorney E. V. Champion.

LICENSE ON ALL GAMBLING URGED AS CRIME CHECK

9 Chicago Leaders Send Open Letter to Horner.

Licensing not only of handbooks, but of all gambling, is urged in an open letter sent to Gov. Henry Horner and members of the state legislature yesterday by Prof. Ernest W. Burgess, University of Chicago sociologist. Prof. Burgess declares that such licensing measures "would be the greatest step forward since the repeal of national prohibition in the war against crime."

Eight other Chicagoans are listed in the letter as supporting Prof. Burgess' stand. Seven are members of the Chicago crime commission. They are: Frank J. Loesch, president; Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director, and William Bartholomay Jr., Newman F. Baker, C. W. Bergquist, Gerhardt F. Meyne and Nathaniel Leverone. The eighth is William A. Schlossman, a jewelry merchant, who served with Prof. Burgess on the coroner's jury that investigated the murder of Gus Winkler, north side gangster, in 1933.

Recall Winkler Findings.

Accompanying the letter is a report which is an outgrowth of disclosures concerning gambling made to the Winkler jury, supplemented by a private investigation Prof. Burgess has carried on ever since.

The Winkler jury, after summing up the evidence of gambling as presented before it, recommended a sweeping investigation of the situation with a view to licensing and regulating gambling establishments if anti-gambling laws could not be enforced.

"In the accompanying report," Prof. Burgess writes, "I have summed up the evidence in support of the position that gambling is inherent in human nature and, therefore, cannot effectively be suppressed." The professor points out the instinct as observable in young people, and argues that "the gambling impulse seems as strong, perhaps stronger, in women than in men."

"Not In Itself Immoral."

"Gambling is nonrational behavior, but it is not in itself immoral, nor a vice unless its excessive indulgence causes misery and suffering," the report continues. "The United States with its strong Puritan tradition is the only large country in the civilized world that does not permit and sanction gambling on a large scale."

The professor declares that it never has been possible in Chicago or any other large American city to repress gambling for long. Gambling has increased during the depression, Prof. Burgess says.

"Illegal gambling in Chicago," he writes, "is paying large dividends to the invisible government of organized crime." He estimates that handbooks and policy games pay criminals from $11,750,000 to $14,875,000 a year, about $500,000 of which is paid in graft to police.

Points to Prohibition's Lesson.

Prohibition proved, Prof. Burgess says, that it is impossible to make people good by legislation. He criticized reformers who, finding no pleasure in a nonrational activity such as gambling, attempt to prevent others from getting such pleasure.

"The next step in the war on crime," he says, "is to legalize gambling in Chicago. Legalizing handbooks is only a partial solution. All forms of gambling should be licensed." He suggests a referendum on an amendment to the state constitution to permit licensing of all gambling.

Summing up, Prof. Burgess predicts these benefits if Gov. Horner signs the handbook licensing bill now before him:

Organized crime will receive its most crushing blow since repeal.

The demoralizing effect of graft to police will be removed.

The liaison between stolen bonds and handbooks will be removed.

Handbook operators will return to respectability and the police to protection of lives and property.

Funds from gambling will go to the schools and to provide more police protection for Chicago.

Prof. Burgess in his letter praises Mayor Kelly for his strong and courageous stand in favor of legalized handbooks for Chicago.

Kelly Defends Stand.

Mayor Kelly again defended the handbook license bill yesterday. "It will," he said, "eliminate temptations that tend to corrupt law enforcement agencies. The main thing we must do is get our gambling license ordinance started right. The council will be able to halt legal gambling if it isn't right.

"We are making every possible effort now to keep handbooks closed, yet I know that some are operating. The worst feature of the present situation is that there is no public sentiment for punishment of handbook operators. It is illogical to say that gambling at race tracks is legal and gambling in cities is not.

"I shall take a lot of pride in helping to make handbooks legal business places and not hangouts for crooks."

In falling, Miss Crawshaw crashed through the wooden roof of a loading platform at 3546 Arthington street and landed on the top of a truck. FIND PILOT IN AIR CRASH IN WHICH 15 DIED SHOT SELF MEDELLIN, Colombia, June 25.—(AP)—Investigators poking into the charred, twisted ruins of two transport planes which crashed yesterday killing fifteen men, today uncovered evidence that one of the pilots apparently shot himself rather than burn to death.

A pistol containing an empty cartridge was found still grasped in the hand of one of the charred skeletons, believed to have been that of a German pilot trapped in his plane.

While four men, one of them an American, still lay injured as a result of South America's worst air disaster, the whole continent mourned Carlos Gardel, Argentina's famed "tango singer" and movie actor, and Ernesto Samper, noted Colombian pilot, who died in the crash. Of the remaining victims three were Americans.

Dealers Ask Arbitration to Prevent Milk Strike

Seeking to forestall a possible strike by milk wagon drivers, the Associated Milk Dealers yesterday offered to submit the dispute to impartial arbitration. The proposal was taken under advisement by union officials. The drivers are asking restoration of one of the two $5 pay cuts taken in 1932, and an increase in commission. Their salary now is $40 a week. After nine unsuccessful meetings with the dealers, they authorized their officials to call a strike.

HUGH S. JOHNSON HEADS NEW YORK WORKS PROGRAM

Named Chief of U.S. Relief in City Region.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—With a touch of irony Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, who as chief of the old NRA wanted to direct the 3 billion dollar public works setup, today was named to a minor post in the President's 4 billion dollar works relief program, successor to the PWA.

Gen. Johnson was named director of works relief for New York City at a White House conference. His task will be to coördinate the works relief program in the New York City region.

With a flash of his old fire as wielder of the NRA "crack down" club, Gen. Johnson told newspaper men he had laid down four conditions in resuming official relations with the administration.

Gets $7,800 for Expenses.

First, he said, he was to receive no compensation. He added, jutting out his chin, that he will receive $25 a day for expenses. The annual expense allowance of $7,800 a year is almost one-third more than the $6,000 a year salary he received during the greater portion of his NRA incumbency.

Second, he asked that the job terminate Oct. 1 unless he and the administration agree to its continuance. In this Johnson was seen as clearing his line of retreat against a repetition of severance with the New Deal such as he took from the NRA at the hands of Donald Richberg.

He stipulated he will devote a minimum of four days a week to his new post and be free at other times to conduct his own affairs. His maximum employment can be seven days a week.

Responsible to Hopkins.

His last condition was that he will consult with Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York as far as possible, but will report directly to Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins and be responsible to Hopkins alone. In this Johnson guarded himself from entanglement in the New York political situation.

Following the White House conference Hopkins issued an order stating that Johnson will be directly responsible to him. He notified Lester W. Herzog, New York state administrator, of Johnson's appointment with complete control in the city area.

The appointment came as Mayor La Guardia was attempting to have the ex-cavalryman made relief director for New York to clean up the city's relief scandals. Johnson was disposed to accept this appointment until he was offered the works relief post.

SUPERIOR COURT TO PASS AROUND CHANCERY PLUMS

An amendment to the rules of the Superior court governing the assignment and removal of judges from the chancery division is expected to be adopted Monday at the annual meeting of the Superior court judges.

Under the present rules which have been in existence since 1916, a judge once appointed to the chancery division could not be removed until the end of his term. It is proposed to amend this rule to permit the executive committee of the court to transfer from one division to another as they deem proper.

Attempts to end the "monopoly" in the chancery division, regarded as the "plum" of the courts because of the handling of receivership and foreclosure cases have been attempted in the past but have always been voted down. Passage of the amendment is virtually assured Monday, however, as 17 of the 28 judges already have expressed their intention of voting for the change.

SURPRISE AUDIT FINDS CITY TREASURY CASH ACCOUNTS PERFECT

A cash audit of the city treasurer's office, completed on June 18 by George Rossetter & Co., public accountants, showed $58,792,000 cash in the city and school funds and indicated that all accounts are in perfect order, according to Gustave A. Brand, city treasurer who succeeded James A. Kearns last April.

Approximately $12,000,000 of the cash on hand is contained in sinking funds, and most of the remaining money is earmarked for special assessment and water funds, and the retirement of tax anticipation warrants.

"This was a surprise audit, made without warning to the employés of the treasurer's office," Mr. Brand said. "It is my intention frequently to have such audits to protect fully the funds of the city of Chicago and the funds of the various pension boards intrusted to my care."

UNION MEN FACE TRIAL JULY 12 IN FLORIST SLUGGING

Fred Bohlman and Larry Monahan, union business agents, will go to trial before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington on July 12 for assault upon Peter Javaras, Oak Park florist slugged on June 12 for refusing to join the Florist Drivers' union.

Both men pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday. The case was then assigned to Judge Harrington. Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty urged an immediate trial, but the continuance was granted to enable Defense Attorneys James M. Burke and George Crane to study the evidence.

Later in the day E. J. Price and William Bibby, charged with attacking Gus Poulos, Javaras' partner in a cash and carry flower business at 1145 North Harlem avenue, Oak Park, obtained a week's continuance in the Oak Park police court.

Police Commissioner James P. Allman, commenting on the transfer back to their former stations yesterday of Sergt. Andrew Carroll and Policemen William McCullough and Norman Sims of the labor detail declared the shifts had nothing to do with the Oak Park case. The policemen were accused of interceding for union men arrested by Oak Park police in connection with the violence.

KEY BROTHERS ONLY TWO DAYS FROM AIR MARK

Meridian, Miss., June 25.—(AP)—Less than two days and nights separated Fred and Al Key, brothers, from a new world's endurance flight record tonight. The brothers were beset with troubles which they dismissed as "negligible," including Al's bad tooth and a punctured tire. At 3:32 p. m. the "Ole Miss" completed the 507th hour in the air since taking off June 4 in an effort to shatter the current record of 553 hours, 41 minutes and 30 seconds set by the Hunter brothers in Chicago in 1930.

Barring mishaps the Key brothers will equal the Hunter mark at 2:13½ p. m. Thursday and exactly one hour later will establish a new record, which if approved by the National Aeronautical association, will become the official world record.

PROPOSE AIRPORT HIGHWAY ON OLD I-M CANAL SITE

A plan for construction of a superhighway on the right of way of the old Illinois and Michigan canal, and improvement of Cicero avenue to create a speedy route to the city airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue, was submitted last evening to the federal public works administration and the state highway department by the West Central association.

The program as outlined by the association in a letter, calls for a total expenditure of $5,750,000. The route would have two branches at the east end of the old canal right of way. One route would lead directly to the new post office building and the other to the central business district. The association has voted in favor of the plan, according to Charles A. Snyder, executive vice president.

Orders McLaughlin Brought Here for Mail Loot Case

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday issued a writ for the return here of John J. [Boss] McLaughlin from Leavenworth penitentiary so he may be arraigned next Monday with 39 other defendants on charges of possessing and passing bonds stolen in the $250,000 mail robbery at Clark and Adams streets on Dec. 6, 1932. McLaughlin is now serving a prison sentence of five years for handling part of the $200,000 ransom in the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer. He was sentenced in Federal court in St. Paul.

Beginning next Monday, July 1, an amount approximately equivalent to 3% will be added to the prices of our merchandise on account of an increase in the Illinois Retailers' Occupation Tax. The additional charge until that date is 2%.

MOVE TO FORCE EARLY VOTE ON SOAK RICH BILL

Senate Committee Busy Drafting Measure.

the proposed inheritance taxes but the proposed increase in taxes on gifts.

In the last year as the enormous cost of the New Deal made more and more certain a move by the New Dealers to confiscate wealth the rich in large numbers have been transferring their property. This is indicated by the jump in the revenue from taxes on gifts from $8,995,648 in the first 11 months of the last fiscal year to $71,086,962 in the first 11 months of the current fiscal year.

Senator Harrison estimated that the proposed schedule of taxes would produce 340 millions a year. Government tax experts privately admitted skepticism and said that as a revenue measure the proposal is insignificant. They believe the proposals to be mainly political in nature since they will not produce much money, and even concede that they are "weak medicine" politically since they will not begin to satisfy radical share the wealth advocates like Senators Huey Long and Robert M. La Follette.

See 100 Million Yield.

The proposal to start inheritance taxes at 4 per cent on net inheritances of $300,000 and graduate them upward to maximum rates of 75 per cent on net inheritances of 10 million dollars probably will not produce more than 100 million dollars a year, according to the tax experts. They point out that existing estate taxes yield only slightly more than that, and the inheritance tax, which will be a secondary tax levied as the estates are distributed to heirs, cannot yield as much as the original estate tax.

Only a few of the biggest fortunes will fall into the heaviest tax brackets of the new plan, it is reported by experts who say that there are an average of eight heirs to an estate, thus making the distribution of $2,400,000, or $300,000 to each heir possible without any tax at all on the individual inheritances.

The treasury had announced publicly that it was considering an inheritance tax which would follow the income tax structure, starting at a low rate on very small inheritances and working up at least to 59 per cent on inheritances of one million dollars. This plan, a drastic redistributor of wealth, would also have yielded vast revenues.

Million Dollar Incomes Few.

Surtaxes on private net incomes over a million dollars, which now stand at a flat 59 per cent, will be graduated upward to a peak of 80 per cent on net incomes over 10 million dollars. In 1933, the last year for which the treasury has made public figures, only 46 persons nad net incomes over a million dollars, and of these, only one netted 5 million dollars or more. Even in the palmy days of 1929 there were only 504 incomes of a million dollars or more, 36 of 5 million or more.

Similarly treasury figures show that comparatively few corporations would be hit in the new rate proposals, which would start boosting taxes on corporate net incomes of $100,000 until a maximum of 17½ per cent was reached on corporate net incomes of 20 million dollars or more. Only four or five giant corporations, at least one of them in the automobile business, would be caught in the highest bracket of 20 million dollars or more.

Procedure Is Attacked.

Representative Samuel B. Hill [Dem., Wash.], chairman of the house ways and means tax subcommittee, vigorously denounced the origination of the President's tax bill in the senate. The constitution provides that revenue measures shall originate in the house. Speaker Byrns said there was nothing unusual in the procedure which is technically the amendment of the house nuisance tax extension bill by the senate, but he objected to jamming through in four days legislation that requires mature consideration.

Representative B. H. Snell of New York, the Republican leader in the house, said the program to "burden the people with heavy taxes" represents a confession by the President that he cannot spend his way out of the depression.

"His new but nebulous tax plan which he has ordered congress to jam through in the next five days must make every one painfully aware of the reckless extravagances of Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal administration," Mr. Snell added.

Sees Dictator Evidence.

"If more evidence was needed that the President believes himself to be a dictator, his order to a bewildered congress to take what he says as he says it about new taxes and do it quickly furnishes it. Once more Mr. Roosevelt has shown his utter disregard of the rights and duties of congress. He is trying to 'strong arm' the legislators just as he tried, unsuccessfully, to 'strong arm' the constitution. His orders, one would be led to believe, come from on high. There must be no question; there cannot be disregard of them. Why, even the speaker of the house, Mr. Byrns, if he was quoted correctly last night in commenting on the tax program, said: 'Perhaps the President will let us put the rates in the bill, but, of course, I do not know.'

"The demand that congress again submit itself to the speed mania apparent at the White House has an obvious political tinge to it. In the first place, Mr. Roosevelt seeks to divert public attention from the death blow given his program by the Supreme court. Secondly, he is evidently trying to out-Huey Huey Long in play for radical votes.

"There can be no justification for the five day speed demanded for the enactment of such a momentous piece of legislation. This action mania already has led to enough ill-considered, half baked legislation. Congress and the country should now demand ample time in which to study this proposal. Hearings should be held and if this bill comes to the capitol as have others of the New Deal's crazy quilt program, time will be needed to perfect it, even if it is to protect the administration against itself."

Protests Are Made.

Senator Harrison, at the opening of the session today, explained that he had served notice of his intention to call up the joint resolution extending the nuisance taxes of some 500 million dollars for another year.

"I shall not do that today because of important developments, but I hope to be able to call it up tomorrow," Harrison said, adding that his finance committee would take up the matter at 4 o'clock.

"It seems to me that the senate is about to proceed with unseemly haste upon a tax program of this kind," Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, declared. "Is it the intention of the chairman of the finance committee to proceed without hearings?"

"We have not decided upon any hearings," Harrison replied.

"Do you think it is possible to submit a program today and pass it by Saturday night?" McNary inquired.

Harrison, grinning broadly, said he thought it would be impossible "to have hearings and pass it by Saturday night."

McNary then inquired whether Harrison had considered the constitutionality of adding such amendments to the pending resolution.

"This resolution is a mere shadow and the substance of the legislation is the proposed amendments," McNary declared. "Under the constitution that cannot be done, for revenue legislation must originate in the house of representatives."

Harrison contended that as the tax extension measure having originated in the house the senate could amend it in any manner or add such amendments as it saw fit.

"That is, if a majority of the senate votes to do that," he added, grinning again.

"I heard the President's message and the clear implication was that he did not want this program enacted until the next session," McNary protested. "It is not fair to those who have been here all this time. Wouldn't it be fairer to let the committees consider this matter and then come back in the fall?"

Senator Harrison, who had consistently maintained this very position until the White House conference last night, replied ironically:

"That viewpoint has been held by some."

Questioned by Clark.

Senator Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.] then wanted to know whether it was the intention of the leaders to force the amendments through with the tax extension resolution this week.

"I was one of those who signed the round robin to stay here all summer if necessary to enact the President's program," he declared.

"Yes, that round robin had a good deal of influence upon the present situation, too," said Harrison, forcing another grin.

Harrison is a conservative at heart and nobody opposed action at this session on the share-the-wealth program more than he did. His position reminded spectators of Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], chairman of the appropriations committee, who managed the President's 5 billion dollar work relief bill hoping all the time that he would be defeated.

Forced by Round Robin.

His ironic grin and sarcastic speech indicated a full realization that Mr. Roosevelt's hand was forced by the round robin circulated by Senator Robert La Follette [Radical, Wis.], and the taunts of Huey Long, Louisiana's "kingfish," who allowed the share-the-wealth message was an "empty gesture."

"When I signed that round robin," Senator Clark continued, "that didn't mean that I'd vote for any snapshot drafts sent up here by the treasury department. We meant we would stay here all summer and study this program before passing it. If this is voted on Saturday night I want to say right now that it will be very late Saturday night."

"O, these are no snapshot estimates," said Harrison. "We have some most extraordinary experts in the treasury department.

Says Government Will Lose.

"It is necessary for action this week because the government will lose from a million and a half to two million dollars a day if these miscellaneous taxes are not extended before June 30," he said. "I hope it won't be necessary to stay here late Saturday night, but if we have to we'll do that."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] asked Harrison whether he was now proposing to pursue a course which his own committee had rejected less than a week ago. He had reference to the committee's rejection of La Follette's "billion dollar" amendments to the extension resolution. Harrison at that time argued vehemently against "complicating this resolution with new legislation that might imperil its passage in time." He told his colleagues that the President himself was opposed to such a plan.

In reply to Senator Vandenberg's question Harrison said:

"There have been some very great developments since then."

"Senator Vandenberg further inquired:

"Is it fair to ask the rest of us to take Senator Long's program when he's the only one that's had a chance to inquire into it?" That would be a matter, Harrison replied, for the senators' individual consciences.

Robinson Comes to Rescue.

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson put an end to this embarrassing situation by moving the regular order of business, which was the calendar.

Other developments in the senate included the introduction of a bill in the form of a substitute for the joint resolution by Senator Murray [Dem., Mont.], designed to raise a billion dollars. He proposed maximum corporation profits and inheritance tax rates of 82 per cent and, like Senator La Follette's amendments, would increase the normal income tax rate from 4 to 6 per cent and start the surtax at $4,000.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], who demanded action on the President's program on Sunday, calling it a "share the burden of government," rather than a "share the wealth" scheme, was one of those who expressed disappointment at Harrison's estimate of 340 million dollars.

"That would pay only a third of the cost of the bill we passed yesterday," said Senator Borah, referring to the billion dollar Bankhead farm tenant bill.

"This 340 million dollar program bears no blood relationship to my plan," wailed Huey Long. "It won't distribute the wealth."

GIFT TAXES.

Three-quarters of the rates on inheritances.

The income tax rates compare with a present levy of 59 per cent on all over $1,000,000.

The present corporation tax is a flat 13¾ per cent on net income, with a 2 per cent penalty for filing consolidated returns.

There is no present tax on inheritances, although the federal government taxes estates before their distribution. The proposed inheritance tax would be added to the present levy on estates.

The gift tax would be imposed to prevent avoidance of the inheritance tax. There is a present gift tax with rates similarly comparable to the prevailing rates on estates which reach a maximum of 60 per cent on the excess over $10,000,000.

'SOAK THE RICH' TAX HELD BLOW AT 'LITTLE MAN'

Trust Experts Here Sure Big Estates Are 'Safe.'

BY HOWARD WOOD.

President Roosevelt's "share the wealth" proposal will not hit the very wealthy, but will settle heavily upon the moderately well to do and ultimately will force liquidation of many privately owned corporations, a series of interviews with trust companies and tax attorneys disclosed yesterday.

The "soak the rich" scheme, inspired by the New Dealers' desire to steal Huey Long's thunder and eliminate him as a possible third party threat in 1936, it was found, will not "soak" the very rich, for the reason that they have for several years been perfecting means of insulating themselves against just such an emergency.

Estate Shifting Long Practiced.

Prior to the passage of the revenue act of 1932, which raised the rates of estate taxes and instituted the gift tax as a means of preventing the evasion of estate taxes, individuals of vast weatlh, either in direct gifts or through trusts, conveyed to their sons, daughters and other potential heirs vast portions of their estates.

Thus the "share the wealth" scheme promises to result in a hollow mockery of the elaborate propaganda which ushers it in, and the only rich who would be soaked during the first decade or so are younger people who die unexpectedly and a scattered few of the older generation who failed to seize upon the means of avoiding the heavy hand of the tax collectors that the laws of the land provided before passage of the 1932 act.

Henry Ford, for example, is shown by published reports to have already conveyed to his son, Edsel, the great bulk of his holdings in the Ford Motor company.

Andrew Mellon, the one-time possessor of another of America's greatest fortunes, disclosed in the recent hearings of the government's tax suit against him that he already had given his son large portions of his estate, including control of his richest property, Aluminum company of America.

John D. Rockefeller Sr., according to reports published by the Securities and Exchange corporation, has transferred to his son, John D. Jr., some 75 per cent of his great oil company investments.

According to trust company officers and income tax attorneys in Chicago the same is true of the great majority of the nation's wealthiest citizens. This question will probably mean that the rosy estimates of the New Dealers concerning the revenues to be derived from such taxes will prove to be grossly exaggerated.

Many Estates Already Secure.

That so many of the country's wealthy citizens have taken the advice of their tax counsel and have anticipated the current series of estate and gift tax increases probably explains the small stir created by President Roosevelt's announcement of his intention to put the "share the wealth" scheme into effect.

Trust companies report that they have had numerous inquiries from worried clients during the last few days, but that all of them have been persons of only moderate wealth.

One such individual yesterday visited the trust department of a loop bank and disclosed that the tax increases proposed would, in the event of the death of himself and his two associates—all elderly men—force the dissolution and liquidation of the small manufacturing corporation which represents the bulk of their holdings. This, they explained, would throw several hundred men out of work.

Chance to Mitigate Effects.

For those individuals who did not see the handwriting on the wall before the revenue act of 1932 increased estate taxes and instituted the gift tax there are no means of avoiding the tax, according to experts. They can, however, mitigate the effects of the estate tax by giving their funds away to their heirs either in the form of outright gifts or by the establishment of irrevocable trusts. Transference of funds abroad offers no great measure of protection because the estate tax applies to property held abroad, except real estate.

Tax attorneys say they are advising their clients who have not yet taken steps to avoid the prospective tax increases to wait until the senate finance committee reports the proposed bill to the senate in order to see just what the technical provisions of the bill are likely to be.

Real Estate a Loophole.

An indication of the extent to which individuals of wealth have been protecting themselves against exorbitant tax increases for years is seen in the great proportion of metropolitan real estate which is held in trust.

Once placed in the proper kind of trust this property is not subject to estate taxes even when passing to the third and fourth generations, attorneys say.

APPRAISING SERVICE ASSAILED IN PERSONAL TAX COMPLAINT CASE

The methods of the Tax Service Association of Illinois, tax appraisers at 228 North La Salle street, in behalf of personalty tax payers drew criticism from the assessor's office in a hearing yesterday before the board of appeals.

The hearing was on a complaint filed by the association in behalf of the Bastian-Blessing company, 240 East Ontario street, seeking a reduction of the $127,771 assessed valuation on the company's personalty for 1934 and fixed by the assessor's office at $50,692, the valuation claimed by the association in a schedule which it filed for the company.

Criticism of the association's methods in making out the schedule for the company was expressed at the hearing by John E. Battle, head of the personal property division of Assessor Clark's office. Battle explained that his office had been forced to reject the schedule because of apparent discrepancies in the return as compared with the assessment of the previous year.

FISHERMEN KILL DEER NEAR ELGIN; PAY FINES OF $50

Two fishermen who turned huntsmen were fined $50 each by County Judge Olney C. Allen of Kane county in Geneva yesterday, after pleading guilty of killing a deer in violation of the game laws.

The men are Harry Schroeder and Harry Scheible of Elgin. They were arrested a week ago by Deputy Game Warden Clarence Madison. In brief, this is the sequence of events that led to their court appearance:

Schroeder and Scheible were fishing in the Fox river just south of Elgin when they saw a buck and doe swimming from the mainland to a small island. Schroeder seized a rifle he had brought along on the fishing excursion and raised the gun to shoot. Scheible, insisting that he was the better shot, demanded the gun.

Meanwhile, the deer swam leisurely to the island, so Schroeder was commissioned to flush them into the open. As he did this Scheible shot the doe. The men were hiding their venison when the game warden happened along.

OPEN INVESTIGATION INTO CONDITIONS IN COLONY IN ALASKA

PALMER, Alaska, June 25.—(AP)—A thorough investigation of conditions in the government's Matanuska valley colonization project was started today as two factions expressed widely divergent views on whether it is being mismanaged.

Eugene Carr, representing the Federal Relief administration, is conducting the investigation. The colonists themselves disagreed widely. Carr sought facts from both sides on the chief points, namely:

How many are dissatisfied? Is the food good? Is the corporation restricting the activities and possible crops of the colonists too strictly, through contracts signed before they were brought here? Is construction work proceeding rapidly? Is it a good agricultural region? How are sanitary conditions? Are the mosquitoes bad? Are there enough men to complete construction before the snow flies?

HOME MAKERS TAKE WALLOP AT MODEL KITCHEN

No Longer Key to Family Life, Says TVA Expert.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

A score of problems touching the American home were considered yesterday by nearly 2,000 members of the American Home Economics association, who are holding their annual convention at the Palmer house. During the day they heard discussions of nutrition problems, textiles, family economics, and social insurance, housing, and institutional management.

Some tips to housewives who are planning new homes, drawn from the experience of the Tennessee Valley authority in constructing its model villages, were given by Earle S. Draper, director of the TVA division of land planning and housing. TVA architects, he said, eschewed so-called "model" kitchens in the belief that the designers of such models too often forgot that "the living requirements of people are as variable as the people themselves."

Sink Is Key to Kitchen.

The sink was made the work center of the TVA kitchen, with cupboard space above for dishes and groceries. On one hand was placed the pantry and refrigerator, on the other the electric range. Architects tried to give the housewife as attractive a view from her kitchen window as from other windows in the house.

"One rule," continued Mr. Draper, "has been to provide as many useful closets as there are rooms in our houses. But let us hasten to add that waste space is waste space no matter how much you misname it. For purposes of accessibility and to prevent waste and clutter, the majority of the closets are wide and shallow."

The home economist looks upon the housing problem primarily as one of providing a setting for satisfactory family life, Helen W. Atwater, chairman of the association's committee on housing, said in a report on the subject. While every one admits this primary function in theory, the special interests of such groups as architects, builders, real estate men, and financing agencies often cause them to neglect it in practice, she said, and for that reason home economists should be consulted in planning housing projects.

Homestead Life Compels Training.

Housewives on subsistence homesteads must have intensive training in home economics if those projects are to be a success, said Miss Mary Rokahr of the United States department of agriculture extension service. The knack of making money go farther and of using family resources wisely always has been best known to the farm housewife, Miss Rokahr said. The city housewife transplanted to a subsistence farm must be taught the arts of breadmaking, cheese, butter and soap making and gardening, she said.

Such dishes as sauerbraten and spareribs with sauerkraut may have new dietary recommendations in their favor, it was indicated in a report by Jessamine Chapman Williams and Maple Cole Beals of Oregon State college before the section on food and nutrition. Meat cooked with food acids, they found, can be used as a substitute for milk in providing calcium for the adult diet.

Chinese Diets Studied.

They made their discovery in an investigation of the diet of the Chinese, seeking to discover how that race, which drinks little milk, got the proper amount of calcium for bone building. Their research showed that for centuries the Chinese have cooked meat with rice vinegar, which yielded a food sufficiently rich in calcium. Spareribs cooked with cider vinegar give assimilable calcium, the investigators found.

The practice of Chicago relief authorities of giving commodity instead of cash relief was criticized by Miss Florence Nesbitt on the ground that it tends to break down the family.

Management "Mother's Job."

"Such a plan," said Miss Nesbitt, "takes away from the mother her management of the household, and much of the bitterness against all kinds of relief comes from this practice. This job of managing food and provisions belongs to the mother, and any other way serves to break down the family."

While poverty and economic security are not novelties in American life in the past, it is the waning hope of a large part of the population of escaping from such conditions which has popularized the New Deal "social security" program, it was asserted by Mrs. Helen Fisher Hohman, social scientist and former member of the Northwestern university faculty.

Women Blamed in Money Problems.

"Faulty money management on the part of wives and daughters is responsible more than anything else for unhappiness within the home," said Mrs. Arthur R. Williams of Normal, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, in addressing a joint session of the congress and the economics association.

Masculine good will in the treatment of home problems generally came in for recognition at yesterday's session. As the presiding officer at the forum, Mrs. J. K. Pettengill of Lansing, Mich., first vice president of the National P.-T. A. congress, pointed out that parent-teacher work has grown out of the mother-young child concept. "Father and son groups are of equal importance in this work," she said.

Part After Quarrel

Hollywood, Cal., June 25.—[Special.]—Margaret Sullavan, movie star, today admitted she and her recently acquired husband, William Wyler, movie director, had "separated after a tiff," but added that the separation might be impermanent and that she has not thought of divorce. She is residing in her own apartment.

The couple gave up their Bel Air mansion recently when the disagreement arose. "It's a shame a marriage tiff has to bring up rumors of divorce," she said.

Russia Buys Only on Long Credit, Says Amtorg Chief

The Russian government will continue to import goods that will aid in developing domestic industry and manufacturing, but will buy heavily only when the sellers grant long term credits, according to Ivan V. Boyeff, chairman of the board of the Amtorg Trading corporation and former vice commissar of foreign trade in the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. Mr. Boyeff lectured yesterday at the University of Chicago under the sponsorship of the Norman Wait Harris Memorial foundation.

SEEK SOLUTION TO CAFE KILLING; HEARING TODAY

Police last night were seeking a solution of the murder early yesterday of Frank Noto, 35 years old, petty gambler and card sharp, in preparation for a hearing this morning in the Criminal court on a writ of habeas corpus. The writ was filed in behalf of Nathan Treger, 37 years old, 3710 Leland avenue, an ex-convict, who is held as a suspect.

FRANK NOTO.

Capt. John Norton of the Maxwell street station also was seeking Dominick Sacca, owner of the Norge inn, a restaurant at 901 South Halsted street, in front of which Noto was shot to death. Sacca was acquitted of murder in 1920 and in 1926 was involved with the federal government on a counterfeiting charge.

Sacca's wife, Louise, 33 years old, and Dominick Rositani, 4032 Fifth avenue, a waiter, who were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, declared the owner had left early in the evening. Mrs. Sacca and Rositani were being held as witnesses.

Policeman John Barry was reporting to his station from the call box at Taylor and Halsted streets at 1 a. m. yesterday when he heard six shots fired and saw Noto stumble to the sidewalk in front of the Norge inn. He ran inside and found Treger stuffing a .38 caliber revolver into his pocket. The gun had been fired six times.

Treger asserted two men ran through the restaurant after the shooting and dropped the gun, which he had picked up. Mrs. Sacca and the waiter denied this.

ASSEMBLYMAN'S SON FACES QUIZ ON CRASH TODAY

Expect Action on 'Hushed Up' Collision Charge.

Otto H. Schulz, 2035 West 18th street, a postoffice guard, expects to receive word from the state's attorney's office today as to whether or not he can prosecute Roy D. O'Keefe, 3127 Marmora avenue, as the result of an automobile accident in Oaklawn, Sunday, June 9, in which Schulz charges that O'Keefe recklessly drove his automobile into the Schulz car.

O'Keefe is an employé of the Illinois Industrial commission and a son of Raymond T. O'Keefe, a member of the lower house in the state legislature, representing the 25th district. Schulz filed a complaint with the state's attorney's office last week.

Orders Complete Inquiry.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley ordered a complete investigation of the accident before sanctioning a warant. Assistant State's Attorney Ben Nelson has been questioning witnesses for nearly a week and hopes to conclude his investigation today with the questioning of O'Keefe. The latter was to have appeared yesterday, but obtained a day's delay after making a telephone call to the prosecutor's office.

Schulz charges that O'Keefe was speeding at sixty miles on 103d street when his car was struck by O'Keefe's at the Crawford avenue intersection. Schulz told the prosecutor that the impact turned his car over twice before it came to a stop in a roadside ditch.

Mrs. Schulz and her son were injured and needed medical attention, Schulz charged. Schulz also suffered injuries to one foot which caused him to remain at home for several days, he said.

Quotes Policeman on "Speeding."

Immediately after the accident, Schulz charges, Policeman Niel Mooi of the Oak Lawn police department arrived on the scene and announced that he had been chasing O'Keefe, whom he said was speeding. The O'Keefe car, according to Schulz, was equipped with official stars, front and rear. When the policeman saw the stars and learned the driver's identity he "changed his tune," according to Schulz.

Schulz told the state's attorney that the policeman refused to allow him to lodge a complaint against O'Keefe unless Schulz also submitted to arrest on a counter complaint. As a result no action was taken at the police station.

Assistant Prosecutor Nelson questioned Policeman Mooi and Chief of Police Fred O'Brien of Oak Lawn. Mooi denied that he had said he was chasing O'Keefe for speeding. He said that on the way to the police station Schulz said he wanted to sign a complaint against O'Keefe. Chief O'Brien said that Schulz and O'Keefe conferred in a corner in the police station and that Schulz then announced "he was satisfied as long as O'Keefe took care of all the damages as he promised."

NEW DEAL FARM ELECTRIFICATION CHIEF TO SPEAK

Morris L. Cooke, head of the Rural Electrification administration, will arrive from Washington today to address the 53d annual convention of the National Association of Master Plumbers. He will speak on rural plumbing projects this morning in the Stevens hotel.

Speakers at the convention yesterday were Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war in the Hoover cabinet, and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health.

Hurley spoke against coercion in government measures. Dr. Bundesen reviewed the work of a testing laboratory established here, through the coöperation of plumbers and the board of health, after the Chicago amebic dysentery outbreak for the purpose of studying and correcting faulty plumbing in large buildings and hotels.

EX-WAUKEGAN MAYOR'S WIFE DIES IN CRASH

Mrs. Edith Buck, 57 years old, was killed and her husband, Fred, former mayor of Waukegan, was injured yesterday in an automobile accident on Milwaukee avenue, one mile south of Libertyville. The Bucks' car apparently skidded on the wet pavement, smashed into a culvert and overturned.

Physicians at the Condell hospital in Libertyville said that Mr. Buck would recover. He is suffering from shock. Mr. Buck is head of the Waukegan Safe Deposit company.

Samuel Dabras, 50 years old, 818 Blue Island avenue, died in Mother Cabrini hospital yesterday of injuries suffered two weeks ago when he was struck by an automobile at Gilpin place and Sibley street. Daniel Bastos, 35 years old, 739 South Leavitt street, driver of the car, will be arraigned in South State Street court on July 5 on a charge of reckless driving

With one death yesterday the Cook county motor toll for 1935 stood at 438. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 351 persons had been killed in motor accidents within the city limits and 7,463 had been injured. Yesterday's victim:

William McDowell, 74 years old, 6812 Emerald avenue. Died in the County hospital of injuries incurred June 16 when he was struck by an automobile at 63d and Halsted streets. Policeman Charles E. Balcom, the driver of the car, was not held, but is expected to appear at the inquest today at the county morgue.

ANNUAL SAFETY CHECK ON AUTOS, ALDERMAN'S AIM

Ald. John A. Massen [48th] announced yesterday that he will introduce an ordinance in the city council requiring an annual safety inspection of Chicago automobiles as soon as permissive legislation, approved by the legislature and now before Gov. Horner for signature, becomes law. Ald. Massen is chairman of the council's committee on trafic and public safety.

The inspection bill, introduced by Rep. Drennan J. Slater [Rep., 6th] provides that any city or town in the state, with a population of 40,000 or more, may pass ordinances requiring the resident owner of a motor vehicle to submit it to inspection by municipal authorities not oftener than semi-annually.

"The inspection of automobiles to insure that brakes, lights, windshield wipers, wheel alignment and other mechanical features are in good condition is necessary to the safety of both motorists and pedestrians in Chicago," Ald. Massen said yesterday.

The proposed ordinance will provide that the costs of inspection be taken from the city's vehicle license funds, the alderman said.

MAYOR EXPLAINS CAR UNITY HOPES UNDER HOME RULE

City Gains Added Power in Transit Negotiations.

The city will get the right to establish lines of transportation parallel to any now existing in its streets, under the transportation home rule bill passed last night by the state senate, concurring in house amendments, Mayor Kelly said yesterday. The measure now goes to Gov. Horner for his approval.

Mayor Kelly pointed out that such a right would give the city a great advantage in negotiating the terms of a transit ordinance providing for the unification of local transportation facilities.

At present the city must go before the Illinois Commerce commission to get traction changes, but the new measure restores the streets to the city and provides a short cut toward an understanding with all local transportation agencies, the mayor pointed out.

Will Build, If Necessary.

"If necessary, the city can authorize the building of opposition lines to compete with any company refusing to be reasonable in traction negotiations," the mayor said. "Not only that, but the city itself will take such steps, if necessary.

"Transportation is now going to be discussed and settled in a fair and open manner and in a way to benefit the public," he continued. "We will want all of the lines in a unified system, but it is not going to be absolutely necessary. We can establish new lines, if we must. The point is that no one company will be permitted to boost its valuations under the supposition that it can hold up unification if its terms are not met.

Bans High Surface Lines Figure.

"For example, the city will not countenance a $160,000,000 valuation for the Chicago Surface Lines properties, and no such valuation will be accepted while I continue as mayor. I am sure that the council agrees with me in this position.

"The bus lines also will be under the supervision of the city when the new home rule bill becomes a law. This means that the Chicago Motor Coach company is going to pay revenue to the city for the use of its streets. It will pay or the buses will not run.

Seeks Mutual Agreements.

"We're hoping that the transportation companies will see the new order of things and agree among themselves on a policy of greatest benefit to the public, the city, and themselves. But, whatever happens, there is going to be a 'new deal' in transportation for the public."

Mayor Kelly returned to Springfield last evening to follow the progress of measures creating permanent fair and lakefront airport authorities which are pending before the legislature. He expected to return to the city late tomorrow.

Gathered in Week

The Chicago Rapid Transit company in the last week has received 601,989 ballots from elevated riders indorsing the company's proposed extension of service by installing feeder bus lines, it was announced yesterday. The ballots will be turned over to the Illinois Commerce commission, whose authority is required to put the program into effect.

Street Car Hitch Hiker Brushed Off by Truck

While stealing a ride on the rear of a one man street car yesterday in 59th street, Willis Holland, 17 years old, of St. Joseph, Mo., was knocked off when the car passed a truck parked in front of 145 West 59th street. He was taken to the county hospital with a possible skull fracture.

WORKS PROGRESS SETUP FOR STATE GETS UNDER WAY

Organization of the Works Progress Administration for Illinois was put under way yesterday by Robert J. Dunham, in charge of the Illinois share of President Roosevelt's $4,880,000,000 federal works program. Dunham called in Illinois emergency relief commission officials from all parts of the state to acquaint them with the plans of the works administration.

"We do not intend to use IERC offices in carrying out the works progress program, but we feel that in many cases the experiences of the emergency relief officials will assist our work," said Dunham. "Only persons on relief rolls will be employed in works progress projects."

Harry L. Hopkins, federal works progress administrator, has ruled, according to Dunham, that if one of a family is in the Civilian Conservation corps, some other member of the same family is not ineligible on that account for a works project job.

At a luncheon in the Blackstone hotel yesterday Dunham asked the "Citizens Committee on Art and Music in the Chicago Park District" to develop work progress projects that would benefit "white collar" unemployed. The committee named Chauncey McCormick chairman and announced its plan to promote a movable art exhibit to be shown in the fall in park district fieldhouses.

BAKER ASKS TAX EXEMPTION CURB ON RED SCHOOLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—Senator Charles W. Baker [Rep., Davis Junction], sponsor of the Illinois senate's investigation of alleged subversive teachings in state tax exempt colleges and universities, tonight made public the minority report he will submit to the senate as covering his findings.

In brief, his report recommends a continuation of the investigation, repeal of tax exemptions from universities giving aid to communism, and that the University of Chicago, the only school on which the senate committee held hearings, require its professors to cease allowing the name of the university to be connected with those who are engaged in communistic propaganda.

Inquiry Bill Defeated.

Senator Baker released his report after the senate by a vote of 23 to 9 had killed his bill that would have created a commission of five senators and five representatives to continue the inquiry report to the next general assembly.

"There should be more time for this investigation," said Senator Baker in support of his measure. "The senate committee could have gone further, but a majority of its members saw fit to adjourn. I wanted at least one more hearing, and wanted to pay an attorney out of my pocket to handle the cross-examination, but this was denied me."

"Your attorney sat in at the last hearing we held and said nothing," said Senator Richey V. Graham [Dem., Cicero], the committee chairman.

Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston], whom Baker charges practically took over control at the committee's hearings, added an impassioned speech. Red in the face, he shouted that the committee had held three hearings, giving each side an opportunity to be heard and to present all its evidence.

"Baker's report makes an attack on me," he said. "I have three universities in my district, and I do not intend that these universities should be destroyed."

Rakes U. of C. Meetings.

In his report Baker scored the ease with which communistic meetings were held and communistic organizations formed on the campus of the University of Chicago. He charged that the university drove off the campus the Public Policy association, formed to provide a rallying point for those who believed in good citizenship.

Prof. Harry D. Gideonse of the university's economics department, he said, recommended disbanding this organization.

"If at the University of Chicago young men imbued with the spirit of Americanism cannot organize societies to serve as a rallying point for those who have faith in America," the report says, "then I maintain the university has lost its usefulness and should not flourish under state tax exemption.

"The vaunted liberty of discussion on the campus seems to mean liberty for the communist sympathizers to denounce our country, but not for the good citizens to defend it."

The senate inquiry was begun after Charles R. Walgreen, head of a drug store chain, had withdrawn his niece, Lucille Norton, from the University of Chicago. In his digest of testimony presented to the senate, Baker referred frequently to Miss Norton's testimony, finding that she was required to read the communist manifesto, read excerpts from the Russian primer and was taught that the family is disintegrating.

IF THEY VOTE AS THEY DRIVE, LEGISLATORS MAY KILL SPEED LAWS

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—If they vote the way they drive, members of the 59th general assembly will repeal the 45 mile an hour prima facie speed limit in Illinois.

Over the concrete highways leading to the state capitol early this morning hummed high powered automobiles with the "I gotta drag" stars that the legislators retained for themselves in 1931 when they outlawed similar emblems for other drivers. The cars were traveling 50, 60, and in a few instances 65 and 75 miles an hour.

"Because of those stars," said Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Mundelein], "we enjoy an immunity from unwaranted arrest for exceeding the 45 mile an hour limit. We can give all drivers this same immunity from this weapon of the shakedown cops by repealing the prima facie limit."

"The instructions to state and Cook county highway police are not to arrest careful motorists doing better than 45," said Representative John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago], author of the bill to repeal the prima facie limit that has passed the house and is pending in the senate. "This proves that honest policing does not require the 45 mile an hour limit.

"It's the shakedown cops who exercise the 45 mile an hour speed restriction."

committee on first and second reading.

This leaves for senate action only its bills on third reading, which also must pass the house, and the house bills on various stages of the legislative process. The senate also will be asked to concur in amendments that the house tacked on to some of the senate bills.

Two Bills Killed.

Among the bills killed were one that would limit expenditures of candidates for public office and another that would require a vote of two-thirds of either house in expelling a member. The latter bill was an outgrowth of the senate ouster of Arthur J. Bidwill, Republican, in favor of Senator Charles F. Baumrucker [Dem., River Forest].

The senate executive committee today took a hand in the aftermath of the Baumrucker-Bidwill contest. Bills totaling nearly $7,000 had been submitted to it for approval. The committee, however, gave authority for the payment of $2,725.

One of the bills, introduced by Senator John M. Lee [Dem., Chicago] and sponsored by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, would extend the powers of policemen and private persons to make arrests.

Policemen would be empowered to make arrests without a warant for any criminal offense being committed at the time, even though the policeman did not know the offense was being committed. He also could arrest without warant when he had reasonable grounds to believe that a criminal offense had been committed and the person to be arrested had committed it.

Private persons could make arrests without a warant where a felony had been committed and where they had reasonable ground to believe the person to be arrested committed the felony.

Three Other Bills Passed.

The other three bills would give cities authority to apply for grants or loans from the federal government in connection with the federal 4 billion work relief program; give cities the right to tax barber and beauty shops and lumber yards, and would permit school trustees to compromise claims of district arising from deposits in closed banks.

When objections arose, the senate delayed a vote on concurrence on an amendment attached to the senate bill applying the 3 per cent sales tax to utilities.

In the afternoon session Gov. Horner submitted the appointment of Martin J. O'Brien, former city collector and former chief clerk of the Sanitary district, as public administrator of Cook county to the senate for concurrence. O'Brien is a member of the insurance firm of Horan and O'Brien.

LEWIS PICTURES NEW DIPLOMACY TO LEGISLATURE

Future Foreign Policy Is Envisioned.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—For forty minutes today the Illinois legislature gave ceremonious attention to United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis who envisioned a new American foreign policy midway between the tight theories of the isolationists and the wide open dictums of the internationalists.

Choosing his illustrations from as variant sources as Shakespeare's Hamlet and his own experience at the Versailles peace conference, Senator Lewis came in a leisurely course to the meat of his address and declared that, in the future, "when the United States is called upon to negotiate with foreign nations, particularly on international policies of commerce, finance or peace, she will summon the interested nations one by one."

Calls Method Necessary.

This will afford each nation the opportunity to deal for itself with the United States on terms agreed to by each nation separately. The method is necessary to prevent the failure of international conferences caused by the presence of other foreign representatives."

The world court and league of nations then came in for denunciation.

"The hour is now upon the United States," said Senator Lewis, "for a bold declaration that there will be no alliance between America and foreign nations and no contributions by America of money or influence in behalf of any foreign combatant in conflict. America will stand separate, independent and sovereign within her rights and privileges as a great nation of the world.

Warns of "Peril of War."

"The United States is in peril of war," asserted Illinois' senior senator. "It must be remembered that our country was drawn into the world war as the result of no precautions being made to prepare for it. That exact situation again threatens the United States in the complications between Europe and Asia—in the advances of armies and navies."

Italy moves to take possessions in Africa, Mr. Lewis declared; France suspects Italy of advancing upon new areas in the Mediterranean and France revives an old alliance with Russia, "accepting soviet Russia in the status that old Russia held to royal France."

Senator Lewis sees the Franco-soviet alliance as one "to obstruct the advance of England into further control of Asia by way of India." And at the same time, he said, "Germany, seeing France and Russia as her old foes, makes a military partnership with England. England sees the threat of Japan to drive her out of China. Italy returns to alliance with Austria, Serbia, and Czecho-Slovakia, and prepares to fight all opponents."

NAVAL BUILDING BILL IS SIGNED; 24 NEW SHIPS

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed the navy appropriation bill providing a record peace-time fund for naval construction.

The 460 million dollar bill carried among other things an appropriation for starting 24 new warships and for purchasing 555 airplanes. Of the planes, 282 are for replacements and 273 for outright increases in the naval air strength in line with the navy's plan to have 2,000 planes by 1942.

The sum available for construction of new warships was cut from $29,380,000, as asked by the navy department, to $20,690,000. Assurance was given by the department that the reduction would not delay inauguration of construction of the new vessels, the total cost of which was estimated at $197,427,000.

Polo Player and His Bride

Raymond Guest, polo player, and Elizabeth Sturgis Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyon Polk of New York, who were married yesterday in New York. The bridegroom's brother, Winston Guest, was the best man.

New York, June 15.—[Special.]—Well known easterners converged on upper 5th avenue this afternoon for the marriage of Elizabeth Sturgis Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyon Polk, and Raymond Guest, internationally known polo player and son of the Right Honorable and Mrs. Frederick E. Guest.

Raymond, grandson of the late Henry Phipps, financial wizard of the old Carnegie steel empire, and the comely Lily, as she is known to her friends, were married at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

The Phippses, Whitneys, Potters, Woolworths, Hitchcocks, and Guests were in attendance either as members of the bridal party or as spectators in the lily banked church pews.

The nuptial setting, though not nearly as elaborate as the $150,000 Coconut Grove background in which Ray's brother, Winston, and the Woolworth heiress, Helena McCann, were wed a year ago, was all white and as lavish as the confines of a church would allow.

Lily was given in marriage by her father, Frank Polk, lawyer and a former undersecretary of state. Polk was one of the chief arbiters during the peace conference at Versailles in 1919.

ILLINOIS HOUSE PASSES 8 HOUR LAW FOR WOMEN

O'Grady and Soderstrom Push Measure.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—After a day spent in routine consideration of bills the house late tonight passed the women's eight hour law by a vote of 82 to 22 on the plea of Edward P. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago].

O'Grady had spirited backing from R. G. Soderstrom [Rep., Streator], president of the state federation of labor, who, in a rather bitter speech, declared that the current assembly had an "appalling record" on labor legislation. "Not a single labor bill has been enacted into law," he asserted.

The roll call took an hour.

Bill Goes to Senate.

The bill now goes to the senate where, with only four days remaining of the session, its chances of passage are not considered bright. In addition to extending the present law it would also include women employed in barber and beauty shops.

Majority Leader Benjamin S. Adamowski obtained passage of a bill designed to prevent a recurrence of the Robert M. Sweitzer scandal in Chicago. This measure was approved 88 to 15 and would require all public or municipal officers to keep an account of all public monies and make monthly reports.

O. K. on Newspaper Bill.

Newspaper reporters should not be compelled to disclose their sources of information when testifying before courts, the house decided late tonight by a vote of 105 to 4. The bill passed was sponsored by F. W. Lewis, a Democrat, who publishes the Robinson News.

The bill goes now to the senate.

BRIDGE PLAYING BY NURSES BLAMED FOR DRUG HABIT'S SPREAD

Bluefield, W. Va., June 25.—(AP)—Federal Judge George W. McClintic told a grand jury today he believes bridge playing nurses who dislike to break up their games are causing many neglected patients to become drug addicts.

The 69 year old jurist, noted for his severity to liquor law violators, declared:

"More and more, people injured in automobile accidents are leaving hospitals addicted to the narcotic habit.

"All too frequently it is because nurses are applying the hypodermic to those patients so they can continue their bridge games at night."

The statement was made in the course of a general charge to the jury prior to consideration of a docket of federal cases.

Judge McClintic said he has been denounced before by nurses' associations and hospitals for making such a charge, and added, "but I still believe it's true."

WRITINGS BLAZON NEW DEAL SCORN OF CONSTITUTION

Grass Root Loyalists Find Wealth of Ammunition.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Republican Grass Roots "Save the Constitution" movement is directing attention to one of the New Deal books which declares Americans have an "unreasoning, almost hysterical attachment" to the United States constitution and this is one obstacle to "social control" of industry and the "planned economy" of the brain trusters.

The book in question is "Our Economic Society and Its Problems," and one of its co-authors is Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture and one of the head men of the Washington professoriat. From this volume, as well as others, Grass Rooters are culling quotations for speeches emphasizing charges of the recent Grass Roots conference of ten states in Springfield that the New Deal program is subversive of America's free institutions and seeks to set up "a collectivist form of government."

Plan Session in Ten Days.

The permanent Grass Roots committee of fifty-five from each of the ten midwest prairie states—is expected to be called together within a week or ten days. One proposal is to set up a speakers' bureau. The Tugwell book is part of the ammunition that is being assembled.

One chapter to which the Grass Rooters point discusses Soviet Russia, and other sections dwell upon New Deal aims for social control as against the traditional individualism, profit motive and freedom of business enterprise.

One phase of the book, which came out last year, to which Grass Rooters draw especial attention, is an implied argument that the national industrial recovery act which the Supreme court by unanimous vote recently killed as unconstitutional, did not go far enough in the New Deal program for regimentation and control of profits. It says the act made no attempt at a "remedy" for "private profit taking."

Views Profits as Evil.

After dwelling on what it terms "useful functions" of NRA, the book says:

"But for the evil that the most economical utilization of industrial capacities for the welfare of the people as a whole is inconsistent with private profit seeking, the act [NRA] attempts no remedy.

"Successful economic planning involves the encouragement of industrial development along socially useful lines, based on the recognition that the social utility of an industry cannot always be determined by its ability to yield profits.

"Thus, planning involves public participation through government in the distribution of capital among industries, by means of taxation, regulation of profits and in various other ways. Aside from the public works program the NRA does not attempt these."

Slurs Loyalty to Basic Law.

Among the obstacles of "economic planning" under the New Deal is recognized the "emotional attachment" of Americans to the Constitution of the United States. . . .

Says the Tugwell book: "The real obstacle to economic planning is the set of ideals that we have carried over from an early day. . . . The difficulty in attaining the experimental habit of mind toward social or economic arrangements arises largely from a confusion of ends with means, and from an emotional attachment to the instruments of social life.

"An illustration of such feeling is the unreasoning, almost hysterical, attachment of certain Americans to the constitution."

Attack Roosevelt Burocracy.

After ratifying the "Stand by the Constitution" declaration of the Grass Roots conference the 33d Ward Republican club, John T. Dempsey, ward committeeman, has adopted resolutions condemning the employment of 5,400 burocrats from the old NRA in the skeletonized NRA which is being set up.

"We condemn the action of President Roosevelt," it reads, "in continuing this great army of unnecessary political pay rollers which must be paid by taxpayers and consumers. We condemn the President for breaking his pledge in 1932 when he promised that if elected President he would reduce government expenditures 25 per cent, that he would balance the national budget and cut down the number of federal bureaus."

HOUSE PREPARES FOR FIGHT TODAY ON UTILITIES BILL

Battle Expected on 'Death Sentence' Clause.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—A somewhat frightened but resolute house prepared today for a boisterous brawl over the utility company holding bill, which will reach the floor tomorrow.

On one side will be arrayed administration leaders who have received stern orders from President Roosevelt to restore to the bill the "death sentence" clause applying to such holding firms as the government may find "unnecessary." They will muster to their flag all the loyalists remaining of the body once known as the President's rubber stamp.

Against the leaders will stand the Republican minority and a substantial group of Democrats who believe the measure by far too drastic. Secret polls have revealed the opposition to possess enough strength to defeat by a few votes all attempts to put the "death sentence" back into the measure, from which it was removed by the house interstate commerce committee.

Fear to Impose Gag.

That the leaders feared to impose any gag rules was evident today when the rules committee recommended that eight hours general debate on the measure be allowed with no restriction on amendments. Under this arrangement a vote on the bill may not be reached until Friday.

Predictions were free that the President will veto the bill if it is not sent to him in the form he wishes. The senate approved mandatory abolition of "unnecessary" holding companies by only one vote. The bill was hopelessly deadlocked in the house committee until Chairman Sam Rayburn [Dem., Tex.] agreed to a compromise measure. He, however, will lead the fight to restore the abolition clause.

Forecasting the bitterness of the struggle tomorrow, Representative Samuel B. Pettingill [Dem., Ind.] this evening explained the position of the Democratic rebels upon the controversial "death sentence" clause.

Hits Innocent with Guilty.

Admitting the evil practices that had sprung up in the power industry, he declared that his objection was that in seeking to punish the guilty the administration was harming the innocent investor and unnecessarily.

"Certainly the investors who have put their savings into utility securities are not crooks," he said, "and ought not to be punished for what the crooks have done.

"Government not only permitted but actually encouraged the development of holding companies and on the faith of what their own government encouraged millions of innocent people have invested the savings of a lifetime."

Another aspect of the situation which would be caused by the law permitting abolition of holding companies at the discretion of the government was the atmosphere of uncertainty which would be created, Pettingill declared.

ATTORNEY TAKES STAND TO DENY KELLY WILL PLOT

Attorney Irving P. Waitches took the witness stand in his own defense yesterday in Judge Harry B. Miller's Criminal court, where he is on trial on a charge of conspiracy to obtain through a forged will the $100,000 estate of James Thomas Kelly, so-called "flophouse miser" of West Madison street.

Waitches has been given a separate trial from five other defendants. They are Mrs. Bella Butman, in whose home at 6743 Irving Park boulevard, Kelly died; her son, Thomas, 24 years old; John J. Bagdonas, 2506 West 63d street, the undertaker who buried Kelly, and John Dailyde and the Rev. Paul Zalink, who signed the will as witnesses. A seventh defendant, Nicholas Radis, 10734 South Michigan avenue, pleaded guilty on Monday to the conspiracy charge and took the stand against Attorney Waitches.

Waitches held that he acted in good faith as an attorney and knew nothing of the conspiracy. He told the jury that Mrs. Butman brought him a will signed in blank, apparently by Kelly. Mrs. Butman told him that Kelly had told her what he wanted done with his estate, the witness said, and her story had been corroborated by the undertaker and the Rev. Mr. Zalink.

EX-MOVIE ACTRESS PLEADS NOT GUILTY IN $4,000 GEM THEFT

New York, June 25.—[Special]—Mrs. Natalie Colby, 31, former stage and screen actress, pleaded not guilty in Yorkville court today to the burglary of the apartment of Mrs. Simone Brooks, former showgirl.

An attorney appointed by Magistrate Anna Kross entered the plea for her, although detectives said she had admitted the theft after they found some of the loot in her apartment.

Hearing was postponed until Thursday, and, apparently content to remain in jail, Mrs. Colby did not ask for bail.

A bottle of costly perfume and some of the jewelry were found beneath a mattress in Mrs. Colby's apartment. Mrs. Brooks identified the articles. The total loot was valued at $4,000.

TWO TENNESSEE TOWNS VYING FOR PAY ROLL OF TVA

Offices at Knoxville, Chattanooga Irked.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—An intercity fight between Knoxville and Chattanooga to obtain the lucrative business to be derived from the salary spendings of several thousand well paid Tennessee Valley authority employés today had attained all the frenzy of a back fence wrangle.

The TVA offices are now located at Knoxville, which has been the nerve center of the authority for two years.

Chattanooga Launches Drive.

Apparently jealous of the benefits of this business, Chattanooga has launched a campaign to have the offices removed to that city. In a front page story printed in the Chattanooga News it was said that "when Norris dam is completed within a year there remains little to keep the authority in Knoxville at the remote end of the valley."

Chattanooga claims it offers better possibilities as a new site for the TVA offices, inasmuch as that city is midway between Muscle Shoals, legal headquarters of the authority, and Norris dam.

Nearer Other Projects.

It was also pointed out that Chattanooga is nearer several other projects than is Knoxville. The Guntersville site of proposed TVA activity on a large scale is just below Chattanooga, it was observed. Chickamauga dam is only eight miles upriver and the proposed Hiwassee project is nearer Chattanooga. The TVA offices would be 120 miles nearer Muscle Shoals and the Pickwick landing dam.

Knoxville business men believe Chattanooga is seeking the removal of the TVA offices there because of the fear that it will lose the headquarters of the Electric Farm and Home authority, a small subdivision of the TVA.

A recent announcement by TVA officials contained the hint that the EFHA offices might soon be moved from Chattanooga.

It was learned that by the time the Norris dam is completed in 1936 there may be none of that business left to fight over.

It was said that when the dam is finished TVA activities in Knoxville will be materially curtailed and what remains will be gradually moved to the Muscle Shoals area.

BIG LIQUOR STILL FOUND NEAR CARY BY FEDERAL MEN

A still of 1,000 gallons capacity, said to be one of the most complete units for the manufacture of illicit liquor found since repeal, was seized yesterday by agents directed by E. C. Yellowley, supervisor of the alcohol tax unit, on a farm one and one-half miles northwest of Cary in McHenry county. Agents fired several shots at two operators, who escaped through a tunnel extending into a rye field 150 feet from the still.

The agents took over the premises, owned by Mrs. Charles Zogus. Eight vats of 7,500 gallons capacity each were seized by the agents. They also confiscated 9,000 pounds of sugar, 3,000 gallons of alcohol, a boiler, a 500 gallon receiving tank, a 300 gallon supply tank, an electric pump, a steam pump, a motor, and a 250 gallon cooker.

Blind Girl Here to Compete in Dictation Speed Contest

An 18 year old blind girl from Stamford, Conn., arrived in Chicago yesterday to measure her speed in dictation machine transcribing against 100 students with normal sight in the International Commercial Schools' contest Friday morning at the Hotel Sherman. She is Jennie Kondrasky, Connecticut state champion, whose record is 50 words a minute in transcribing. She was accompanied here by Miss Elberta Eggleston, her guide.

BILL WOULD END TITLE MARRIAGES BY "LUXURY TAX"

Foreign Alliance at High Price Cannon's Idea.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Bidding "real or spurious foreign noblemen" to beware of future marriages with American heiresses, Representative Raymond J. Cannon [Dem., Wis.] today introduced in the house a bill taking part of the wealth of Americans who marry aliens.

Such experts at lucrative marriage contracts as the Princes Mdivani would be driven out of business by his bill, Representative Cannon avowed. Even so rich an American girl as Barbara Hutton would hesitate to pay the 25 per cent tax imposed under the new act, he intimated.

Might Cost Millions.

The bill provides for a 10 per cent tax on fortunes from $100,000 to $200,000; 20 per cent on wealth between $200,000 and $500,000, and a 25 per cent tax on fortunes above half a million. In some cases marriage with an alien would cost an American citizen several millions of dollars, Cannon pointed out. He doubted that a practical minded American girl would rate a dubious title as worth that much.

The congressman expressed alarm not only at the exit from this country of large portions of great fortunes but also at "the contamination of the healthy blood of a Democratic people by the blood of a worndown aristocracy."

Another "Luxury Tax."

"This is another luxury tax," said Cannon. "It is the first measure introduced in congress carrying out President Roosevelt's idea of the redistribution of wealth.

"It has become the joke of Europe," he concluded, "that it is the easiest thing in the world for a spurious member of European aristocracy to grab off a gigantic fortune by imposing upon a mentally weak heir of an industrial baron of the United States."

An erroneous report that a brick had been thrown through a window of the Four Grand restaurant at 4000 West Jackson boulevard was printed Sunday. The window was broken when a man engaged in a fight outside the place fell through the glass.

Robbers Shoot a Pay Roll Guard, Flee Without Loot

Apparently frightened after shooting Frank Conway, 56 years old, a private detective, three robbers fled from the plant of the National Biscuit company at 2540 Polk street yesterday without trying to take the $10,000 pay roll which had arrived a few minutes before they entered. Conway, who lives at 2847 Madison street, was taken to Alexian Brothers hospital where it was found that he had a flesh wound in the hip.

PARTY VICTIM'S 2 FRIENDS FREED; U.S. HOLDS WOMAN

Mrs. Lucille Fleigelman, 27 years old, and Lissell Leix, 31 years old, were freed of manslaughter charges yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court. The defendants had been held in connection with the death of Mrs. Marguerite Ford McGivney, 28 years old, following a drinking party on June 14.

The state asked that the charges be nol prossed in view of the finding of a coroner's jury that Mrs. McGivney, the wife of Walter McGivney, 25 East Delaware place, a millinery importer, had died of heart disease. At first it was suspected that death had been caused by narcotics administered with a needle owned by Mrs. Fleigelman.

Mrs. Fleigelman was taken into custody by agents of the government narcotic bureau following the hearing. She waived examination before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker and was held on $2,500 bond on charges of possessing heroin capsules. Mrs. Fleigelman, her brother Harold Moore, and her husband, Robert, are awaiting trial on previous narcotic charges.

TWELVE INDICTMENTS RETURNED IN FEDERAL NATURALIZATION QUIZ

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Twelve indictments were returned today to Federal Judge Bondy by the grand jury which heard evidence in the government's inquiry into naturalization abuses.

Frederick A. Tuttle, for many years high in the immigration and naturalization service, is charged in one with having aided and abetted three immigrants, illegally in this country, to procure naturalization papers by means of false representations, with having induced and instigated the immigrants in their illegal acts, and with subornation of perjury.

The other defendants named are charged with conspiracy, as is Tuttle in another indictment, with aiding and abetting, and with accepting and giving bribes.

ROBBED OF $15 AND PANTS.

Otto Gronquist, a grocer at 6600 South Honore street, was robbed of $15 and his trousers yesterday by a gunman.

DISMISS CHARGES OF WILL FORGERY IN LIPINSKA CASE

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell dismissed yesterday charges of conspiracy to probate a forged will disposing of the $250,000 estate of Dr. Sophie Lipinska. For several days Judge O'Connell heard evidence bearing on the allegations. This evidence, he held, failed to show "probable cause" for criminal action. He did not rule on the validity of the will.

The defendants in a criminal information were D. L. Olese, a real estate dealer with offices at 10 South La Salle street; Dr. Harry C. Rome, a dentist with offices at 1200 North Ashland avenue, and Attorney Max Drezmal, 4921 Pensacola avenue, a member of the state parole board.

The chief witness against them was Miss Marion Kuchta, a nurse who attended Dr. Lipinska on her deathbed in Florida in February, 1934. Miss Kuchta charged that at Olese's direction she had signed Dr. Lipinska's name to the will five hours after the physician's death. The three men testified that Drezmal had guided Dr. Lipinska's hand as she signed the will.

HAVE VOTED

"YES"

(UP TO 5 P. M., TUESDAY, JUNE 25)

in answer to the question:

DO YOU WANT "L" SERVICE EXTENDED TO YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD

by means of "L" motor buses connecting with "L" trains . . . both operated by the Elevated Railroad and both for your present "L" fare?

A week ago (on Tuesday, June 18), the Chicago Rapid Transit Company printed an advertisement in the Chicago newspapers stating that it had volunteered to extend its service by means of motor bus lines immediately upon securing authority so to do from the Illinois Commerce Commission. A coupon was attached and ballots were distributed asking the public to express itself as to its desire for this service.

Up to 5 p. m. last night, the coupon-ballots of 601,989 individuals had been received in the Company's offices emphatically answering "yes."

This tremendous vote (in and counted up to now) is already equal to 72% of the total number of families in Chicago! And each mail still brings in thousands more votes.

It is impossible to write each of these many thousands and thank them individually for their interest in this matter, so we are thanking them through this advertisement. We assure them that we will vigorously press before the Illinois Commerce Commission our pending petitions to give this service.

ETHIOPIANS SEE BRITAIN HELPING ITALY IN GRAB

Envoy Halts Trip Home to Urge Concessions.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, June 26 (Wednesday).—(AP)—A dispatch to the Daily Herald from Addis Ababa said American women, wives and daughters of missionaries, left Ethiopia today, fearful of impending Italo-Ethiopian hostilities.

BY WILL BARBER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, June 25.—A new effort to avert a war between Italy and Ethiopia, which the Ethiopians fear is inevitable, will be made by the British government, according to Ethiopians—at the expense of Ethiopia.

Sir Sidney Barton, British minister in Ethiopia, was due to depart this morning for a six month holiday, but the train pulled out without him. For the British that means simply that they do not wish their minister to be absent at this critical moment, but for the Ethiopians it means that Great Britain is continuing its decades old policy of supporting Italian aspirations.

The Ethiopian government, according to an excellently informed source, believes that Barton stayed to bring pressure on the Ethiopian government to grant economic concessions to Italy, such as a railroad connecting Eritrea and Italian Somaliland, cotton plantations in the north, and the use of the water courses and pasturage in Ogaden province.

Special Rights to Italians.

Along with the railroad would go, if the Italians had their way, the right of extraterritoriality with Italian soldiers guarding the line, thus gaining a foothold across Ethiopia in exchange for which Ethiopia would get special rights in the British port of Zeila, British Somaliland.

THE TRIBUNE was informed Ethiopia is willing to grant concessions only on condition they are economic and not political. In the present state of Italian determination to grab what they can get, the Ethiopians feel any concessions would be used for political purposes as a means of establishing Italian control by continual pressure in the future.

The Ethiopians would insist on policing the proposed railroad, and as for exclusive economic concessions, which the Italians want, Ethiopia pointed out that it is bound by a treaty with France to refuse exclusive rights to any nation because of a most favored nation clause. In addition, government circles informed THE TRIBUNE that the Italians made poor use of the concessions already granted, such as a radio station and the right to build a road from Assab, Eritrea, to Dessie, Ethiopia.

The state of tension in Addis Ababa is shown by the fact that more Italians departed this morning as advised by the local branch of the Fascist organization. Most of the colony already had gone, and others are packing up just as if hostilities were ready to break out. They are taking no chances on being caught in the country where they are hated.

People All Shades.

On the second day in Addis Ababa—which means new flower—this correspondent has had a chance to look over the capital which King Menelik II. founded 40 years ago on the plateau 8,500 feet above sea level.

People? All shades and colors from the deep black persons alleged to be slaves to the light brown nobility. THE TRIBUNE correspondent was told mountaineers in the north are as pink as you or he, but he has not seen any yet.

Most of the faces and bodies are brown with a reddish tinge like our American Indians. Swarms of men and women have finely chisled noses and lips and finely curved eyes. One small boy who wore his chamma—toga or shawl—around his neck exposed a body of the bronze tinge which Americans strive by sun bathing to acquire, and there are many others like him.

In the country, the men are tall and straight, but in Addis Ababa the average is below middle height because of the numerous servants. All are very dignified and proud and vain.

Voices Low, Laughs Pleasant.

The natives' voices are low, their laughs are pleasant, and arguments are few despite the horrible confusion of trafic where automobiles, cows, goats, camels, horses, mules, and donkeys struggle to move.

Rich men and nobles, wrapped in black felt, in ponchos like those of South American Gauchos, trot by on mules followed by as many as forty retainers carrying rifles and servants carrying luggage.

Once a gang of fifty prisoners, chained ankle to ankle, went by, bound for more toil, and the writer must have passed a score of nobles with their private armies headed for the palace.

You have read about the rains. They have been on for three weeks. It rains a half hour at noon, an hour in the afternoon and a bit at night. Until the middle of September it will rain every day. The natives, thinly dressed, slosh around barefooted and still happy. God help the army that has to move in such mud.

Scorn "Land Grab" Protest.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, June 25.—(AP)—Ethiopia today curtly rejected an Italian protest that the empire was absorbing the sultanate of Jimma at the same time that her foreign minister denied reports that Moslem aid had been sought against Italy.

The reply to Italy termed her communication regarding Jimma "nonpertinent" and "objectless," since Jimma had always been an integral part of the empire, administered by the central government like other provinces.

Commenting on published reports that Emperor Haile Selassie had hinted at Moslem help in case of war with Italy, the Ethiopian foreign minister, Belatengueta Heroy, said the emperor merely said such aid had not been requested, referring to friendly relations with the Hejaz and Yemen and Ethiopia's religious freedom. Heroy said he considered the reports propaganda intended to create the impression that Ethiopia was trying to incite Mohammedan subjects of Italy to rebel.

TRIBUNE WRITER ONLY AMERICAN ON DUTY IN ETHIOPIAN CAPITAL

BY WILL BARBER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, June 25.—THE TRIBUNE correspondent covering the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel had his first contact today with Emperor Haile Selassie I. The emperor, who likes to drive around alone, came into the compound of the hotel to look over a big tent which a chief was trying to sell to him, and on the way out asked the hotel owner about that rarity of rarities in this country—an American newspaper man.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent, it seems, constitutes one of the numerous monopolies here, such as gasoline, cigarets, and hotels, and he is the only American newspaper man on the spot. The news agencies are represented by Europeans.

An aid then presented himself to express the emperor's hope that THE TRIBUNE correspondent had a good journey and to assure him he would be able to take all the photographs and visit all the places in Addis Ababa he wishes. The envoy, who was accompanied by a single soldier, added that the emperor would be pleased to receive the correspondent, and sent a message of good wishes to the American people.

IL DUCE AVOIDS ANY PROMISE TO EDEN ON ETHIOPIA

Mussolini Holds Out for 'Complete Solution.'

ROME, June 25.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy and Capt. Anthony Eden of Great Britain talked for an hour "with the greatest frankness" about Ethiopia this afternoon, but British and Italian spokesmen both said afterward they reached no agreement. Italian sources were confident Mussolini had reaffirmed the necessity for "complete solution."

Regarding the Anglo-German naval pact, which the British minister came to Rome to explain, the British spokesman indicated a general naval conference was bound to come some time.

Have "Exchange of Views."

An official communique issued after the conference, which wound up the two days' conversations between the statesmen, merely mentioned the fact that the Ethiopian question had been discussed. Both sides emphasized that the conversation was only an exchange of views—which will not be disclosed until Eden has returned to London and reported to the cabinet.

Previously authoritative quarters had said that Italy could accept only complete solution of the East African controversy, involving territorial concessions, Ethiopia's expulsion from the league of nations on the grounds that she had violated terms of membership, and establishment of an Italian protectorate over Ethiopia.

European Affairs Aired.

Eden, in talking to British and American newspaper men, limited himself to a statement on European affairs.

"After discussing the present European situation," Eden said, "Mussolini and I were agreed as to the possibility of continuing to work for European appeasement in accordance with the guiding principles laid down in the London communique of Feb. 3 (the joint Franco-British declaration) and the Stresa resolution (embodying the Franco-Italo-British common front)."

The British spokesman said the two discussed all points set forth in the London communique except Germany's return to the league of nations.

The young British secretary for league of nations affairs will leave Rome at noon tomorrow. He may see Fulvio Suvich, undersecretary for foreign affairs, with whom he had lunch and went swimming today, again tomorrow morning.

ITALO-ETHIOPIAN CLAIMS HANDED TO CONCILIATORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SCHEVENINGEN, Holland, June 25.—An attempt to arrive at a juridical settlement of the differences between Italy and Ethiopia was begun this afternoon when the four conciliators agreed on by the two countries held their first session at the Palace hotel.

The meeting was the mere formal establishment of contact between Prof. Benjamin Potter, an American, and Albert de la Pradelle, French jurist, who represented Ethiopia, and Count Aldrovandi and Signor Rafaele Montagna representing Italy.

A brief communique stated the commission is now in the possession of the documented claims requested at its Milan meeting two weeks ago.

"The documents we get from both sides concerning the incidents deal with three subjects," Potter said. "First, each side's respective conclusions; second, its argumentation; third, its establishment of proofs of its claims."

GERMANY OPENS DRIVE TO UNITE NORTHERN RACES

Seeks to Include Britain as Ally in Scheme.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 25.—A particularly virulent outbreak of mingled Germanism, Nordicism, and neopaganism, which marked the lighting of summer solstice fires throughout Germany during the past week-end, provided a series of spectacles virtually unprecedented.

Saturday and Sunday nights all over the land some 9 million Hitler boys and girls assembled at "youth sport festivals," which ended in most cases with neopagan folk dances before fires. Speeches by Nazi spokesmen aroused the audiences to a frenzy.

The festival was marked with the opening yesterday of the Nordic congress at Luebeck. This congress was organized by the Nordic Society of Germany to bridge gaps between all Germanic and Nordic nations, but especially between Germany and Scandinavia.

Plans Nordic League.

The movement's ultimate aim, as stated by its "fighting organization"—Nordland—is to create a Nordic league of nations, with Great Britain either a member or an ally.

Dr. Hans Friedrich Lunck, president of the reich literary chamber, announced that an anonymous Hamburg merchant, who recently founded a 10,000 mark annual prize for the best product of British art, now has founded two similar prizes for works of Scandinavian and Dutch art. They are to rival the Nobel prizes. German universities will distribute them.

Then Thilo von Trotha, director of the northern department of Dr. Alfred Rosenberg's foreign policy office, outlined the idea behind the congress. A technical epoch, he said, threatened to create a "twilight of culture" in Europe. However, this culture was to be saved by the Germanic and Nordic races.

Lists Nordic Races.

Von Trotha counted among the Nordic races Anglo-Saxons, Dutch, Swiss, and Nordlanders generally because, he said, their outstanding characteristics were love, honor, and freedom, close communion with nature and a heroic ideal.

The most dramatic characterization of Nazi, Nordic and Heroic ideal was furnished, however, not at this Nordic congress, but by Gen. Hermann Goering, German air minister, in a speech at Hesselberg, near Nuremberg.

Goering in his speech not only welcomed Great Britain into the community of "Germanic blood," but he revived the idea of the Germans' shining armor once advanced by the former kaiser and, in effect, told the world that if it calls national socialism a cult of paganism to make the most of it.

Defies Foreign Opinion.

Here are some paragraphs taken from the text of the speech:

"If our opponents think it is neopaganism when we espouse the greatness of our ancestral history, then let them call it that. If they call our pilgrimages to these old cult places heathenism, let them. But let them not object if we prefer to stream together here in the unity of our people to lift up our hearts to the idea of our fuehrer rather than listen to the chattering of quarreling clerics.

"No church has been built so beautiful, so great, so mighty and so strong in faith as the dome of God over this mountain. If others say we have cast aside our faith, then we ask them when has there been in Germany deeper or more passionate faith than today? When has there been stronger faith than the present faith in our fuehrer?

"When people cease to have faith, churches are futile. Decisive is not faith in this or that dogma, or in this or that interpretation. Decisive is how strong is the faith of a people in its future. This faith is not contrary to God, for the Almighty has created our people that they may make their place on this earth. And by believing in my people and their future I believe in the Almighty.

"We do not permit ourselves to be fascinated by disbelief or revealed miracles, for there never has happened a greater miracle than in our time. This miracle of the Almighty has been performed through Adolf Hitler—a miracle of resurrection of the German people. Today our shining armor is filled with strength again and guarantees the security of the nation. That is merely the result of this miracle."

SUING MILLIONAIRE

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—George H. Hatch, 29, cotton millionaire, and Frederick, 4, son of Miss Mary Schirp, today gave blood samples in the office of Dr. Rufus E. Stetson to determine whether Hatch may be the father of the boy.

Miss Schirp, who is suing Hatch for $500,000, alleging breach of promise, arrived with her son. Hatch had preceded her into the doctor's office.

The blood test was asked by the mother in a petition to Supreme Court Justice John L. Walsh. The plea was granted under the new state law, following practices common for some time in European jurisprudence.

Miss Schirp alleges Hatch promised to marry her on Dec. 31, 1930, at the Hotel Montclair, but that instead he married Dorothea Angelo Ruddy on April 21, 1934.

EDINBURGH MOBS BEAT CATHOLICS; BATTLE POLICE

Protestants Try to Break Up Parade.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, June 25.—(AP)—Religious rioting broke out again in Edinburgh tonight when thousands of Protestants attempted to break up on organized procession of the Blessed Sacrament by members of the Roman Catholic community.

The procession was in connection with the Eucharistic congress being held here.

Main streets adjoining the grounds of St. Andrews priory were jammed with Protestants. The rioting spread so quickly that 300 police, including mounted officers, were called out to handle the situation.

Seven Rioters Fined.

Cries of "No Popery" and "Down with the Pope" were hurled at the Catholics as they arrived at the priory. The crowd continued shouting during the service.

A similar riot yesterday, in which police charged some 3,000 Protestants who hurled bottles and stones at Catholic women and priests, today resulted in conviction of seven men of creating a breach of the peace. They were fined £10 [$50] each, failing payment of which they were to serve one month in jail.

A number of arrests were made tonight as police fought to restore order. As the crowds became uglier in their attitude, officials of the Protestant Actions society appealed to all Protestants to assist police in restoring order.

Catholic Priest Mobbed.

A Catholic priest, and layman were mobbed when they attempted to board a street car. Police intervened to rescue them. Similar incidents occurred all over the area near the priory.

During the service Archbishop MacDonald advised Catholics to remove their congress badges as a precaution when leaving the grounds. It was estimated 10,000 Catholics were present at the open air procession.

HITLER PLEDGES NEVER AGAIN TO WAGE U-BOAT WAR

Promises in Future to Abide by Rules.

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—Great Britain, with Germany's sweeping promise never again to engage in unrestricted submarine warfare in its possession, today made ready to discuss naval issues with France, Italy, and Russia.

Prime Minister Baldwin informed the house of commons that the three had been invited to send delegations to London, but dodged questions as to whether all the invitations had been accepted.

Earlier Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, stirred the legislators to cheers with the announcement that the reich had given its pledge to adhere to the rules and regulations regarding submarine warfare in part 4 of the Washington treaty, regardless of the attitude of other powers.

Bans Sudden Attack.

Part 4 of the treaty provides that warships, "whether surface vessel or submarine boat," may not attack merchant vessels "without first having placed its passengers, crew, and ship's paper in a place of safety," except "in case of persistent refusal to stop on being duly summoned, or of active resistance to visit or search."

Sir Bolton pointed out that while Great Britain, Japan, the United States, France, and Italy had signed the Washington treaty, only the first three are "juridically bound" by it "because France and Italy did not ratify it."

Some caustic comment followed. Aneurin Bevan, Labor party member, asked whether any warring nation on the verge of defeat would abide by treaty provisions if that meant losing the war.

"That would be the policy of despair," Sir Bolton retorted. "That would mean no treaty could be made with anybody; that would mean a return to jungle war."

Bevan replied that the world's nations "are under jungle rule now," while William James Thorne, Labor member, observed: "Germany gave an undertaking not to violate Belgium, but she did."

France Bolts Naval Pact.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 25.—France no longer considers itself bound by the tonnage provisions of the Washington naval treaty.

This was the declaration formally made today by the naval affairs committee of the chamber of deputies at the close of a two hour session called to consider the situation created by the Anglo-German naval accord. Francois Pietri, minister of marine, told the committee France need not, for the present, worry over naval security. All depends, Pietri is understood to have said, on the cadence with which the Germans build up to the tonnage allowed them by the British.

If they take seven years in fulfilling the program, he said, France can be tranquil, and if the Germans build at a faster pace, the French must devise a different naval policy. The committee, after voting a resolution to the effect that it considered the Anglo-German accord a violation of the treaty of Versailles and that it had automatically restored liberty to France in naval affairs, concluded by calling on the government to see to it that the French naval forces, both in the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, be sufficient to assure national security.

BRITISH PERFECT ROBOT AIRPLANE FORGUN PRACTICE

Machine Run Entirely by Radio.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—The technical department of the air ministry, after ten years of research, has perfected a robot airplane capable of a flying speed of more than 100 miles an hour at an altitude of more than 10,000 feet. The plane is operated entirely by radio.

For the last twelve months tests have been carried on in secret with the new pilotless machine. It has been taking off, climbing, turning, and performing all the normal evolutions of a plane in the hands of a skilled pilot, including approach and perfect landings.

A special squadron of these machines has been formed to enable the pilotless planes to carry out evolutions and provide a target at which live ammunition can be fired from anti-aircraft guns. This already has been done, largely by the navy over the North sea. The flying target is known officially as the "queen bee."

The machine operates only in a closed circuit. The maximum radius in a closed circuit is ten miles from the operating center.

RUNAWAY TRAIN HITS APPROACH TO BRIDGE AND 4 ARE INJURED

St. Charles, Mo., June 25.—(AP)—A 100 foot section of the west approach to the highway bridge over the Mississippi river collapsed today, injuring four persons, when a runaway train crashed through concrete piers supporting one end of the structure.

The train came to a halt after smashing through the entrance of a hotel.

Thomas Brown, Butte, Mont., president of the International Union of Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers, and Louis Gambill, Joplin, Mo., mine union official, riding across the approach, were injured when their car was caught in the mass of falling wreckage and plunged forty feet to the main street.

Henry Rowe, St. Charles, a foot passenger on the approach, was treated for minor injuries, and Mrs. Katherine Hoh, proprietor of the hotel, was bruised and cut.

WOMAN OPPOSES NAZI RULE; GETS 15 YRS. IN PRISON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 25.—Accused of trying to revive communistic youth organizations and of taking orders from German refugees living in Paris, 24 years old Berta Karg of Munich was sentenced today to fifteen years in the penitentiary and loss of civil rights for ten years. She also will be kept under police control for life.

"By keeping up contact with an enemy of the state, the accused has placed herself outside the national community," ruled the judge, who rejected the state's attorney's demand for life imprisonment. An official statement added:

"Clemency is not waranted, since the accused did not deny her hostility to the Nazi state, and did not flinch when the sentence was read. The sentence will not fail to terrify those who still are working with the communists and will make it clear that it is especially dangerous to keep up relations with refugees abroad."

CONDUCTOR LOSES ARM.

Two cars being coupled in the yards at 45th and Leavitt streets severed yesterday the right arm of Frank Ripley, 63 years old, 33 South 18th avenue, Maywood, a freight conductor for the Chicago and North Western railroad.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

FOREIGN TRAVEL

CHICAGO PEOPLE GO BY SHIPLOADS TO VISIT EUROPE

Travel to Foreign Lands Rises Sharply.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

There may be Americans who refuse to visit certain European countries because they don't like their politics, but apparently there are few such in Chicago. The residents of this city are going overseas by the shipload.

Mrs. Charles H. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed will sail at midnight Saturday on the Europa of the Hamburg American Line-North German Lloyd. On the same liner will be R. G. Wallace, Miss Mary Bacon, George L. Dixon, and Mrs. Victor Beaufort.

Among the well known Chicagoans sailing last night on the Statendam of the Holland America line were Philip D. Armour Jr., Miss Jane Swift, and Prof. Garrett H. Leverton. Mr. Armour will motor through Europe with Paul G. Guinness. Prof. Leverton, of the school of speech of Northwestern university, is taking a group of 25 students on a tour of the dramatic centers of Europe. Among the students are Edward Thomas and the Misses Vivian Skinner, Glenn Garrett, Elsie Ramsey, Eleanor Gearhart, Mary Little, Ida Goe, and Helen Hile.

Large Chicago Party.

Others on the Statendam's large passenger list included Mrs. Francis S. North and her son, Francis S. North Jr., of Highland Park; Mr. and Mrs. John P. Welling and their daughters Harriet and Mary, who will spend the summer in England; Miss Jessica Slocum, Miss Jessie Weiler, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Leatzow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Leatzow Jr., Ralph C., Robert W., and Victor B. Leatzow, and Mrs. D. W. Bergstrom and Miss Betty Bergstrom.

Leaving on the Resolute Saturday for a cruise of the Mediterranean countries and Norway will be Mrs. L. B. Manning and her three daughters, Gene, Mereich, and Katherine; Mrs. James Snitzler, her son, and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth M. McLaren; Mrs. E. M. Merrill and Walter Merrill; Mrs. Rosalie Piotrowska, and Miss Ellen Quinn, all of the Chicago; Miss Florence Floore of Columbus, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Burton J. Carr and the Misses Frances, Virginia, Natalie, and Evelyn Carr of Richmond, Ind.

Scandinavian Port Tours.

On the Reliance when it sets sail from New York Friday for a cruise of the Scandinavian countries and Russia will be Mrs. E. Wyllys Andrews and her grandson, E. Wyllys Andrews III.; S. W. Vanzwoll, Mr. and Mrs. James McAlear, who will be on their wedding trip; Mr. and Mrs. William Bartholomay Jr. and their daughter, Margaret Helen, and their niece, Miss Vera Maria Bartholomay; Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. McNamara of Winnetka; Mr. and Mrs. William S. Hovey of Evanston; Charles A. Phelan, Mrs. William Lawlor, Miss Dorothy Walsh, Mrs. J. B. Arnold, and Mrs. William E. Thresher, all of Chicago; Mrs. W. H. Miller and her son and daughter of Bear Lake, Minn.; Mrs. Elizabeth N. Wittenberg, Miss W. Winifred Wittenberg, and Miss Edith Nitsche, all of Terre Haute, Ind.; Miss Martha De Grief of Indianapolis; the Misses Mary Catherine and Eleanor Smeltzly of Fort Wayne, Ind., and James W. Lynch and Dr. Kenneth D. Ayres of Anderson, Ind.

Dr. Erwin Escher, professor of art at the Central Y. M. C. A. college, and Mrs. Escher will leave for Naples Saturday on the Italian line's Conte di Savoia. They will make a tour of Italy, stopping at Rome, Assisi, and Perugia, and will visit Dr. Escher's cousin, Prof. Silverio Leicht of the University of Bologna. They will then proceed to Switzerland to be present at a celebration in honor of the 560th anniversary of the Escher family's Zurich citizenship.

Plan Tour of Continent.

Mrs. Sam P. Gerson of 1300 Hyde Park boulevard, with her son Noel and her daughter Marion, will leave the same day on the Canadian Pacific's Empress of Britain for an extensive tour of the continent.

A number of Chicagoans sailing from New York on trans-Atlantic liners plan to transfer to other steamers after reaching Europe and then take cruises to the North Cape. Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Foreman and Francis Lasker, who will embark today on the Cunard-White Star line's Aquitania, will do the cape before turning southward. Such a cruise is also the objective of Miss Clara Hart and eleven schoolgirls leaving Saturday on the Britannic. In the group are the Misses Uytendale and Catherine Caner, Jean Lawson, Anna Minst, Eleanora Bisphan, Jean Burpee, Betty Myers, Matilda Fasset, Jane Williams, Louise Wigton, and Marie Strink.

When the French line's Normandie set out from New York last Saturday every available accommodation had been sold. Among the 1,600 passengers were Mrs. Henry Field of Chicago, Col. Ira C. Copley, Illinois and California publisher, with Mrs. Copley and Mrs. George B. Macaulay; Miss Marie Walsh, and Miss Ida Giachini. The latter two will spend the summer touring Germany, Switzerland, Italy, and France.

Take Autos to Europe.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard Fried, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lavicka, and Mrs. Fried's brother, Joseph Prokop, sailed this week on the President Harding. They took their two autos and will see Europe by motor, with special attention paid to Czechoslovakia. They were accompanied by Dr. Fried's 83 year old mother, who is making her second trip abroad in three years. The Frieds may go to the orient before returning to Chicago.

Prof. Louis Lesemann of the Garrett Biblical institute and Mrs. Lesemann will go on the Conte di Savoia the end of the week for visits in Rome, Florence, Vienna, London, and Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Planer, traveling on the same liner, will spend their vacation in France and Italy.

A summer devoted to motoring through England and France is the outlook for Miss Judith Thornhill, Miss Mary Ware, and Mrs. Arleen Rucker. They leave tomorrow on the City of Newport News. On the same ship is Miss Mary F. Willard. Mrs. A. Kingsbury, leaving today on the American Shipper, will remain in England and Ireland for the summer.

Golf on Scotch Courses.

Golf on the famous courses of Scotland and England is one prospect for Dr. George Hall. With Mrs. Hall he set out Saturday on the Normandie. They will motor through France, Germany, Denmark, Norway, and Sweden, and then cross over to Newcastle for a golf-punctuated tour of the British Isles. Dr. Hall will attend the International Congress of Neurologists in London in August.

The Alpine school of the University of Geneva will be the summer retreat of Mrs. O. T. LeBeau, who left last week on the City of Baltimore. After finishing her studies she will attend the International Botanical congress in Amsterdam. Among her fellow passengers were Mrs. Frieda Heidritz, Mrs. Charles R. Powrie, and the Miss Fanny Baker, Elizabeth Biedermann, Eva Dalton, M. Maxey, Mary Moore, and Ethel Stratton.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitney are sailing today on the Aquitania with their young sons, Guy and Patrick. On the same ship will be Miss Emilie Mapes Smith and Miss G. Mapes Smith.

Sail on American Merchant.

John C. Krause and the Misses Frances Krause, Helen Anderson, Ruth McHenry, Mae Zimmerman, Marian Kennedy, and G. B. Jenkyns were on the American Merchant as it pulled out from New York for European ports last Friday.

On the American export liner Exochorda, putting out for the Mediterranean yesterday, were these Chicago residents: Mrs. Isabel Heaps, Mrs. Kate Parker Smith, Mrs. J. J. Dunnegan, and the Misses Ida Bass, Rose Deutsch, Helen Joffe, Lillian Jacobson, Hanna Fein, E. A. Richardson, Virginia Richardson, Lillian Franklin, and Anna Damnerau. Others from the middle west were Miss Clara Jane Gottsch and Mrs. E. J. Gottsch of Shenandoah, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lepp of Kenosha, Wis., and the Rev. and Mrs. F. J. Bloodgood and their sons, F. C. and Joseph W., of Madison, Wis.

Bound for a Baltic cruise, Dr. and Mrs. Louis M. Novack and Walter H. Hermsdorf left Quebec last week on the Canadian Pacific's Empress of Australia. On the same liner were Neil A. Larson, Herbert S. GLOBE TROTTERS LOOK FORWARD TO WINTER CRUISES

One Favorite Will Take In 23 Ports in 93 Days.

Now that most of the summer bookings have been made, the interest of Chicago globe trotters is turning to next winter's cruises. One such is known as "five cruises in one," for the reason that it includes the Mediterranean, East Africa, South Africa, South America, and the West Indies. It will start from New York Jan. 25, 1936, and take in twenty-three ports in ninety-three days. It will thus visit the tropical countries at a time when much of the northland is wrapped in snow.

Members of the cruise will visit historic ruins in the Mediterranean, sample the night life of six cosmopolitan cities, and stop at such out of the way places as Tristan de Cunha, known as the world's loneliest island. They will be giving heed to the song of the British soldiers in one of Kipling's Barrack Room ballads: "For to admire and for to see, for to behold this world so wide." They will come in close touch with places, such as Egypt, that saw the dawn of civilization, and other places, such as Abyssinia, whose dramatic story is as up to date as tomorrow's newspaper.

Madeira, Then Gibraltar.

The first stop on the itinerary is Madeira, a gem of emerald, turquoise, coral, and topaz, in a setting of sapphire. After that come Gibraltar, with its monster guns and searchlights; Barcelona, with its half moon harbor, its bull fights, and its majolica ware; Monte Carlo, with its opera and its wide open gambling, and Naples and Pompeii, with their riot of ruins and excavations.

Following those are Athens, which somebody has described as "that violet wreathed, brilliant, most enviable city"; the Holy Land, with visits to Haifa, Nazareth, the Sea of Galilee, Jerusalem, and Bethlehem; Egypt, with side trips to Cairo, Thebes, the Valley of the Tombs of the Kings, Luxor, and Assuan; Port Sudan, with an optional shore excursion to Khartoum; Mombasa, a coral isle that has been a theater of war for centuries; Zanzibar, with its ivory and ebony, gold and silver, silks and embroideries; Dar-es-Salaam, with its open air prison and landlocked harbor; Lorenco Marques, the capital of Portuguese East Africa, and Durban, most British of all the South African cities.

Side Tours in Africa.

From Durban there is an optional shore excursion to Johannesburg, Pretoria, Bulawayo, Victoria falls, and Kimberley. Those taking this trip rejoin the steamer at Cape Town, chief port of the Union of South Africa. After the jaunts to Table mountain and over the Marine drive the travelers set out for South America by way of Tristan de Cunha. This almost forgotten island has rarely been visited by ocean liners. It has a population of 172, and only seven men have ever left it. The Tristanites have no money and virtually no amusements. Their idea of great luxury is a cup of tea.

Buenos Aires, the first port of call in South America, ranks next to Paris among the largest Latin cities, and it rivals Paris in its attractiveness for the pleasure seeker. Next on the schedule are Montevideo, the capital of Uruguay; Santos, seaport of Sao Paulo, and Rio de Janeiro, a great jewel embowered in fantastic mountains.

West Indies in Three Jumps.

Leaving the mainland coast, the voyagers do the West Indies in three jumps. They stop at Trinidad, with its Hindus, Chinese, British, French, Americans, Venezuelans, Portuguese, Spaniards, and Negroes; Kingston, with a history dating back to Christopher Columbus, and Havana, with its night life and its mixture of old Spain and modern America. Then comes the home stretch to New York.

The minimum fare for the cruise is $1,350, including the standard shore program. The price of the optional shore excursions varies all the way from $4.50 for the trip to Pitch lake in Trinidad to $367.50 for the journey to Victoria falls.

For the name of the steamship company operating this tour, or any further information concerning the cruise, call The Tribune Travel bureau at Superior 0100, local 707 or 734, or write the bureau at 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

WILEY POST TO FLY OVER RUSSIA SO HE CAN SEE OLD ROUTE

New York, June 25.—(AP)—Wiley Post planned a busman's holiday today as an aerial tourist to the Siberian towns which he raced over on his round the globe record flight, but which he knows only as spots on the map.

He expects to take off for Russia in a couple of weeks on a leisurely plane jaunt with Mrs. Post and Faye Gillis Wells, the Minneapolis girl flyer who was in charge of refueling the "Winnie Mae" at Novosibirsk, Siberia, when Post circled the world on a solo flight in the summer of 1933.

His plane, the "Winnie Mae," veteran of two round the world trips, will be supplanted by a new ship recently purchased.

Miss Gillis, the wife of Linton Wells, flyer, said they hoped to start as soon as Post receives permission to enter Siberia from the soviet government.

Post's tentative route is from Los Angeles—his starting point—to Seattle, up to Alaska, across the Bering sea to Siberia, and then by leisurely jumps probably as far as Moscow.

CANADA TO RENEW WORK ON COAST TO COAST AIRWAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., June 25.—Nearly $500,000 will be spent by the dominion government this year on a trans-Canadian airway. The project was started some years ago but was halted owing to the depression.

Forty-nine landing places already have been constructed. New appropriations will extend the work so far done with respect to airdomes, landing fields, night lighting, wireless facilities, and other accessories of the service.

The objective is to have air service from Montreal to Vancouver in fifteen hours or less. At the present time the fastest Canadian service is by rail, which requires three days and four nights.

HOUSE READY TO PASS MERCHANT MARINE SUBSIDY

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—After seven hours of discussion the house today cleared the way for passage early tomorrow of the merchant marine subsidy bill in somewhat different form than demanded by President Roosevelt.

A number of amendments offered by Representative Otha D. Wearin [Dem., Ia.], intended to correct what he termed opportunities for fraud in administration of the bill, were defeated.

The act provides for the payment of government money to American ship builders in order that they may compete on an equal footing with foreign nations in the construction and operation of ocean going vessels.

Sponsors of the measure were unable to calculate its eventual cost. A 6,000 ton ship costing 1 million dollars to build in this country can be built in England and other countries for $600,000 because of lower wage scales and lower material costs, it was stated. In such an instance the government, under the new bill, would pay the American ship builder the $400,000 difference. Lakes shipping is not benefited by the bill.

Bermuda's Winter Season Sees Increase in Visitors

During the last winter season from December, 1934, to May, 1935, 32,154 passengers landed in Bermuda for sojurns of various lengths, according to official travel statistics released by the Bermuda News bureau. This number, while a few thousand less than the total for the similar season last year, exceeded the number of passengers landing in the 1932-'33 season by nearly 10,000. Passengers arriving from American ports alone by regular ships numbered 19,919, while cruises during the five months added another 11,556. The period showed a marked increase in arrivals direct from Canada and England.

Monte Carlo Casino Bars Doug. Jr.; He's Salary Man

MONTE CARLO, June 25.—(AP)—Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Laura La Plante, who have been filming scenes here, were refused entrance to the gambling rooms of the Casino today because "they are salaried employés working in the principality of Monaco." Fairbanks is understood to have protested, but the passport clerk stationed at the Casino was obdurate, saying "rules are rules and cannot be broken."

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

WHY THE HURRY?

The President's determination to force immediate action on his tax program requires more explanation than it has received. There is no doubt, of course, that the government stands in great need of revenue if it proposes, as it does, to continue spending at the present rate. Though tax receipts have been larger this year than the treasury estimated, the deficit in the fiscal year ending this month will be 3½ billion dollars. Sooner or later that gap must be closed.

But that is not a new problem, suddenly presented and requiring instant action within the week. Nor is there anything to the report from Washington that the President demands haste in order to prevent the very rich from taking steps now which will enable them to get out from under the new taxes. These gentlemen have had ample warning and so have their lawyers. Whatever steps need to be taken, it may be taken for granted, have already been taken or will be taken before the bill is signed. The plea for haste to take the victims by surprise will not stand examination.

Neither, for that matter, will the assumption that the taxes on the larger estates which the President has proposed will yield enough revenue to make an appreciable dent in the deficit. It has been calculated that if all the estates of more than a million dollars and all the incomes of more than a million dollars were confiscated, the average annual increase in the government's revenues might amount to half a billion dollars, more or less. That is less than 15 per cent of the deficit this year.

Mr. Roosevelt's demand for haste cannot be explained in terms which the ordinary man can understand. Perhaps that is why Senator Robinson, the spokesman for the congressmen who received the President's orders, was so obviously perturbed when he gave out the news.

SHIPS THAT WILL PAY.

History appears to demonstrate that the shipbuilding industry occasionally overreaches itself. A former race for supremacy on the high seas resulted in the construction of the oversized Great Eastern, which proved so entirely impractical that no ship of equal length was constructed for a matter of thirty years, after some revolutionary ideas had been introduced into the steam engine. Will the Normandie and Queen Mary prove to be the last of the "big" ships of this era? Such appears to be the opinion of many well informed shipping men.

While these vessels offer the last word in accommodation, recreation, speed, and luxury en voyage, they can prove themselves economic successes only with the sustained popularity that will provide a full passenger list, which leaves us to wonder if the available quota of tourists will suffice for the imposing fleet that is being concentrated on the service between New York and London-Paris. There is little ground for assuming that added elegance will substantially increase the potential patronage field.

We are impressed with the obvious opportunity for an ingenious boat in this service that could only be devised by a shipping company imbued with American ideals. First the class system must be abandoned and the thoroughly American methods employed by our railroads adopted. First class will mean berth passage only, and if the tourist seeks more commodious quarters let him pay an additional charge as for a stateroom, bedroom, or compartment on our railway trains. Air conditioning systems would nearly equalize the present disparity between inside and outside rooms. After all, the passenger is en route but little longer than on a transcontinental railway journey. Sumptuous accommodations are not a major drawing card, as demonstrated by the success of coast to coast bus lines. Abandon the idea of a floating palace, club, and recreational resort and restore the principles of economic transportation.

The sources of prospective patronage would be enormously widened because of the substantially lower fares that could be established. On a per capita basis the United States has incomparably more radios, more telephones, more automobiles than any other country. Offer the people of modest circumstances what other nations look upon as luxuries and overseas travel will be added to this list.

SCIENCE IN THE NEWS.

A few days ago a steel company informed THE TRIBUNE that one of its metallurgists was to discuss alloy steels in Chicago before a convention of the National Board of Boiler and Pressure Vessel Inspectors. A reporter assigned to the meeting was told that the paper in question would not be made available until after its publication in the official report of the convention, about two months hence.

If we single out the boiler inspectors for comment in this instance it is only because they are typical of a group of diehards among scientific and technical societies, happily decreasing, who shrink from the publicity offered their specialties by newspapers.

Alloy steels are typical of the new materials, new processes, and new products which American industry is contributing to sane efforts to end the depression. They are of interest to every intelligent newspaper reader, and the publicity given them is of vast benefit to industry.

The steel company realized this. Their employé was not touting a patented or monopoly product. The steels which he described are manufactured widely. The publicity given his discussion would have helped his employers only as it helped the whole steel industry and its customers. But the organization which heard his paper was apparently blind to all this.

The boiler inspectors may bring forth the ancient defense that newspaper reporters are inaccurate and not to be trusted with accounts of highly technical subjects. Unfortunately the newspapers are sometimes guilty in this respect, but inaccuracy may more frequently be charged to lack of coöperation of the technical or scientific society than to the newspaper.

The newspaper cannot reasonably be expected to employ a metallurgist, a chemist, a physician, and a score of other specialists to handle the wide variety of news stories which it prints in the scientific and technical field. What it does offer is intelligent young men, with such background of elementary scientific knowledge that they are able to understand the explanations offered them by a reasonably patient specialist and then to transcribe those explanations accurately for the information of intelligent laymen.

The larger technical and scientific societies are aware of this, and most of them coöperate with newspapers, to their mutual advantage. Those who have failed to do so will do well to regard the about face taken by leaders of the medical profession in recent years in their attitude toward reports of their scientific meetings in lay publications.

The American Medical association, as well as such organizations of specialists as the American College of Physicians and the American College of Surgeons, welcome newspaper coverage of their conventions. They assign members to explain technical papers to reporters. They have been rewarded by vastly more accurate reports of their meetings and by widened public education in medical matters.

HAIL, THE 33RD DIVISION.

Sixteen years ago this month the 33rd Division marched down Michigan avenue between cheering crowds. It was a welcome such as the Romans gave their legions returning from some victorious campaign. The 33rd also came back with victory on its banners and a record of two years of service in the field of war of which the community that had watched their conduct at the front was and always will be proud.

This week the 33rd Veterans association, 35,000 strong, will gather in Chicago to renew the comradeship of the great adventure. The seasoned veterans of 1919 returned to the ways of peace, to their place in the activities of the community, as workers with hand and brain, to citizenship. The years have carried them into middle age and the responsibilites which time brings to all. But Chicago in pride and gratitude welcomes them this week as brave and loyal sons who fulfilled the great traditions of the American soldier handed down from the battlefields of the past.

REGISTRATION OF ALIENS.

The Mayflower passengers were immigrants, even though Chief Massasoit didn't have an Ellis Island at which to detain and inspect them. All our forefathers were immigrants, whether they landed in 1700 or 1900.

But our earlier immigrants, and the more desirable among those who came later, did not remain aliens. They had left the old world behind them for good. Their interest and their allegiance was in the new. Acknowledgment of the debt which America owes to immigration should not blind us to the necessity for proper regulation of the alien, the backward looking immigrant who leaves his allegiance across the Atlantic and looks upon America solely as a meal ticket.

In 1930 the census takers found 3,787,086 persons in the United States who admitted to being aliens, having been born abroad and having failed to take out citizenship papers. To this number should be added the aliens, probably numbering some hundreds of thousands, who entered the country illegally. Naturally they would either evade the census takers or, if found, lie about their citizenship status through fear of deportation.

The legally admitted alien who fails after a reasonable period of residence here to swear allegiance to our government is entitled to no greater privileges than the government of his homeland grants aliens from the United States. Such privileges are few. Great Britain has more liberal laws than most European countries, yet the alien may stay in Great Britain only on a permit which must be renewed every six months, and he may not work if his working would displace a British subject from a job.

As for the alien who has entered this country illegally, he surely has no rights of residence. Yet Madam Secretary Perkins supports a measure to legalize the residence of those aliens who entered the country in violation of the law before 1920 and have managed since to evade detection. Such alien lawbreakers would be logical recruits for a seditious army.

The greatest bar at present to proper dealing with the alien problem is the difficulty of isolating the alien from the general population. Registration of aliens should be a federal policy. Until it is made so, passage by the Illinois legislature of the alien registration bill, which has the support of leaders of the American Legion and the Illinois Bar association, will help solve the problem so far as this state is concerned.

LINERS' RESERVE SPEED.

[Detroit News.]

A German source spreads the word that both the Bremen and the Europa of the North German Lloyd line have reserves of power and speed which have never been demonstrated, and suggests that the Rex of the Italian line also has surpluses in leash. This is apropos of the breaking of the old fast passage mark by the new Normandie on her maiden voyage.

Unquestionably the Normandie's older rivals are faster than they have ever shown. All liners are. But one who has ever traveled on a liner put to its top speed will know why this is not the regular practice. The craft vibrates from stem to stern and the effect on the passenger is distinctly remindful of a treatment on an electric horse. A ship driven to the utmost would wear out in the same relative time as a stock automobile driven habitually at 90 miles an hour. And it would attract no customers after a trip or two.

Many soldiers who were on transports in 1918 still recall submarine scares off the British Isles, when the ships were given the gun. Their teeth chatter still at the mere recollection of the experience.

HAIN'T SCIENCE WONDERFUL! We were talking to a man the other night about the possibility of going through his little home town on our vacation trip this summer. We said it must be a joy to go there, surrounded as it is with green hills and lovely woods and famous as a milk country. We wanted to stop there so as to get all the real cream and rich milk we could drink. "Hain't much in the town," said the home boy, "just an ice cream factory." That suited me. I said I wanted to sit down and eat real ice cream that I knew was made out of real cream, and I could watch the bossie cows walking around in the lush pastures while I ate it. "Yessir," said the man, "he sure makes good ice cream; he went to the state college and took the three months' summer course to learn how to do it." "Pshaw," said I, "you don't have to study at a state college three months to learn how to make ice cream. Anybody can look inside a cook book and read what it says and make ice cream right off the bat." "Well," said the man, "you see, at college he learned how to make ice cream without using any cream." I've decided not to visit that little far off town. I'm old fashioned. I still like to think I'm eating ice cream made out of cream.

SONG FOR A LADY.

She is like a flower,
she is like a song,
being cool and beautiful
all day long.

She is like a melody,
she is like a rose:
lovely while it lingers,
but, goodness knows,

there is little afterward to hold in the hand;
so with fragile iris
or a saraband.

Still, it is no matter—an eager empty palm—
if the heart remember an hour sweet and calm

like a pool of water after the rain
upon a marble terrace
where dust had lain.

JEANNE DELAMARTER.

TEARS CAME TO MY EYES yesterday and compassion filled my breast as I gazed on a shabby man sitting on a little stool grinding a wheezy hand organ on North avenue. He wore green goggles and had let his whiskers grow down to his waistline, but he couldn't fool me. I recognized a former millionaire who used to wear his long tailed coat and his silk hat and attend grand opera with his wife, who always wore from a peck to a bushel and a half of diamonds, rubies, and pearls. And now see what the coming "Tax the Rich" law of Mr. Roosevelt has done to him. "Ah," I murmured pityingly. "God help the rich; the poor can go on relief." And wiping my tears away I hastily dropped a plugged Canadian dime in his tin cup and hurried on.

IT'S A FREQUENT CAUSE of complaint on the part of the ladies that their husbands are never home long enough—they're out on the golf links or at the baseball games or down at the club or Heaven knows where. Now comes a Chicago woman who wants a divorce because her husband stays home all the time and beats her when she wants to go out. Gosh! There's just no way of pleasing 'em.

Beg Pardon.

Through a typographical error in the marriage licenses last week, the age of the bride was made to appear greater than it is. The figures should have been 34, and she doesn't look that by any means. The editor regrets the error.

THERE OUGHT TO BE a lot of chances to pick up a nice used silk hat, model of 1934 or 1935, these days, since silk hats are a sign of opulence and the rich don't want to wear them. They ought to be plentiful at ten or fifteen cents apiece. But if they are a badge of wealth then who would buy a silk hat? Right away the tax grabbers would be after him. And pearl necklaces! Oh, pearls just spell R-I-C-H right out like that. People hate to give up their pearls. Maybe the best thing to do would be to attach a small placard to a string of pearls reading: "Just imitation. Looks like $25,000 pearls, but I bought 'em in a 5 and 10 store for ten cents. Lay offen me, you 'Swat the Rich' tax collectors.'

ABANDONED CHURCH.

Within the shrine a yellow candle burns
Against old altar curtains grimed with dust;
Along the gilded rail the nibbling rust
Creeps slowly, and the aging silver turns
To dull gray tarnish; and slender ferns
And grass and creeping roots begin to thrust;
And mosses gently spread their fragrant crust
Upon the silver bell where grieving terns
Cry softly as the cool blue shadows grow.
Within the vestry restless unseen feet
Disturb the quiet dust and come and go.
And where the deeper silent shadows meet
An ancient god nods, sleepily and slow,
And the shadows weave gently, to and fro.

I GIVE UP on the weather. I'm having the old gas buggy fitted with a freeboard, a leg-of-mutton sail, and an anchor. And I'm going to learn to heave the lead so that I can take soundings and see if I can find out how deep the water is on some of the roads south of Chicago. I lost a cigaret case overboard out there on my last trip and if the water isn't too deep I'm going to send down a deep sea diver and try to salvage the darn thing.

COLON IRRIGATIONS.

HISTORIANS trace the use of the enema, later called "clyster," to ancient Egypt. As a popular remedy the procedure achieved great fame in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, and numerous drawings by the famous English caricaturists, Cruikshank and Gillray, detail the types of apparatus used. There were clyster syringes, clyster chairs, and numerous types of portable equipment. The laxative pill came into vogue some two or three generations ago and, except in hospital practice, the clyster was largely forgotten.

In 1898 Langenhagen of France introduced a new apparatus which was described as a horizontal irrigating device that would wash the entire length of the large bowel. Colon irrigations are really a revival of the clyster. However, when properly performed they are quite different, as the intent of the irrigation is to flush the entire colon, not merely the lower bowel.

If the diagnosis shows clearly the need for flushing the colon, and if the method is skilfully carried out, irrigations may be of real value. They may remove areas of infection and release thick, tenacious mucus or putrefying intestinal contents.

For putrefaction or infection of the intestines Bastedo advises in certain suitable cases three irrigations a week at first, dropping in a short time to one per week. He cautions, however, that the introduction of water or other fluids into the bowel is an abnormal process and unless the indications for its use are positive it may seriously disturb the normal functions of the bowel. When definitly necessary Bastedo advises that five to nine gallons of fluid be used for each irrigation. The patient lies on his left side for the first gallon and on his back for the remainder. The fluid is injected under very little pressure and the whole procedure occupies fully one hour. He recommends two ounces of common salt to eight gallons of water. The temperature of the solution should be approximately 104 degrees F., although the bowel can stand slightly more heat.

A recent report by Friedenwald and Morrison states categorically that as usually employed irrigation of the colon should not be encouraged. They list among harmful effects the habitual use of the measure which, in their experience, has in some cases produced irritation of the bowel. They limit the employment of the method to once or twice weekly for a few weeks and thereafter to once in every two weeks. In the condition known as ulcerative colitis their results have not been encouraging. They believe the amount of fluid used should be less than that recommended by Bastedo. The solutions suggested are plain water, normal salt solution, and a solution of bicarbonate of soda. When medicated solutions are employed such as nitrate of silver, argyrol, tannic acid, permanganate of potash, and various aniline dyes, they should be very dilute and a followup irrigation of warm water should be used. Some value is attached to the procedure in stimulating the contraction or relaxation of the bowel. In the condition known as spastic colitis warm solutions produced a decided relaxation. They warn against so-called cures of chronic appendicitis by this method.

Regardless of certain advantages, colon irrigation should never be attempted in patients suffering from serious heart disease, high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, severe anemia, high fevers, acute intestinal ulcerations, or when there is marked debility or lack of resistance.

If one were to evaluate colon flushing as now employed by some untrained and unskilled persons it is safe to say that more harm than good will probably result from its use. Nevertheless, there are some conditions of the colon that are decidedly benefited when the measure is judiciously utilized.

MAY BE LIVER SPOTS.

V. W. L. writes: What causes brown spots on the face and hands?

REPLY:

Brown spots on the skin are sometimes called liver spots or moth patches. They are usually rounded areas and may vary in shade from a light tan to a rather deep brown. They are not elevated and the skin is smooth. They occur particularly on the face, although they are also found on the abdomen, trunk, and other parts of the body.

Irritation of the skin can cause them. For example, after sunburn, certain areas may remain darker than normal. Sometimes a scratch will be noticeable for months afterwards because it is slightly darker. Any chemical that irritates the skin; a dermatitis, eczema, or parasitic infection may prove a factor. There are some diseases such as Addison's disease [tuberculosis of the adrenal glands], goiter, and pelvic diseases in women that may be accompanied by these discolorations. The spots often disappear spontaneously, and occasionally they are associated with obstinate constipation. The treatment usually employed by dermatologists consists of the application of bichloride of mercury, salicylic acid, or peroxide of hydrogen.

GETS PROMPT RESULTS.

B. H. C. writes: Some months ago you stated that too much fat was one of the causes of psoriasis. Having been afflicted with the disease for more than twenty years I decided to try out this theory. I cut out almost all greases and fats, but did not punish myself to the extent of total abstinence. The improvement was almost immediate and has been remarkable. Practically all the old skin marks have gone and only a few nodules remain. My experience [of about three months] satisfied me that total abstinence from fats would wipe out the trouble. I have always been addicted to rich gravies. Possibly abstinence from eggs aids.

REPLY:

Last fall this column carried an article on the results obtained by Prof. Grütz's theory that psoriasis was essentially a disease of fat metabolism. He permits less than one ounce of fat per day. Egg yolk is on the forbidden list, but egg white is allowed. We have a small leaflet giving this diet and also suggestions for calcium in the treatment of psoriasis. Send a stamped and addressed envelope for it.

INFECTION AVOIDABLE.

Mrs. S. S. asks about septicemia [blood poisoning] due to infection at the time of childbirth. She describes her own case and her narrow escape.

REPLY.

Infection that may follow confinement is avoidable in the largest percentage of cases. Nevertheless, thousands of instances occur in this country each year. A great part of the responsibility rests upon the physician or midwife, although the prospective mother and her surroundings may also be at fault. The science of obstetrics has advanced greatly in the past two generations and we have learned that infection at the time of delivery must be guarded against by means of scrupulous cleanliness. Today physicians are on the alert to prevent this much dreaded complication.

While childbirth is a normal physiological process it requires intelligence, skill, and coöperation to make it safe. This means the selection of a skilled physician, watchful prenatal care of the mother [before the child is born], a clean environment, and good nursing.

TERMS OF WILL.

Chicago, June 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My widowed father died in 1932 in Wisconsin, leaving a will stating his estate should remain intact until my young brother was 21. This boy attained that age in 1934. The will states we should all share alike and named my oldest brother executor. I have lived in Chicago for six years while the rest of the family reside in Wisconsin. An auction of the household effects was held recently. While our sanction of this was requested and given, the exact date of the holding was intentionally withheld and no report of the proceeds made. There are also land, bank stock, and property involved. 1. Has the executor the right to withhold information regarding the proposed settlement and amount involved from me? 2. How long before the law requires him to make settlement? 3. If he thinks he is doing best, although it is not in accord with our wishes, can he rent instead of sell, and can we demand a report on the proceeds? 4. Can we demand a detailed report of receipts and disbursements for the last three years? 5. Is it not necessary to have all signatures before disposal of stock, land, and other property?

R. D. L.

1. It seems probable that the will gave authority to sell or that the executor secured court authority to sell. In either case, the right to notice would depend largely on the wording of the authority.

2. See 1.

3. See 1.

4. His obligation is to report to the court rather than to you. We see no reason why you should not insist that such a court accounting be filed and the estate closed.

5. Not necessarily. The will or a court order might authorize sale.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LIENS.

Chicago, June 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please inform me where I can find out if there is a lien against my property and if there are charges for getting that information. 2. I understand there has been a lien put on it and would like to find out just where I can get that information.

M. O.

1. If you have no clew as to the nature of the lien the most complete coverage would be obtained by having your abstract brought down to date. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the facts on which you base your suspicion that there is a lien and what reasons you have for being in a hurry to check up.

2. If it is a mechanic's lien you should inquire at the office of the clerk of the Circuit court in the county building. Judgment liens would appear in the judgment indices in the recorder's office in the county building. Other liens might require other search. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

It is a mistake to suppose that a pipe should be completely filled with water to flow its greatest capacity. A pipe that is only partly filled will permit water or any other liquid to flow faster than the full one. This is because the surface friction slows the flow of water in the pipe that is full more than in the partly filled pipe.

ODDS FISH, A BOYCOTT!

Lombard, Ill., June 22.—Thanks to Attorney Barratt O'Hara's radio broadcast last evening, we know now that it is THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and its attorneys who are bringing the leverage of their powerful influence to prevent the park board renting Soldiers' field to Father Coughlin for a massmeeting of the National Union for Social Justice. This action on your part is not at all surprising as THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE stands unalterably opposed to anything savoring of justice for the people.

Now that we definitly know who would take away our consitutional right of free speech and peaceful assembly, this is to notify you that I, as an active and earnest member of the National Union for Social Justice, beginning this morning, am boycotting your paper and every store whose advertisments appear on your pages, with the exception of The Fair. Mr. D. F. Kelly of that store, I am sure, would never lend his indorsement to any such contemptible proceedings as your paper stoops to—I, for one, am not wasting words on you, but up to midday this date, by word of mouth and telephone, I am fortified by the pledged word of eighteen responsible representative women in my community who are this very minute hard at work spreading the same gospel. Just let these advertisers take note of their sales this coming week and determine whether or not the National Union for Social Justice is not a living, moving, thinking force to be reckoned with.

A carbon copy of this communication is being mailed to the head of the advertising department of Marshall Field, Mandel Brothers, Carson Pirie Scott & Co., the Davis Store, and Boston Store.

Yours for Social Justice,
MISS CATHERINE A. MCMENAMIN.

GIRLS, LADIES, AND WOMEN.

Chicago, June 21.—When the male of human beings attains the age of 21, more or less, he is always referred to as a man, not as a boy. In fact, even youths of 16 to 20 are called young men.

Why, then, must the public and the daily press be so careless and inaccurate as to constantly speak of a "gun girl," a "business girl," and a "girl traveler"? How ridiculous it would be to speak of a "business boy," a "boy policeman," etc. Why then should we be calling women "girls"? The correlative of "man" is "woman."

Another all too common impropriety hereabouts is the habitual pairing of the words "man" and "lady." If you go to a Chicago department store and, for example, ask to see the fountain pens or watches, the woman clerk will ask, "Ladies' or men's?"

Last year a Chicago judge stopped a witness when she testified: "The lady used to sit in that man's lap, attired only in a kimono, when her husband was away, and—" "Wait," said the judge, "Some women do not merit the term 'lady.'"

LAWRENCE L. COWAN.

FLAG ETIQUET.

Chicago, June 23.—Just a word of thanks to the police officer who made the picnic truck pull over to the curb at Madison street and Western avenue Sunday morning, June 23, at 10 o'clock and change the American flag from the left side to the right side and the Italian flag from right to the left side of the truck.

BYSTANDER.

A MORTGAGED FUTURE.

Chicago, June 21.—I am nearing my twenty-fifth birthday; was graduated from a Big Ten university in 1932 and have been employed in a menial capacity at a small figure since November of that year. I punched a soap factory clock in the summers of '30 and '31 and wore the same overalls doing manual labor the two previous summers. At school I washed dishes. All this to justify my claim of understanding the working people. I took my A. B. in sociology, but theory does not adequately cover the multitude of exceptions found in life.

By the end of this summer I will be out of debt and then I hope to start working toward a master's degree at the University of Chicago. I had all the aspirations of the normal man concerning love, marriage, a home, children, security, but I see myself being sold down the river by the present administration in Washington, which has succeeded in placing a 99 year mortgage on my present and future earning capacity. The indebtedness that is being assumed must be paid by the young people of today and by their children. Yet, like myself, they have been unprotestingly dissatisfied, believing that nothing can be done about it.

When things have reached such a state that our senior legislative body passes a bill that they believe to be unconstitutional merely because the President wishes it passed, that's going too far. Much of the recent legislation is questionable and the appropriations are staggeringly uncomprehendable, but Roosevelt has cracked the whip too freely.

Political scientists have long advocated that senators should not be eligible for reëlection. Any one knows on which side his bread is buttered, and approval by the leaders may involve considerable campaign funds, easy jobs, more pay, etc. The present administration has proven most conclusively that a check on political machinery, steam rolling, etc., is positively necessary.

My purpose is to urge THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to render the future generations of the United States a great service by advocating, promoting, and, I hope, bringing about, a constitutional amendment that shall limit the tenure of senators of the United States congress to one term.

H. F.

THE FASTIDIOUS VOTER.

Tulsa, Okla., June 21.—McCutcheon's cartoon, "The Fastidious Voter," in THE TRIBUNE of June 18 presents the only thing I've heard or read for some time that might be taken as an argument for the reëlection of President Roosevelt, namely, that we might get something worse.

I'll admit that the mere suggestion of such a possibility gave me quite a shock. Doubtless many others experienced that same shock, and to those who may not have recovered from it may I suggest that again the constitution will save us? According to that document, no foreigner can become President.

G. H. VAN CLEVE.

INTERESTING IF TRUE.

Chicago, June 20.—The saving people of this state should know Mayor Kelly traded the mortgage moratorium bill with Senator Williams, its downstate advocate, for Williams' and his followers' support of the sales tax and Kelly's handbook, park, tax increase and other bills.

A VITAL NEW SECTION

IN AN

OUTSTANDING SUNDAY NEWSPAPER

A NEW kind of newspaper section has been added to The Sunday Times—a Review that summarizes the week's news and tells you what it means—a distinct departure in Sunday journalism.

Thus a new news feature has been added to the outstanding Sunday *news*paper. In The Sunday Times you will find, in addition to the Review: a magazine, illustrated by rotogravure, containing articles of immediate news interest, done vividly and expertly; a book review, in rotogravure, that keeps you up-to-the-minute in literary matters; a rotogravure picture section that is world-wide in range and right on the heels of events; an arts section that informs you fully about the theatre, the screen, music, the fine arts, radio and fashions.

Here are five sections for through-the-week, as well as for Sunday reading, combining the qualities of the best magazines with the timeliness of the newspaper—plus, of course: all the news of the day, all the news of sports, all the departmental news (financial, business, real estate, science, automobiles, aviation, travel and the rest).

Because of the scope and lasting quality of its content, The Sunday Times has become known as a newspaper that is kept well beyond Sunday; it is not skimmed over but read from page to page. Thus it offers a rich opportunity to advertisers, reaching homes with above-average incomes, appealing to the most responsive section of the nation's greatest market at the lowest comparative cost.

TO THE ADVERTISER:

Families with checking accounts are families with above-average buying power. They are the best customers for almost any product or service. The Polk Census proves that The Times reaches more of these New York families than any other newspaper.

U. OF C. TEACHER CONVINCES DAD HE IS 'DEAD' SON

Proves Identity to Mayor Elect of Minneapolis.

Ira H. Latimer, young instructor at the University of Chicago, has convinced Mayor Elect Thomas E. Latimer of Minneapolis that he is the son Latimer believed had died 29 years ago, according to Minneapolis despatches last night.

Latimer returned Saturday from Minneapolis to his home at 5742 Stony Island, where he lives with his wife and son. While teaching at the university, Latimer is also studying for a doctor of philosophy degree.

Meet First Time Last Saturday.

The elder Latimer's first indication that his son was still living came last Saturday when the university instructor approached the mayor elect at Sauk Rapids, Minn., with evidence of their kinship. Verification of the strange story told by the son was sent to Latimer yesterday from relatives of his son in Columbus, O., according to word from Minneapolis.

"Of course I am supremely happy to know that my boy I thought dead is very much alive and that I have not only a son, but a grandson," declared Mayor Elect Latimer yesterday. "But it was a jolt, coming out of the clear sky after so many years.

"Nevertheless I am looking forward to getting acquainted with my boy and I hope we can somehow make up in the years to come the things we lost in the past."

The Latimers' Story.

The strange story of the Latimers begain in 1905 when Latimer, at the age of 26, returned to his home in Hilliard, O., after six years of prospecting in the Klondike and in the southwest and married May Helser. The couple separated later that year, and Latimer returned to the west, where he was informed that a son had been born and died.

Latimer said he now learns that his first wife divorced him and married a man named Jenkins, bringing the boy up under that name. "When my son visited me Saturday," said the mayor elect, "he said he bore the name of Jenkins until about two years ago when he entered the university and was married. He then changed his name back to Latimer."

When the story of Latimer's election was published in Ohio, relatives of his former wife recognized him from the name and the story of his gold prospecting career. They communicated with his son here who went to Minnesota carrying birth and marriage certificates and other records which convinced the mayor-elect of the relationship.

Bundesen Sounds Warning on Mad Dog on South Side

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, yesterday warned that any persons who have been bitten or scratched by a dog in the vicinity of Drexel avenue and 80th street during the last two weeks should communicate with the board of health relative to undergoing the Pasteur treatment. The dog was killed after it had bitten Victor Ponzeo, 1142 Forest avenue, on Saturday, and health department tests show it was infected with rabies.

Murder Verdict Returned in Youth's Death in Holdup

A murder finding was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the inquest into the death of Philip Whaley Jr., 21 years old, 7113 South Vernon avenue, who was slain May 26 by a colored bandit who posed as a policeman. Meanwhile it was revealed Whaley's companion, Kenneth L. Coffin, 20 years old, 7549 Constance avenue, has appeared daily at the Wabash Avenue Police station to view every colored prisoner in the hope of finding the killer.

30,000 Strike in Warsaw Against New Electoral Law

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Poland, June 25.—Thirty thousand workers struck in Warsaw today as the sejm began debate on the new electorial law, which, according to opposition spokesmen, will rob the population of direct representation in parliament. The Socialist party organized a country-wide strike as a demonstration against the proposed law. The government majority, however, is determined to pass this bill in order to protect the régime.

Enrollments in Summer Schools 2,808 Above 1934

This year 378 students are enrolled at Chicago Normal college, 5,868 pupils in 12 high schools, and 2,929 in 7 elementary schools. Last year 3,845 pupils signed up for summer high school courses.

LEPROSY BACILLI CULTIVATED BY FRENCH SCIENCE

PARIS, June 25.—(AP)—Culture of leprosy bacilli for the first time since their discovery in 1871 was reported to the academy of medicine today by two French scientists, Dr. A. Vaudremer and Mlle. C. Brun.

They said the bacilli were destroyed within 24 hours by serum obtained from lepers. Vaccine obtained from their cultures had been used with "satisfactory results," the scientists reported.

They said the cultures, obtained after seven years of research, showed the leprosy bacilli, which were first discovered by the Norwegian doctor Armauer Hansen, developed like those of tuberculosis through successive stages from the first granular form. Vaudremer and Mlle. Brun concluded they are microbes with spores.

HIBERNIAN ORDER TO HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC SATURDAY

A delegation representing the ladies' auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians appeared at the city hall yesterday to invite Mayor Kelly to attend a centennial picnic of the organization to be held at Pilsen park Saturday. The picnic will celebrate the 100th birthday of the order in Chicago, and will mark a drive to organize a junior department in the city, according to Mrs. Mary F. McWhorter, a member of the delegation. Michael Igoe, United States district attorney, will be one of the speakers. Ancient Irish games will be played and a series of athletic contests will be held.

Vacates $9,894 Judgment Against Edward Sullivan

A jury before Judge Roman E. Posanski of Calumet City, sitting in the Circuit court here, returned a verdict yesterday vacating a judgment for $9,894 against Edward B. Sullivan, wholesale furniture dealer and former director of the Kenwood State bank. The amount represented a judgment note signed by Sullivan in 1931 and held by the bank. The bank's receiver took a judgment on the note in 1932, and Sullivan filed a petition to vacate it on the ground that he had not been informed of the proceedings. Sullivan said his signature to the note had been obtained by misrepresentation, made possible because of his failing eyesight.

Albert Sire, N. Y. Lawyer, Killed in Death Plunge

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Albert I. Sire, 75, attorney and owner of extensive real estate in the city, was killed shortly before noon today when he either fell or jumped from a water tank on top of an apartment house. Earlier in the day he learned that the foreclosure proceedings on a mortgage of $400,000 on the San Jacinto hotel had been completed, with the sale today at auction of the hotel. Sire owned the building and made it his residence. The building from which Sire plunged had belonged to him until two years ago, at which time a $250,000 mortgage on it also was foreclosed.

200 Lb. Policeman, Kicked Out of Bed, Sues for Divorce

Alleging that his wife, Helen, kicked him out of bed, threatened him with his own revolver, and interfered with his duties, John Quinn Jr., 5807 Marmora avenue, a Town Hall station policeman who weighs 200 pounds, filed suit for divorce in the Superior court yesterday. Policeman Quinn's bill charges further that his wife upsets him by inviting her friends to their home to gamble. The Quinns were married in 1922 and parted last Thursday.

PIONEER PACIFIC AIR LINE FACES POSSIBLE SNUB

Prize of U. S. Backing Is at Stake.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—The question of government aid for an American airline spanning the Pacific ocean was raised today by the announcement that Pan-American airlines will soon attempt trans-Pacific service without federal backing.

Whether or not Pan-American eventually gets an air mail subsidy to help it carry on its pioneering into the orient depends on the fate of the deficiency appropriation bill now in the senate and on Postmaster General James A. Farley's attitude toward the company.

Millon Dollar Appropriation.

The deficiency bill carries a million dollar appropriation for an air mail line across the Pacific, and Farley's department will let the contract for this million dollar route soon after the senate acts on the bill and it becomes law. The sum was cut from two to one million dollars on the grounds that no company could start operations soon enough to need the full sum.

Postoffice officials announce that they will open the million dollar trans-Pacific route to competitive bidding after the appropriation becomes effective. Although Pan-American alone has done the pioneering work of laying out bases across the ocean and of conducting surveys, the postoffice claims that many inquiries have been received from companies interested in the venture.

Will Be Allowed One Year.

Bidders will be allowed one year in which to begin operations under the tentative plans of the postoffice department. Thus it might be possible for another company to underbid Pan-American, win the million dollars contract, and spend the next year preparing to operate.

Pan-American began its surveys two years ago and spent much time arranging with the navy for bases in Hawaii, Guam, and Wake Island. If it should win the contract, it would be ready to start service within a few months, according to the announcement made by company officials in San Francisco today.

There is much speculation in unofficial circles about Pan-American's status under the New Deal. Postmaster General Farley recently criticized the company's air mail contracts, saying that the company had received favors from previous administrations.

On the other hand, Pan-American's air mail contracts, all of which are on routes outside the country, were not canceled when the New Deal abrogated the domestic contracts.

Service Starts in Fall.

San Francisco, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—Regular weekly air passenger service between California and the Philippines will be started in September or early in October, V. E. Chenea, general trafic manager of Pan-American airways, indicated today.

Chenea, who has just returned from a 25,000 mile inspection tour of company lines in North and South America, said one 44 passenger Martin plane will arrive in about thirty days for the first Honolulu test flight.

"The test flights of the present clipper ship have been satisfactory, and with completion of two more round trips to islands beyond Midway our survey period will be over. In the meantime a trial run will be made by the new Martin to Honolulu and return in preparation for its regular run," he said.

Chenea said fares to Honolulu and the orient have not been set but would probably be approximately twice the regular steamer fares. A one way ticket to Manila would be "under $1,000."

Magician's Illusionist Sister Divorces His Miracle Aid

Mrs. Mildred Boughton[who acts as "illusionist" for her brother, Harry Blackstone, a magician, was granted a divorce yesterday from Peter A. Boughton, who assists Blackstone in his magical "escapes." Boughton was ordered to pay $10 a week for the support of their 8 year old son. Mrs. Boughton told Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort she was disillusioned when Boughton deserted her in 1932 after six years of marriage. The couple, who reside in Chicago, departed last night for Detroit to take part in Blackstone's act.

Belmont Harbor Beach to Be Closed All Season

Insanitary conditions will keep the Belmont Harbor beach closed to bathers this season, according to Harry O'Hare, in charge of Chicago Park district beaches. O'Hare said yesterday that park district officials believe the Diversey and Fullerton avenue beaches, with the newly developed Montrose-Wilson avenue beach and the increased facilities now being installed at Oak street, will afford ample bathing accommodations. He pointed out that there are 52 boat stalls and 130 moorings in Belmont harbor.

OPEN DES PLAINES CENTENNIAL FETE IN DELUGE OF RAIN

Despite a torrent of rain which fell upon the 10,000 spectators and paraders just as the festivities started last night, the village of Des Plaines opened a six day celebration in observance of its centennial. Four days of historical pageantry and contests will be followed Sunday by special church services.

With rain pouring down on the villagers as they formed along the line of march and in the reviewing stand at Ellinwood and Pearson streets, the parade was staged according to schedule. Hundreds of automobiles representing business houses pulled floats depicting various highlights in Des Plaines history.

Miss Marion Toepper, 20 years old, 1550 Henry avenue, selected by popular ballot, was crowned "Miss Des Plaines" to climax the evening celebration. Miss Toepper is a descendant of early settlers in the community.

Miss Jean Grue, 19 years old; her brother, Michael, and her sweetheart, James Trelford, who have boasted of participating in more than 100 robberies in the last two years, were held to the grand jury in total bonds of $110,000 yesterday by Municipal Judge Joseph A. Graber. Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue police testified that Miss Grue and her brother had been arrested on information furnished by Trelford. "It's a lie," Trelford shouted and lunged at the policeman. He was subdued by bailifs and held in bond of $60,000. Grue's bond was set at $30,000, and that of his sister at $20,000.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Nip Off Salients.

June 25, 1935.

A GRAND frontal attack on the heavy stand of weeds growing on the Yorkville experimental farm was carried out yesterday. Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, initiated a brand new rubber tired tractor on the task. The tractor pulled a mower through many a patch of weeds.

From the weed cutting job the new tractor proceeded to the cornfields. Yesterday Clarence had Eddie Johnson and Ken Miller cultivating in the highest growth of corn, on the north side of the river. Clarence, Andy Shadoan, and Charley Sleezer were similarly occupied on the south side of the river. The weather has been just right for weed growths, with plenty of spring rain and enough warm days to aid their progress, so the cultivating is important.

The next job, after the 485 acres of corn gets its second round of cultivation, will be to cut alfalfa hay. This job will be coming up very soon.

Louis Thurow and Shorty Christiansen have been mighty busy in the soybean plots. They finished planting the "rainbow" mixture yesterday morning, and in the afternoon they were planting straight Illini soybeans in the 20 acre plot at the south end of the farm.

Clarence remarked the other day that the weather has been wonderful in one respect, but not so good in another way. The corn is doing fine. It shot up rapidly during the week-end as a result of the warm, windy days. This warm weather however, isn't all that it could be for the oats. Right now, just before the ripening stage, the oats need cool, moist weather. Weather of that sort most of the spring has made the oats stand high.

Nig, the big Newfoundland pup, is in trouble again. The other day the black 100 pounder chewed most of the shingles off the top of his kennel.

Even though summer is here, and school is over, they are "holding classes" in the barnyard at the Yorkville farm. The "teacher" is a Barred Rock hen, and the "pupils" are 16 Buff Orpington chicks and one Barred Rock chick. The hen is trying to teach young ones how to fly into a tree, but so far her efforts have fallen short of complete success.

With all of the chicks on the ground, the hen will take off and fly to a low branch in the tree. Some of the chicks will follow, but the rest just stay on the ground and look up at their more skilful pals.

The red buildings near the big silo are rapidly being changed from red to cream color. The big barn now has one full coat of the new color, as has the implement shed. The corncrib is one-third covered.

GENERAL STRIKE THREAT GROWS IN LUMBER TROUBLE

Tacoma, Wash., June 25.—[Special.]—Threats of a general strike in protest against the use of troops in the lumbermen's strike continued to grow today as the troopers used gas bombs and kept crowds moving with fixed bayonets.

Tear gas, resorted to yesterday to disperse belligerent mobs of pickets, was hurled again today to preserve order as men returned to work in half a dozen lumber mills.

National Guardsmen were prepared for duty in Oregon, where other mills planned to reopen tomorrow. Strikers in the widespread dispute, which now involves more than 35,000 men, have asserted they will not permit the mills to resume operations.

Antoinette Donnelly Tells How Noted Beauties Keep Charm

Eleven Women from America Bow to Queen

King Absent at Season's Third Court.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—Ten American debutantes and one American matron curtsied to Queen Mary tonight at the third court of the jubilee season, held in Buckingham palace.

The queen stood alone in front of the royal circle. King George is resting at Sandringham. She was escorted to the throne by her son, the duke of Kent, who then took his place behind her among the other members of the royal family.

Among the Americans was Miss Helen Jacobs, who is here for the international tennis tournaments at Wimbledon. Miss Jacobs wore a parchment colored satin gown cut on classical lines. The bodice was slightly gathered onto a cord and held high in front, with a similar effect in the back, but cut low. The train of the same parchment satin was lined with silver lame, which matched a swathed waist belt.

An innovation at this court was the presence in "The Grille" of twenty guests of the queen, whose names were withheld. They received white cards, signed by the queen's secretary, admitting them to a kind of balcony at the end of the white and gold ballroom.

Unannounced and unseen themselves, they had the best positions possible from which to see the ceremony. They were forbidden to use opera glasses, because the reflection from the polished lenses might dazzle the members of the royal circle and the guests below.

Miss Marianna Dunn, daughter Mr. and Mrs. James Clement Dunn of Kansas City and Washington, D. C., and a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Laurance H. Armour of Chicago, made her curtsy in a white satin gown. The o note of color was a large bouquet of mauve orchids which she carried. A wisp of tulle and three prince of Wales feathers were held in place by a simple roll of white satin worn as a coronet, high on her head.

Mrs. Claude Leigh, formerly Miss Myrtle Johnson of Chicago, who herself was presented in 1932 by her mother, the marchioness of Carisbrooke, a cousin of King George, this year presented her own daughter and her husband's daughter. Although they all went to the court as English women, Mrs. Leigh and her daughter Joyce are both Chicago born.

Mrs. Leigh wore a close fitting parchment satin gown. The skirt had a tunic in front, which was draped around to form a bustle at the back. The gown bore no trimming, but had a parchment satin train embroidered in dull gold and pearls.

Miss Joan Leigh wore a debutante gown of white tulle with fitted bodice of white faille and big bows of white faille on the shoulders. The skirt had six small ruffles of tulle and the train was a billowy creation of white tulle sprinkled with silver embroidery. She carried lilies of the valley.

Miss Joyce Leigh wore a white net gown with a full skirt built in two tiers and an enormous sash of turquoise blue with a large bow at the back which fell to the floor. Her train was of white net and she carried a formal bouquet of white gardenias.

Miss Priscilla Taylor of Villanova, Pa., wore a debutante gown of white tulle. A tight fitted bodice contrasted with a full skirt. At the V of the neck there was a white satin rose and white satin petals were sprinkled over the skirt. The train was of white satin and the ensemble was completed by a large loose bouquet of mixed white flowers.

A variation of a debutante tulle gown was worn by Miss Naney Symington of Baltimore, who combined rose point lace with cream colored tulle, using the lace as applique.

Miss Frances Lorillard Ronalds, a London resident, wore a gown of white silk net fashioned over a white satin foundation in empire style. It had a full net skirt trimmed with spiral white satin ribbon and a court train of pluie d'argent lame. Miss Ronalds' father, the late Reginald Ronalds, was one of Theodore Roosevelt's rough riders.

Miss Jane Watson of New York City wore an all white lace gown embroidered in silver. The gown was of simple lines, but the lace gave it a soft pattern around the neck and the narrow belt was trimmed with pearl and diamente ornaments. Miss Watson was a New York debutante this spring and has been going to the Ascot races as a guest in the royal inclosure.

Miss Emlen Knight Davies of Washington, D. C., wore a gown of silver and white brocade, conceived on classical lines. The simplicity of the gown was repeated in the train, which was lined and edged in silver. She wore a diamond band in her hair and carried a bouquet of white orchids and gardenias.

Miss Leta Clews, one of the New York debutantes who has been at the Ascot races as a guest in the royal inclosure, wore a white empire gown trimmed in silver and pink.

All the Americans were presented by Mrs. Robert Bingham, wife of the American ambassador. She wore a lime green silk taffeta gown decorated with gold and silver flowers. The lines were classical and had a high Medici collar. The note of silver was repeated in the silver lace train and silver brocade slippers. She wore a diamond tiara and carried a white ostrich feather fan.

ONE of the passengers in an elevator in a loop building obviously was intoxicated. As the car started up a passenger (W. F. Coale) called his floor.

"Seventeen, please," he said.

Other passengers followed his example, and it happened that the numbers followed successively, "sixteen," "fifteen," "fourteen," "thirteen." As a sixth person called his floor, the twelfth, the drunk addressed the operator:

"What the 'ell, buddy," he said, "is this car going up or down?"

A CHICAGO lawyer (Joseph D. Feitelbaum), handling a mortgage loan, insisted that tornado insurance as well as fire insurance be placed on the property involved.

"What do I need tornado insurance for?" inquired the man who was mortgaging his property.

"Well, tornado is the same kind of risk that fire is," said the attorney.

"O, no, it isn't," persisted the property owner.

"Why not?" inquired Mr. Feitelbaum.

"Well, you can't start a tornado," explained the mortgagor.

Baptists Seek Ways to Stop Military Training in Colleges

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 25.—(AP)—Two thousand Northern Baptists ended their annual convention here tonight with sharp criticism of the American navy's recent maneuvers in Pacific waters ringing in their ears.

The criticism was made by Mrs. Ida B. Wise, Evanston, Ill., national president of the Women's Christian Temperance union.

The dry leader's address was coupled with the militant report of the convention's committee on exemption from military service of Baptist conscientious objectors.

The military report, adopted by the convention, stated the United States Supreme court decision last fall upholding rights of states to require students in state institutions to take military training had closed an avenue which Baptists had chosen for use in fighting compulsory military training.

Two courses were suggested to Baptists to follow: Persuasion of trustees of various state institutions against military training and pressure upon state legislatures for anti-military legislation.

"Neither of these courses offers much hope at the present time," the report said, "in view of the marked and accelerated zeal for militarism spreading through the United States."

Arden Shore Opens Today for Summer

Mothers and Children to Enjoy Camp.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE opening today of the Arden Shore Association Camp at Lake Bluff is a momentous occasion not only for the underprivileged mothers and children who will have vacations there this summer, but for the dozens of Chicago and north shore women who all during the year work so capably and with unflagging zeal to make possible the summer camp and the winter one which cares for undernourished boys who need building up.

No charity, it seems to me, has a finer or more devoted group of women supporting it than Arden Shore and one of the nicest things about the women who work to raise money for this charity is that they do not stop at that; they take a personal interest in the camp and its guests and they always are arranging something to make those who are at Arden Shore happier. For one of the firm beliefs of the camp manager and "mother," Miss Anna Belle Ferrier, is that mental as well as physical well-being is necessary to make good citizens of the young people who vacation at Arden Shore, and all the women who work with her are of the same mind.

This summer a new room has been added to the camp library, a memorial to little Marcia Richards, the Marcus Richards' little daughter who died last winter as a result of a fall on the ice. Friends of the family have given the room. Another new room is the Baby Fold in which small infants will be cared for in summer and in winter it will be used as a study room by the boys.

On July 15 the annual picnic will be held at the camp and at that time board members and their families will join the mothers and children and any of the "old grads" who are visiting there then, in enjoying the affair.

Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, honorary president of the association, and one of its most loyal supporters, will not be there, for she is in Switzerland for the summer, but when she is in town she always makes it a point to attend all the Arden Shore reunions.

Mrs. Harry A. Sellery of Highland Park is active president of the association of which Mrs. Herbert S. Nock, Mrs. Phelps Kelley, and Mrs. Kingmann Douglas are vice presidents, and Mrs. Roy E. Bard, treasurer. Mrs. Ewing Webb, Mrs. Norman Pritchard, Mrs. Robert S. Hotz, Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr., and Miss Elizabeth Alger are among others who take a keen interest in Arden Shore.

Miss Hopkins Engaged to David T. Hellyer.

From Santa Barbara comes news of an engagement of two former Chicagoans, Miss Constance Thayer Hopkins and David Tirrell Hellyer. The announcement was made last night at a family dinner given by the young lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Arundel Hopkins of Santa Barbara, formerly of Evanston.

Mr. Hellyer, who was born in Japan, is the son of Mrs. Thomas Emerson Ripley of Mission Canyon, Cal., and the late Harold Jesse Hellyer of Chicago and Japan. Miss Hopkins went to school in France and then was graduated from the Santa Barbara Girls' school. The next year she went to Sarah Lawrence college and for the last two years has been studying in San Francisco.

Her fiancé received his early education abroad and then went to the Santa Barbara Boys' school. He will be graduated from Yale next June and the wedding will take place soon after he finishes college. His brother, George Maclean Hellyer, was married to Ethel MacArthur Reagan of Riverside four years ago.

Tailored for Summer Street Wear

From a Chicago store. Summer street costume of tailored one piece dress with plaited short sleeves and a matching jacket. Red and white dotted chiffon is used for the ascot scarf and red buttons accent the front of the blouse. The dress is of violet blue crepe.

Sheer Hosiery Now Offered at Modest Prices

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The few remaining pessimistis who believe that a pair of sheer stockings is prohibitive in price should see some new coppery shades that have arrived just in time for the white wave of summer footwear. Besides having price stockers obligingly marked low for modest budgets they have that gorgeous sheen of gleaming copper that is undoubtedly the world's best hosiery shade for every one of us, blonde or brunette, sun scorched or gardenia white of skin.

Ask for Orient if you want the street hose, and the same slick color is also available in sandal hose.

The next thing that will make the hosiery shoppers stand up and cheer for home products are the new lace numbers as exquisitely designed as anything in bridal veils. Instead of the regular fine lace mesh or pattern these new winners are made with an invisible stripe effect, and this striping being vertical, you can well imagine how slenderizing these finds are.

You can find three stunning shades. Stag line is a luscious sun warmed light suntan, knockout with white clothes and pastels and the same colors in footwear. Then ferrat, a sunny coppery tone a bit darker. And last and anything but least, a gorgeous shade like pale tobacco brown called deauville.

They are three outstanding tones to wear with all your summertime printed dresses, especially very smart decorative printed afternoon dresses and suits for late dining and dancing. Even though lace hosiery has left you enthusiastic heretofore, this new lace loot will convert you into thinking well of such superslenderizing stockings.

For the active sportswomen there are some slick new sports socks with pencil size rolls around the ankle. They are of silk and come in white and pastels with a few bright colors to wear as contrast for your sports clothes. These, too, are mercifully low priced.

Fashion photograph. . . . violet toned silk crêpe fashioned into a two piece street ensemble of short sleeved dress and hip length jacket. Dubonnet red and white dotted chiffon makes the swanky neck scarf muffled in the neckline, and matches the red ball buttons used for front closing. Available in a Chicago store.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

When you run across a soap that is both decorative and of high quality, it's a find—especially now that the week-end guest season is in full swing and bathrooms are decked out in company finery. One that we have just come across is as gay and nonsensical as they come. Shaped like a life-preserver, a gay bathing girl against a background of sky blue decorates the center—and the contrast between the festive colors of her attire and the creaminess of the soap is most effective.

This is an imported French soap, and its quality is above question. It whips into a generous lather on the slightest provocation, and is as easy on the skin as cold cream itself. Moreover, we're happy to be able to report that, to top off its list of virtues, it's so inexpensive you'll walk off with a box of six cakes with only a dip into your change purse to mark the event.

A friend of ours whose summer consists of a continuous parade of guests to her lovely country home has solved the soap problem for the entire summer with this product, and reports that it has made a hit with all comers to date. It's so cheerful it's a bright addition to any bath.

Another item that will serve the dual purpose of amusing your house guests while saving your nicest linen is a smart little "eyebrow towel." Coal black, with a little white border at one end, it is meticulously labeled "Eyebrow," so that its purpose can't be mistaken by any one. As a delicate hint, we think it tops the list—and it's sure to pay its way by diverting the inevitable mascara from your towels. We found them in the eye salon of a local shop, but they may be purchased in the shop itself, and we think you'll like them.

It's something of a problem to keep the utilitarian bath attractively bedecked, but we think that these two little items combine usefulness with chic in a manner which you will approve.—M. S.

'Daring Young Man' Satire on Political Jails

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Be not led astray by the title! There's no trapeze in the life of this daring young man.

Only a girl and a jail had he
To prove how daring he could be.

As the story opens you discover Don McLane, bright young newspaper man, earnestly exhorting all who will listen to him to not "Let 'em get you!" Meaning women!

"They're all right as long as you don't marry 'em," says he. "But there's only one thing in any woman's mind when she looks at a man—'How much has he got, and how can I get it.'" [The skinic!]

And so—he asks Martha Allen, star reporter on another paper, to become his bride.

That's No. 1 instance in which he's a daring young man.

No. 2, doughty proof of Don's bravery, occurs when he leaves his lady waiting at the church.

No. 3 has been mentioned. He dares to go to jail. . . .

No. 3 is all mixed up with No. 2 because the reason he dares leave his affianced at so crucial a moment is because he dares to go to jail. He has been given a ticklish assignment to "cover" doings in a hoosgow suspected of being run by politicians.

And is this so!

Here's a jail where the warden gathers criminals under his wing as a hen gathers her chickens!

Bank bandits with valises full of greenbacks throw themselves on his unmanly bosom and he succors them and splits profits. . . . Two rival gangs have representatives in his safekeeping. The guards of that portion of the building where favorites are housed leave cell doors unlocked and are no end obliging in the matters of paroles, food and drink. . . .

A battle between the opposing forces of twenty minute eggs brings about the crisis that forces crises. . . . And, at last, our daring young man gets things fixed up with his girl. . . .

But don't get the idea that the love of Martha and Don makes them forget they're reporters on rival sheets!

This light hearted little satire on politics as they hadn't orter be is amusing and well acted.

James Dunn—little Shirley Temple's No. 1 boy, you know—is snappy, believable, and likable. Mae Clarke, who has charm, personality, and an intriguing wardrobe of black and white outfits, plays Martha sweetly and sensibly. Sidney Toler is a gem, as the rascally warden and the pampered jail birds are neatly told off by their various portrayers.

Especially funny is Warner Hymer in his pride and joy over the superbad man he is. . . .

The story moves along at lively clip and is paced with bright dialog—anyhow, dialog that's bright enough.

See you tomorrow!

The Ortega Feud

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Chris Jackson is sent by Bill Benton, new sherif of Monterey county, to put an end to the Ortega-Alvado feud, which has resulted in numerous murders. Both families believe California to be still Spanish and want Americans kept out. Pietro Sanches runs the general store of the Big Sur Valley. While calling there Chris encounters Guido Ortega, Ramon, his dare-devil son, and Ysabel, his beautiful, sad eyed niece. He falls in love with Ysabel at first sight, and has a quarrel with Ramon and publicly spanks him. Chris outfits himself for a supposed lion hunting trip. He receives a note sent by messenger from Ysabel Ortega hinting of a mysterious danger, begging his aid, and asking him to meet her in a fortnight. Chris camps in a canyon on the northern boundary of the Alvado ranch. A shot from an unseen hand gives him warning to leave. He is saved by Rocky, an old Indian hunter, who advises him to leave the country. Next day Chris meets Francesca Alvado, flirtatious Spanish beauty, who warns him her father welcomes no strangers. Chris tells her of his encounter with Ramon Ortega. It gains him entree to the Alvado ranch. Guido Alvado invites Chris to a rodeo to be held in a week. During the rodeo the warring families hold a traditional three day truce. Ysabel Ortega is facing a forced marriage with her cousin, Ramon. Her uncle refuses to tell her the secret of her birth, as he had promised to do on her eighteenth birthday. She tries to escape from the ranch, but every road is guarded.

INSTALMENT XV.

A MASQUERADER.

She shivered at the memory of the night before in the canyon. She hadn't the courage for that. Better to go back and throw herself on the mercy of Father Ignatio. He couldn't marry her to Ramon if she refused to be married. But even while her reason assured her of this, a dread premonition told her that her uncle would get around it some way.

She raised her head at a slight stir in the pine needles and sprang up with a joyous exclamation at the sight of the tall, lank figure before her.

"Rocky! Then it was you! Why didn't you answer me? O, I' so glad!"

Rocky's blue eyes mirrored bewildered surprise at this onslaught of questions.

"Answer you?" he asked in his slow drawl. "How could I answer you when I have only just found you?"

"But I saw you way down the east ridge," Ysabel explained, "and I called and called."

Rocky shook his head. "You did not see me. I have just come up from the southwest. I have not been on the east ridge."

It was Ysabel's turn to look bewildered. "But you must have been! I saw you way down there through the trees."

Again Rocky shook his head. "I have not been there," he said with simple finality. His keen blue eyes fixed themselves on Ysabel. "What is wrong? Your eyes are troubled."

"Everything." Ysabel threw out her hands in a despairing gesture.

With a rush of words she poured out the tale of her return, and her uncle's refusal to keep his promise, and his determination to marry her to Ramon. The only part she left out was about her encounter with Chris and her impulsive appeal to him. Not even to Rocky could she confess that.

"Rocky!—Oh, I'm so glad!"

Rocky's eyes never left her face as he stood motionless before her, listening intently. It was only when Ysabel finished off with a broken "Thank heaven you have come, Rocky! I thought you were dead!" that his slow smile broke through the set sternness of his expression.

"It is not so easy to kill me off, Ysabel. I have been hunting elsewhere the last two years. But when I heard you were to come back I thought it would be well to see how things were with you."

Ysabel's eyes shone with a rush of affectionate gratitude. She took Rocky's hand in both hers and looked up at him.

"Then you will help me, Rocky? You will get me away from here?"

Rocky slowly shook his head. "There is no way, Ysabel, if both ends of the canyon are guarded. And even if they were not, I would not dare risk you in Alvado territory. Last night another one of the vaqueros was found with a knife through his heart."

Ysabel gave a low cry of horror. "Not another! Not just before the rodeo!"

Rocky nodded.

"But perhaps it was just a quarrel among themselves. Perhaps it had nothing to do with the feud!" Ysabel anxiously suggested.

"The black cross of the Ortegas was on the knife," Rocky answered. "It was not a quarrel among themselves."

"O, it is horrible, this senseless feud!" Ysabel exclaimed passionately. "Is there nothing that can stop it? Take me away, Rocky? You must take me away!"

"It is impossible at the moment. No other white man could cross through the brush of the canyon; much less a woman. But at least I can do this. I can get through, and I promise you that Father Ignatio will not arrive."

"You would not let any harm come to him?"

"Have you so little confidence in Rocky?" He laid an affectionate hand on her shoulder.

"No, of course I didn't mean that," Ysabel answered contritely. "I know you would not harm him. But how——"

"Leave that to me," Rocky reached down and helped her to her feet. "Go back to the hacienda. The priest will not come and you cannot be married before the rodeo. Pride will make your uncle take you to it and there I will see you again. We will find a way."

Ysabel let out a long breath of relief as she put her foot lightly on Rocky's palm and sprang to the saddle.

"And do not imagine you see me where I am not," Rocky added as he handed Estar's reins to Ysabel.

"But I did see you!" Ysabel insisted, reminded again of that moment when she had been certain she had seen Rocky gliding far down the slope of the east ridge.

Rocky indulgently shook his head. "Do not let your trouble unsettle your brain," he admonished. "You must use all your powers now to outwit your uncle. Play the part of seeming resigned and wait for the rodeo."

"I'll do my best," Ysabel promised, "and if you have some reason for wanting me to believe I didn't see you I'll pretend to believe it. Only I know I did see you." With this parting word Ysabel touched Estar with her heel and he headed through the pines for the open range.

With a smile Rocky watched her until she dipped out of sight. Then he turned and made for the eastern slope of the ridge.

After half an hour or so of investigating Rocky started to climb back to the top of the ridge, convinced that Ysabel really had only imagined that she saw him. She had been so positive that he had almost believed that she must have seen some one and had felt that, at least, her conviction would bear investigating.

Suddenly his eye fell on a snapped twig and he stopped to examine it. It was a fresh break and his eyes narrowed as he ran his finger across it.

His quick eye raked the ground for some other evidence of a trail and a few feet ahead he was rewarded by a glint of white.

He stooped and picked up a cigaret paper, then, with unerring instinct, followed in the footsteps of the intruder.

After going fifty yards or more he came to a dead stop. A short distance ahead of him a figure was stretched out full length under a tree asleep.

Rocky approached noiselessly, then stood contemplating the figure at his feet, his shoulders shaking with his silent laughter and his blue eyes glinting merrily.

He put out a foot and touched the unconscious sleeper.

With a startled grunt Chris leaped to his feet, his hand instinctively flying to his hip, then dropping to his side as he recognized who had awakened him.

The next instant Chris' hearty laugh rang out and he sheepishly ran his hand through his mop of hair, shaking out a powdery film of white that turned his laugh to a violent sneeze.

"Caught me at it, didn't you?" he gasped as soon as he could speak, adding audaciously, "Not such a bad imitation in the distance, what?"

He turned and walked off with a perfect imitation of Rocky's swinging tread, his head with its crown of hair thickly powdered with flour so that it gleamed as white as Rocky's own, held at his same erect angle.

"I am flattered," Rocky drawled in his slow, soft voice as Chris turned and came back to him, walking at his own gait, "but why the masquerade, may I ask?" The twinkle in his blue eyes belied the dry irony of his tone and Chris answered frankly with a relieved chuckle because Rocky was not offended.

Fewer Divorces Than Weddings in Film Colony

Cupid Reverses Situation of Last Year.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 25.—[Special.]—For those interested in the vital statistics of Hollywood the first six months of 1935 show figures indicating a slight advantage for Cupid and the orange blossoms over the judge to whom the movie divorce couples tell it.

Counting in Lili Damita's elopement to Yuma last week and Lyda Roberti's announced intention to marry Bud Ernst of the radio this week, the marriages outnumber the film colony divorces 32 to 27 for six months. Last year the figure was 15 divorces to 11 marriages. Either Cupid is getting smarter or the annual fondness for June weddings has caused a temporary trend towards love and against disillusionment.

Several names appear in both the divorce and marriage lists for six months, these being W. S. Van Dyke, the director, who was divorced in February and wed Ruth Mannix a month later; Betty Boyd, who divorced C. H. Over and married Mason Olmsted, while Over proceeded to marry Iris Adrian, and Lona Andre, who became Mrs. Edward Norris at Tia Juana last month but changed her mind and asked an annulment the following week.

The outstanding marital developments include Actor Frank Wallace's claims of one-time husbandhood against indignant Mae West; the final sundering of the ties between Lord and Lady Ashley and her round the world yacht trip with Douglas Fairbanks; Jean Harlow's decree from Cameraman Hal Rosson after living with him a few months, and the abrupt termination of the June Knight-Paul Ames wedding after 12 days.

Then there is the complicated situation of the two Costello sisters, with Dolores filing against John Barrymore, who went yachting with Elaine Barrie, a new protégé; while Helen, back again in pictures, has professed much doubt about present activities and intentions of her Cuban spouse, Arturo del Barrio, who was talking in Havana about coöperating with Barrymore in a film to be made there.

Alison Skipworth says she owes her film career to a threatening creditor in England. He was suing for a grocery bill and she made a frightened debut as an entertainer to get some money to pay him. She was 22 years old.

Peggy Wood, now working in "Jalna" at Radio studio, is putting in spare time writing a romantic operetta in collaboration with R. A. Simon of New York. She probably will sing the leading rôle in it on the stage.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

ANSWERS TO THE PROBLEMS GIVEN YESTERDAY.

1. Bid one no trump on the following:

Sp.—A-Q-x	Di.—K-J-10
Ht.—K-x	Cl.—A-K-Q-6-5

It is imperative that the declaration be placed in the tenace hand.

2. After this bidding:

SOUTH	NORTH
1 Sp.	1 N. T.
3 Ht.	3 N. T.
4 Di.

North holding:

Sp.—10-7	Di.—10-8-7-6-5
Ht.—K-5-2	Cl.—A-3-2

should jump at once to six diamonds. The ace of clubs and king of hearts definitly take up two of South's losers. No more than one trump trick should be lost, and the spades can be ruffed out. Therefore, the small slam is cold.

3. North, with this,

Sp.—K-7-6-5-4	Di.—10
Ht.—Q-5-3-2	Cl.—7-4-2

should pass two hearts, if the bidding has been opened by his partner with a diamond, and the two heart response made over a spade takeout. The three little clubs represent complete duplication. With three little diamonds, North would be justified in going on to three hearts.

4. This is a little problem in logic. Your partner has opened the bidding with three hearts, showing no more than three losing tricks. You responded with four diamonds, showing the ace, and he bid five clubs, asking for the king of clubs. You have that card and the blank king of hearts. The answer to yesterday's question as to the final contract is—seven hearts. By asking you for the king of clubs at the five level, your partner has shown his willingness to play the hand at six—and this despite the fact that he misses the king of trumps—another loser.

5. Is this an opening bid in dealer position?

Sp.—A-J-10-7-6-5	Di.—6
Ht.—K-J-10-4-3-2	Cl.—None

ANSWER—Certainly. It may count up to only one and a half primary tricks, but it is a tremendously aggressive hand and it would be foolhardy to pass it.

6. This is the bidding in a duplicate game:

NORTH	SOUTH
1 Di.	1 Sp.
2 Ht.	2 N. T.
3 Ht.	3 N. T.
4 Cl.	6 Cl.
Pass

What is the probable distribution of both hands?

ANSWER—North has shown a 6-5-4 distribution, if we are to trust his bidding. The duplicate angle clarifies the situation completely, however. North has five diamonds and four hearts with 100 honors. He is trying to play the hand in hearts for that reason. When South insists on no trumps, North, who is void in spades, shows his club suit. His distribution is 5-4-4-0.

On the other hand, South's weird bidding may be explained by the fact he has four spades and five clubs. He chose to give a one over one, and then when South took care of the heart suit, he deliberately refrained from showing clubs, hoping for a leadup to a tenace. South's distribution is 5-4-2-2.

BY MARY MEADE.

No use troubling with home made jam unless you know your trouble is going to be repaid in the extra glamor your menus borrow from it, is there? Not referring to the added goodness of the morning toast and the hot biscuits and muffins, there are literally dozens of elegant ways to make your canning bother pay dividends.

In fact, there are so many new means, and grand ones, that we've been reading about and trying, that we're going to skip any ecstatic descriptions (however justifiable) and just shoot them out! Ready?

Cream Jam Roll.

- ¾ cup sifted cake flour
- ¾ teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs*
- ¾ cup sifted sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ¾ cup strawberry jam
- ½ cup whipping cream

Sift the flour once and measure. Combine the baking powder, salt, and eggs in a bowl and place over a smaller bowl of hot water. Beat with a rotary beater, adding the sugar gradually until the mixture becomes thick and light in color. Remove the bowl from the hot water and fold in the flour and vanilla. Turn into a 15 by 10 inch dripping pan which has been greased, lined with waxed paper to within a half inch of its edges, and again greased. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 13 minutes or until done. Cut off the crisp edges of the cake quickly and turn out on a cloth sprinkled with confectioner's sugar. Remove the paper, spread with a mixture of the jam and the heavy cream, whipped, and roll tightly. Wrap in a cloth and chill for at least a half hour before serving.

Super-Tarts.

- 4 baked tart shells
- ½ cup jam
- 1 cup vanilla ice cream
- 2 egg whites
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- ½ cup shredded coconut

Cover the bottoms of the tart shells with any sweet jam. Fill with hard ice cream and top with a meringue made from the egg whites and sugar. Sprinkle with coconut, set on a pan covered with four layers of heavy paper, and brown quickly in a hot oven, so that the ice cream will not be unduly softened. Serve immediately.

TOASTED TONGUE SANDWICHES WITH JAM.

Butter slices of bread and spread half of them with a thin coating of prepared mustard. Place a slice of smoked tongue atop the mustard and then spread a tablespoon or so of rhubarb or plum jam on each. Cover with a second slice of buttered bread and toast under a broiler, turning to toast both sides.

Raspberry Pear Compote.

- ½ cup red raspberry jelly
- 1 cup water
- 1 cup pear juice
- 2 inch sticks of cinnamon
- 8 cooked, sweetened pear halves
- 16 whole cloves
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine the jelly, water, pear juice, and stick cinnamon, and heat until the jelly is dissolved. Stick two cloves in each pear half, place these in the jelly sirup, and cook for five minutes, turning occasionally. Add the lemon juice, remove from the heat, and chill the fruit and sirup separately. Before serving remove the cinnamon from the sirup and pour the mixture over the pears.

Mint Fizz Melon Cup.

- 2 cups of melon balls
- ¼ cup mint jelly
- Chilled ginger ale

Fill sherbet glasses with the chilled melon balls. Any melon or combination may be used. Beat the jelly well with a fork until finely broken, add about a fourth cup of ginger ale, and stir until blended. Pour this mixture over the melon, garnish with additional jelly, and just before serving fill the glasses with additional ginger ale.

Claire Dodd of Films Gives Her Opinion on Loveliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

Claire Dodd is one of the women of the screen quickly gaining a high reputation for her "perfectly groomed appearance." She's tall, slim, and proudly poised. Her hair always is smoothly brushed, her eyes bright, her nose powdered, her clothes have a freshly pressed, immaculate look; the seams of her stockings are adjusted so there'll never be a complaint on their account. Her hat is always tilted at just the right and smartest angle. She looks that distinction that indicates a great pride in self, which, incidentally, today will get a girl places that she'll never get without the prideful look to her appearance. This pride is not to be confused with conceit or vanity, although some vanity must certainly be included or the vital elements of charm Miss Dodd represents would not be there.

Says Miss Dodd: "The world accepts you at the valuation you put on yourself, and this judgment is based upon your appearance first, along with your bearing and manner. Your skin, your hair, your eyes, and clothes, every little detail is what tells the world not only the sort of person you are but what you think of yourself as well.

"The woman who has self-respect or pride is careful of her health, for she knows that exercise, proper diet, and drinking much water are what give the hair its sheen, the complexion its beauty, and posture its self-respecting bearing. With this attention, coupled with a passion for cleanliness, you have just about all it takes to constitute a modern beauty."

Miss Dodd eulogizes the bath in no small terms as a promoter of the charms that matter most in women: daintiness, wholesomeness, and crispness of appearance. In addition to the scrubbing and tubbing for cleanliness Miss Dodd argues for bath salts extravagance for softening and perfuming the water, leaving the skin delicately scented, which, in turn, has the psychological effect on a woman of demanding in every little detail of her dressing the same observance of daintiness, cleanliness, and wholesomeness.

Other scores included Mrs. M. K. Alexander, Mrs. George Morton, Mrs. M. D. Thompson, and Mrs. O. S. Baylies, Chicago Women's Whist club, 8.

Dunne and his bride will leave by motor for Montreal to sail Saturday for a month in Ireland. Upon their return they will be home at 706 Junior terrace.

Morris F. Dunne will act as his brother's best man and Mrs. Dunne will be the bride's only attendant. The bride is the former Miss Margaret Meyercord and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Meyercord of Hawthorne place. Judge Dunne is a son of former Gov. Edward F. Dunne and the late Mrs. Dunne.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Walter Barry, and her husband are here from their home in Minneapolis for the wedding and so is the bride's sister, Mrs. John Dorian Curtin, whose home is in Tulsa, Okla. The bride's small son will go home with his aunt for a visit while his mother and stepfather are abroad.

Margaret DeLay Will Be Bride.

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. DeLay of Winnetka of the engagement of their elder daughter, Margaret Barclay, to Pickens Johnson of Milwaukee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Johnson of 1502 Hinman avenue, Evanston.

Miss DeLay has been one of the popular members of Winnetka's younger set since she was graduated from Smith college in 1926. At Smith she took an active and prominent part in extra curricular activities, especially athletics, and since then she has continued as one of the star players on the North Shore hockey team.

Mr. Johnson is a graduate of Cornell university. Miss DeLay and Mr. Johnson have selected Sept. 7 as the date for their wedding.

Exmoor to Open New Pool Tonight.

Members of the Exmoor Country club will turn out in numbers tonight for an occasion to which they have looked forward for a long time, the opening of the beautiful new swimming pool. After a buffet supper, the members and their guests will assemble at the pool at 8:30 to watch the program that has been arranged as the formal dedication.

Some of America's leading swimmers and divers will perform; there will be a style show of swimming suits and beach clothes, and also a water ballet. Following the program the pool will be open for swimming and there also will be dancing. The proceeds of the affair will go to the fund for the purchase of pool furniture.

The Exmoor club never forgets the children of members, so tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock the pool will have another formal opening for youngsters and their guests. There will be novelty and comedy events for the children in which all will have an equal chance to win and there also will be exhibition swimming and diving. Harold A. Moore is chairman of the pool committee.

Luncheon Today for Two Visitors.

Mrs. Potter L. Smith is entertaining at luncheon today at her home in Barrington for two ex-Chicagoans who are visiting here now, Mrs. Frank A. Hecht Jr., who with her husband is with Mrs. Hecht Sr. in Barrington, and Mrs. William S. Covington of Seattle, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse, in Lake Forest. The Hechts, who have been in Washington for a year, are going abroad for the summer, and their plans for later are indefinite.

The Morses also have as a guest their other daughter, Baroness Wolfgang von Peccoz of Munich, who arrived about a week ago with her small son to spend the summer in Lake Forest. Her husband will join her later. Mrs. Covington, who left her son and daughter in Lake Forest while she went east for her class reunion at Vassar, will return to the west in another week.

Mrs. George Woodruff is opening her pent house and garden and Mrs. Williamson Willett is opening hers today from 3 to 6 o'clock to members of the American Opera society. Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff have the pent house atop the building at 1500 Lake Shore drive and Mrs. Willett lives high in the air at 2130 Lincoln Park West.

The board members of the Eli Bates Settlement house were glad it showered yesterday afternoon, for that meant that many women who might have played golf or tennis or practiced for the Lake Forest horse show had the sun shone, instead went to Mrs. James H. Douglas' charming house on North Stone Gate road and inspected the stock from the Eli Bates shop.

Most of them did more than inspect it, too, for the sale was one of the most successful ever held. Mrs. Douglas' new house—it is new to her and it has just been renovated and remodeled, but it really is one of Lake Forest's old homes for it is the old Albert M. Day place—was of interest to all who attended the sale and every one was enthusiastic about it. The indirect lighting which the Marquis de Veyrac planned for Mrs. Douglas was of special interest.

The pine paneled library, the hall, the porch and the dining room were used to display the work of the women of the settlement.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings telephoned yesterday to give us news of one of the charities in which she is greatly interested, the White Elephant Rummage shop at 27 East Ohio street, which is run for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital. The monthly home dressmakers' sale will be held tomorrow. It will be the last one of the sort until September.

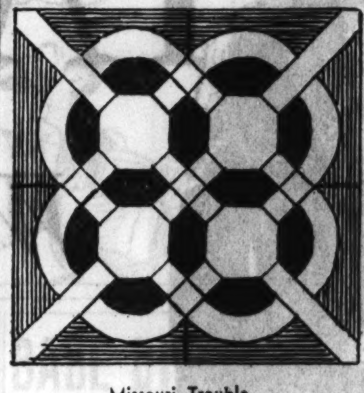
Exchange Sale at Lake Geneva.

Mrs. William M. Spencer, who is occupying the Frederick H. Bartlett house at Lake Geneva this summer, will open her residence from 9 to 5 o'clock today for a sale of the Chicago Woman's exchange. Among the exchange's friends who will be at the lake today to assist are Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., Mrs. Sangston Hettler, Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Jr., Mrs. Henry H. Porter, Mrs. Philip T. Starck and Miss Helen Gurley.

The Hettlers, by the way, have leased and are occupying the lovely secluded home on Lake Geneva of Miss Agnes Gleason, which before it was hers was the George Parkers' property.

Holiday Home, the summer charity at Lake Geneva where several hundred boys and girls are given outings each summer, is to be the beneficiary of a rummage sale to be held Wednesday, July 3, at Horticultural hall, Lake Geneva. Summer residents are busy now collecting stock for the sale.

Quaintly Titled Quilt Dates Back to Pioneer Days



Missouri Trouble.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Missouri Trouble," like "Kansas Trouble," "Nebraska Troubles," or "Rocky Mountain Troubles," dates back to the pioneer days of the covered wagoneers. It was pieced of blue, yellow, and white, in southern Missouri in 1850. Thirty pieced blocks, combined with 12 plain blocks of white or a harmonizing color, compose the quilt. A narrow, half inch binding is the only finish.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

First Aid Book May Save Child Serious Illness

It's Indispensable During Summer Vacation.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Have you ever been two miles from a telephone, five miles from a doctor, with no automobile, no horse and wagon, and a baby crying in great pain? I have.

Have you ever seen a large, deep, gaping, blood dripping gash in the leg of a young boy, found the country telephone dead, and been confronted with the necessity of doing the right thing immediately? I have.

And out of the wisdom of many summers filled with bruises, cuts, sunburn, ivy poisoning, scalds, fever, broken bones, drowning scares, let me paraphrase:

When sumer comes, let first aid be not far behind.

In the city it is not of course so necessary, though many mothers have had difficulty in the middle of summer finding a good doctor, with their own away, when their baby has run a sudden high temperature or done other alarming things.

But a first aid booklet and some first aid supplies are particularly necessary if you are away in the country, for it is then that children seem to spring a regular epidemic of minor and major injuries. The proper treatment at the time of the injury or sickness, even if unskilled, may be terribly important.

There is one classic case I remember. A little boy chopped off the end of his finger. A neighbor took the chopped off end, clapped it on the stump, and held it on while he and the little boy raced to the doctor. The finger today is as good as new. Less fortunate is another case where insufficient knowledge almost caused a grave injury. When a young boy had a large part of his black stocking ground into his heel with the pedal of his bicycle, his grandmother carefully washed it out as well as she could, put quantities of iodine in it, and bound it up tightly, thereby causing a serious burn in the already mangled tissue.

So, first, get a good first aid book. But that isn't all. If it lies hidden under newspapers and magazines or is lost in the bookcase because of its slender figure, it isn't going to be of the least use. So the second rule is:

Hang it on a nail in plain sight where all the family can observe it. Even that isn't all. For, under stress of excitement or fear, you may have trouble finding just the bit of information you need, so:

Read it carefully, so you can refresh your memory of much that you may need to know quickly, and also will be able to find easily what you can't remember.

And last, be sure you have some first aid supplies—gause and adhesive tape and antiseptic, something for burns, and so forth. [It is always well to have one package of gauze and one roll of adhesive that is unopened and therefore sterile for any deep or otherwise serious injury.]

If you do not know where to get first aid books, we can give you a list. But please, in writing, send a stamped self addressed envelope.

Today Is Last Chance to Mail Letter to Sally

Hundred Guests to Enjoy Ice Carnival.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Looks to me as though all the boys and girls in the city want to come to the College Inn Ice Carnival! Which just goes to show what bright youngsters you are, because it will be an afternoon you'll remember for a long, long time.

Mail has been pouring in, but you still have time to add your letter to the stack if it's mailed today. If you'd like to win an invitation to the party which is to be given for us at the Hotel Sherman you'll have to move rapidly.

You see, I've been invited by the management to bring 50 boys and 50 girls as my guests to a special performance of the marvelous ice skating show they're having there. I intend to select as winners the children who show by their letters that they're most anxious to come, so if you'd like to see these all-star skaters, and watch Frankie Masters and his band perform—just write and tell me so, and, if you're convincing enough, maybe you'll win an invitation.

All letters will be read tomorrow and in Sunday's TRIBUNE the names of all the winners will be printed. Invitations will be mailed to each of the 100 lucky youngsters, and Wednesday, July 3, will be the big day.

There are two excellent comedians in the show. They're Shipstead and Johnson, and just wait till you see them do "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" on ice! There'll be music and soft colored lights, and such dancing on skates—and of course I know a party isn't a party for boys and girls without ice cream!

You'd better wangle a piece of writing paper, an envelope and a stamp from mother and compose your letter. It must be mailed without fail today if it's to reach me by tomorrow, but don't be in such a rush that you'll forget the important part of our rules—if that letter doesn't include your name, address and age it's not eligible to be judged for an invitation.

Send your letters to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

First Marriage Often Shadows Second Venture

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Marrying a divorced man with children develops unexpected complications for wife No. 2, apparently, as per the following example.

"About 3 years ago I met a man and, after going out with him for a while, I found out that he was married. I found it out from his wife. My mother heard it, too. So I decided to give him up. But he wouldn't let me. He begged and pleaded, telling me that he married at 20 and had been miserable every day of his married life. He told me he had left her when he started taking me out. Well, the wife got a divorce and hated me because she thought I had taken him away from her.

"But he had gone out with other girls long before he met me. His wife had him put in jail for nonpayment of alimony. When he got out he was unemployed. My mother made a pact with me that if I would keep away from him for a year and still found I loved hi mshe would give her consent. I stuck it out for six months. Then we met again and were married.

"But my troubles didn't end there. After a month I asked him why he didn't take an interest in the child. I didn't want to be selfish. He thought it was grand of me. He called up his former wife and asked to see the child and take her out. The wife said yes, but when we went to get her the mother wouldn't let her go because I was along. But later, when the child needed clothes, she let the father take her and I bought her many things.

"When the wife heard this she was furious. She says that the child can see her father any time, but not if I am along, which makes me burn up inside. He says he won't see the youngster unless I go along. Things have come to such a pass that I told him he couldn't talk to his former wife any more."

"Then he has developed a bitterly jealous streak in him because of his first unhappy experience, I guess."

There was more to the letter than the above, but this much is passed on for deliberation by those who think that a previous marriage will cast no shadow over the new alliance. It frequently does.

University Women Hear U. S. System Defended, Attacked

Los Angeles, June 25.—(AP)—A controversy developed today at the annual convention of the American Association of University Women as Thomas Nixon Carver, emeritus professor of economics at Harvard university, spoke in defense of America's economic system.

After Dr. Carver had urged restriction of immigrant labor, and birth control as remedies to mass poverty, which he characterized as "an accident of the system," other speakers accused him of holding to outworn traditions.

It became known the university women plan to present a resolution at Friday's session, favoring a bill before congress for legal dissemination of birth control information.

Dr. Graham A. Laing of the California Institute of Technology, declared "mass poverty is not due to an overstock of labor supply, but to lack of organization in productive capacity and distribution."

"Mass poverty is the product of an oversupplied labor market," Dr. Carver said. "Under the market economy they are poor who have nothing to sell that other people are able and willing to buy. They are rich who have something to sell that other people are able and eager to buy.

"The problem of mass poverty must, therefore, be approached as a market problem. Most of those who are poor are poor because there is not a good market for their labor."

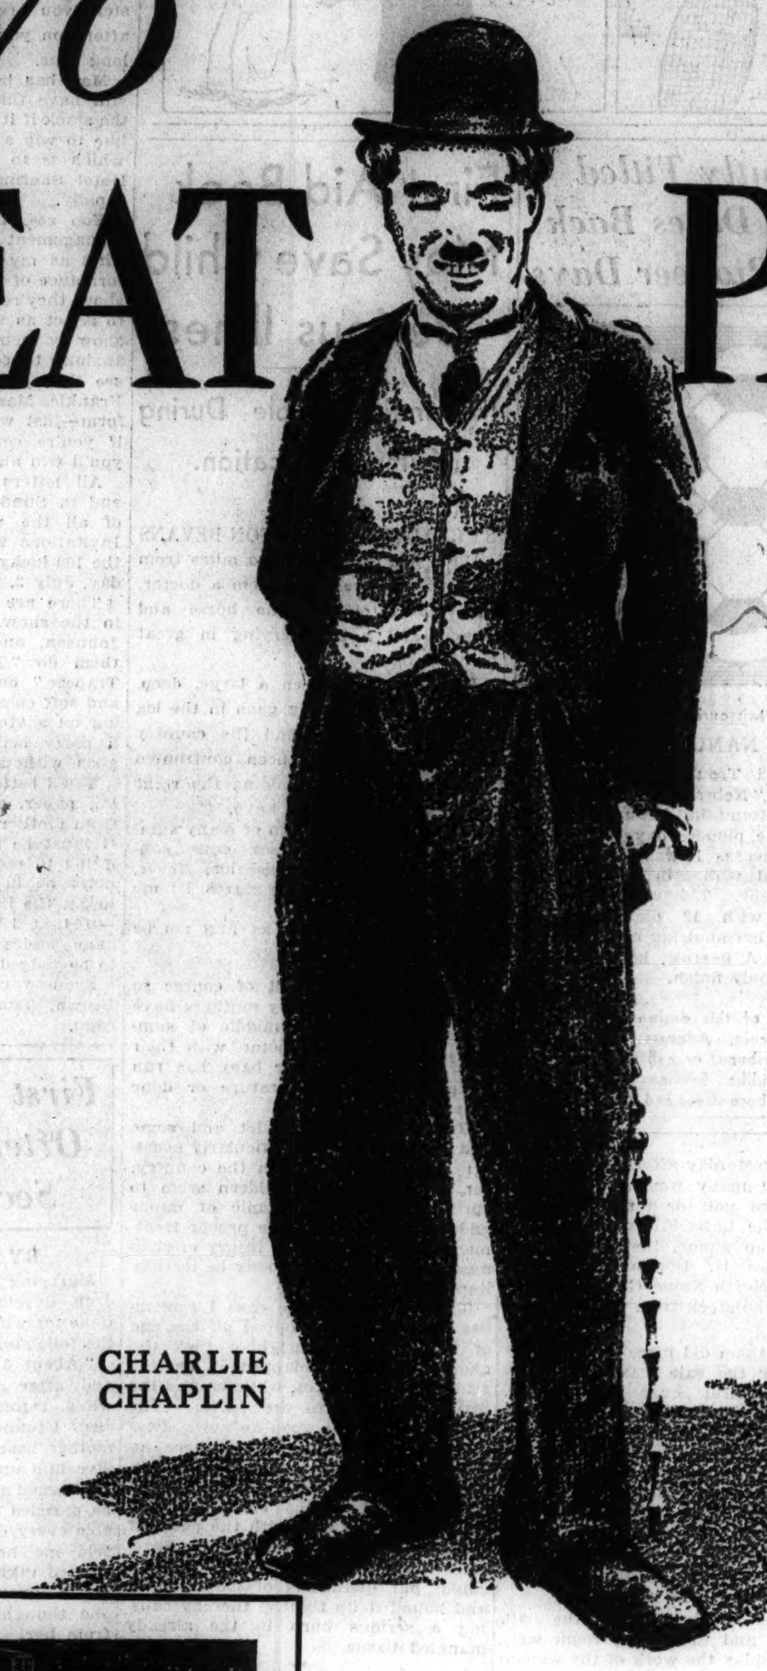
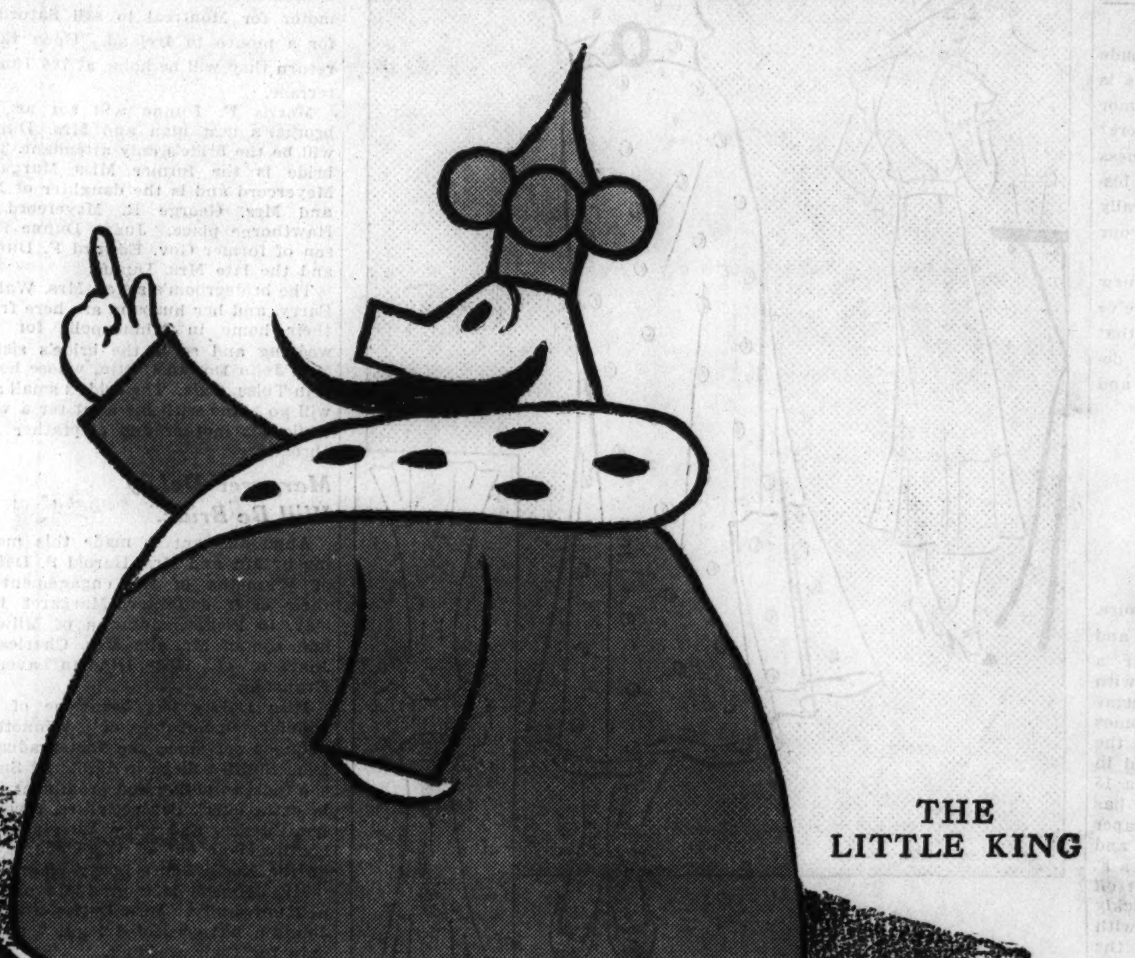
Wordless Wonders of Entertainment



CHARLIE CHAPLIN



THE LITTLE KING

367 TIMES AS MANY read THE COMIC WEEKLY Every Week!

What a crowd at Churchill Downs! Thousands upon thousands of turf enthusiasts! Yet, believe it or not—

If you put together all the people who have witnessed the Kentucky Derby, in all the 61 years of its history, you'd still have only a small fraction of the 22,000,000 people (more than 5,500,000 families) who read THE COMIC WEEKLY every week in the year!

No one has ever seen as big an audience as your advertisement in The Comic Weekly reaches.

What fools these Mortals be!

BACK TO THE BIG PAGE!

Beginning with the June 23rd issue, The Comic Weekly, which is distributed with the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers, again offers its readers and advertisers the BIG page that made it the world's greatest comic publication, and the world's champion printed salesman. Rates are as follows: Full Page (inside) $16,000; Back Cover, $17,500; Half Page (inside) $9,000.

By the Art of Pantomime, Charlie Chaplin and The Little King Hold Vast Audiences. Silently, but Skilfully—THEY ENTERTAIN!

CHARLIE CHAPLIN is pantomime at its best. Here is the artist of the age who needs no words to entertain . . . whose simple grimaces and gestures make millions of Americans laugh and cry by turns. Small wonder that the entire country is awaiting his next picture—for Chaplin offers what America wants most: ENTERTAINMENT.

Like Chaplin, The Little King of The Comic Weekly is also a premier entertainer whose actions speak louder—and far more entertainingly—than words. Fifty-two times a year, he puts on his show in The Comic Weekly. And, week after week, 22,000,000 people of all ages and positions read The Comic Weekly to see what he's up to next.

And they follow Skippy, Jiggs, Pop-Eye, Barney Google, the Katzenjammers, Tillie the Toiler, Flash Gordon and all the others just as avidly. For The Comic Weekly presents an "all-star" show of laughs and loves, tears and thrills every Sunday.

And it offers advertisers an "all-star" audience:

(1) Largest in the world: Over 5,500,000 families, more than 22,000,000 regular readers.

(2) Read by all the family: By 68% of the men, 72% of the women, 99% of the juveniles—everyone who influences the purchase. (And those purchases include everything from cereals to floor-wax, from soap to automobiles.)

(3) More bona-fide buyers: Concentrated largely in the 995 "Key Cities" of 10,000 population and over, where the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers are distributed, and where 70% of all retail buying is done.

BODY BLOWS LED ME TO VICTORY, SAYS LOUIS

CUBS DIVIDE WITH GIANTS; LOSE 3 TO 2, WIN 10 TO 5

GALAN'S TRIPLE WITH 3 ON LEADS 2D GAME RALLY

Chicago Turns Tide in 8th Inning.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—The Cubs, infuriated by having a potential 2 to 0 victory snatched from them in the ninth and tenth innings of the first game of this afternoon's double header with the Giants, went plumb crazy in the final stages of the second game.

The Chicagoans, in as historical a spree as you could ask, avenged the 3 to 2 setback with a 10 to 5 victory in the sundown number. They made seven runs in the last three innings to convert a threatened 5 to 3 spanking at the hands of Carl Hubbell into the count that evened the series.

The climax of the second game was Augie Galan's eighth inning triple with the score tied and the bases full. Although Fred Fitzsimmons, who shut out the Cubs Sunday, allowed half of the Chicago total to be batted in, he was not the losing pitcher. Al Smith, who walked in yesterday just long enough to become the losing pitcher, came in this afternoon, remaining just long enough to take the rap again.

Herman Leads Comeback.

The Cubs made a dozen hits in their comeback whirl. Bill Herman made four of these, including his first homer of the year. All of Bill's hits except one were involved in the run making and the one wasted was balanced off by the fact he drove in a run with a long fly the only time the Giants got him out. Kiki Cuyler added to the embarrassment of Fitzsimmons by knocking a homer with one on in the ninth. In addition to his eighth inning triple, Galan had a three bagger and a double.

The Cubs probably would have won the first game 1 to 0 if they hadn't yielded the Giants an unearned run in the ninth. With Koenig on first, Jackson tripled to drive Koenig home with the first Giant run. And even so, the Cubs still would have been victors, 2 to 1, but for Cavarretta's careless error which enabled Jackson to score the tying run. It was a game of a million second guesses, including judgment on Grimm's decision to replace Larry French with Lon Warneke, who previously had been licked by the Giants in each of the three series between the Cubs and Giants.

Warneke Losing Pitcher.

French was delayed in his design to win his fifth straight and his seventh of the season but his record of six victories and five defeats was unaffected by today's outcome. As for Warneke, he has been the losing pitcher in the three games the Cubs have lost in their last twelve [illegible]d.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs got runners on third and first with one out on singles by Cuyler and Klein in the first inning, but Cavarretta fanned and Jurges flied to Moore.

Some inept base running by Castleman upset the Giants' scoring efforts in the third inning. The Giant pitcher led off with a single to center. Moore fouled to O'Dea, but Bartell singled to center. Castleman overran second, then stumbled and fell. Before he could recover his footing he was out, Cuyler to Herman. Terry fanned.

The Giants were stopped after another two-hit onslaught in the fourth. With one out Leiber singled to left center and stopped at second on Koenig's single to left. Jackson flied to Cuyler, Leiber taking third, after which Mancuso forced Koenig.

Cubs' Threat Fails.

The Cubs had the bases full with none out in the seventh, but wilted pitifully. Klein and Cavarretta walked. The bases were filled when Castleman threw to third too late to get Klein on Jurges' bunt. French was called out on strikes, then Galan tapped to Castleman, who threw to Mancuso, forcing Klein at the plate. Herman forced Galan, Bartell to Koenig.

Cuyler got his second and the Cubs'

Kennedy, Sox Face Tigers This Afternoon

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Detroit Tigers, who thus far in the current race have been real first cousins to the White Sox, will be at Comiskey park today and it is a matter of regret for the Chicagoans that the visit involves only two games. Since the season opened the Sox have slapped down the champions eight times in eleven starts.

In hopes that the good work will continue this afternoon, Manager Jim Dykes is going to nominate Vernon Kennedy, one of the pitching surprises he has sprung on unsuspecting enemies in the last few weeks. The ex-Texas leaguer, also ex-Athletic, now has three straight victories to his credit and the Tigers probably haven't forgotten that they were the first victims of this string. They succumbed before his pitching here on June 8, the count being 3 to 2.

Indians Are Next on the Card.

After being rid of the Tigers for the time being, the Sox will move over to Cleveland for work against a team they have seen little of this season. The Indians have been here once, winning two and losing one. The Sox have visited Cleveland once, but weather limited the program to one game which the Sox didn't win. One of the postponements from that series will be run off Sunday in the shape of a double header. There'll be single games Friday and Saturday.

If Phelps and Kennedy can continue to turn out good performances Dykes can begin to taper off on his favorite blues' song. This pair, along with Ted Lyons and John Whitehead, who still rates highly despite five straight defeats, gives the Sox boss a fairly formidable quartet.

Boys Have Been Hitting.

What the Sox have done so far indicates that unless their pitching goes completely awry they are not going to be easily dislodged from the first division and that's considerably different from their unbroken stay in last place in 1934. What should keep them up among the elite if the pitching proves only average is their hitting. They were hitting when the season started and are still at it. They have been slowed down on some days and on others almost completely stopped, but these unhappy occasions have been rare.

THREE of the four leading hitters in the National league, according to the last official averages, were Cub rookies and the other was a young man who spent the training period and the early weeks of the season with the White Sox. . .. The list was Bryant, .500; Bud Hafey, .500; O'Dea, .413, and Stephenson, .400. . . . Joe E. Brown wants to buy an interest in the Braves. . . . Jesse Owens, Ohio State's all around track athlete, seldom broad jumps between meets and in competition usually confines his efforts to one leap. . . . The University of Washington hasn't won the varsity race on the Hudson since Al Ulbrickson, present coach, stroked the 1926 crew to victory. . . . Wesley Fry, who has succeeded Lynn Waldorf as football coach at Kansas State, has moved into the same house that Waldorf occupied before accepting an appointment at Northwestern. . . . Herman Gundlach, captain of the 1934 Harvard eleven, will play with the Boston Redskins next fall. . . . John Regeczi of Michigan has landed a job as high school coach at L'Anse, Mich. . . .

Bill Terry, who was manager of last year's National league All-Stars, has cast his ballot for Charley Grimm of the Cubs and Charley Dressen of the Reds as coaches for the third annual interleague game at Cleveland July 8. . . . Dressen was named because he is supposed to be the best in the league at stealing signals. . . . Terry did not say why he picked Grimm. . . . The Giants' manager thinks he should be left off the team and Ripper Collins named for first base. . . . BABE DIDRIKSON, HELEN HICKS WIN GOLF MATCHES

Play Second Round Today in Western Tourney.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Helen Hicks of New York and Mildred [Babe] Didrikson of Dallas, Tex., golf's business girls, are still making the most of their only competitive opportunity of the year as the sixth annual open championship of the Women's Western Golf association enters its second round of match play today at the Sunset Ridge Country club.

Neither Miss Hicks nor Miss Didrikson made any mistake about announcing her intentions of staying around for the finish of one of the biggest golf shows of the year, saying it with woods and irons in two of the most convincing victories of yesterday's first round. Helen advanced with a 4 and 3 decision over Mrs. Harold Foreman of Lake Shore, while Babe moved along with a 6 and 5 victory over Mrs. Robert I. Bullard of Springfield, Ill.

Showers Hinder Players.

Sunset Ridge bloomed with umbrellas and rain jackets throughout the day, as the entire field battled with intermittently annoying showers, but there was nary a withdrawal in any of the flights.

Whether the two business woman golfers can survive the remaining 18 hole matches until the 36 hole championship battle on Saturday remains to be seen. Even as early as this morning's second round, both encountered opposition to be feared in any league. Miss Hicks will be matched against Lucille Robinson, of Des Moines, Ia., the bespectacled star who defeated Virginia Van Wie in the final of the 1933 western closed tournament. Miss Robinson allowed she will be a problem by winning her first round debate from Goldie Bateson of Milwaukee, 4 and 3.

Miss Didrikson's second round foe will be Mrs. L. M. Selz of Northmoor, the former Jane Weiller, who ran off with this title three years ago. These are far from being the only certain gallery pleasers of the day, for the second round pairings promise a barrel of golf from every angle. One of these will match Ella Mae Williams of River Forest, runner up in the state tournament and second to Miss Hicks in the Western's qualifying round Monday, and Mrs. Charles Dennehy, the former Virginia Wilson, of Onwentsia. Both had a time of it for a spell yesterday, Miss Williams winning only 2 to 1, from Mrs. June Beebe Atwood, twice a former champion, while Mrs. Dennehy was carried to the final green by Dorothy Gustafson of South Bend, before winning 2 up.

Mrs. Pardue Wins.

Three of the tournament's proved stars—Mrs. H. Austin Parddue of Indian Hill, Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, and Mrs. Lillian Zech of Tam o'Shanter—also moved into the second round. Today Mrs. Zech will meet Mrs. Pardue, while Mrs. Hill will be matched against Eleanor Dudley of Ridge, one of the ablest juniors in the district.

Still another interesting duel will be that between Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt of Northmoor, twice winner of the association championship, and Rena Nelson of Exmoor, holder of the city title, each of whom won easily yesterday. In the other matches, Dorothy Foster of Springfield, winner of the state crown last year, will meet Phylis Buchanan of Denver, former trans-Mississippi titleholder, and Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge will battle Josephine Souchek of Big Oaks, Chicago and Illinois public parks champion.

While those in the championship bracket are settling their end of the tournament, four other flights, with consolation matches attached, will also

Succession of K. O. Victories Mark Speedy Rise of Louis

Joseph Louis Barrow is the full name of the latest star among the heavyweight boxing title contenders. He was born May 13, 1914, in Lexington, near Montgomery, Ala., the fourth child of a cotton picker who was deep in debt and whose health was fast failing.

His father died when Louis was two years of age. Louis' widowed mother moved the family to Detroit when Joe was 6 years old, and there he has made his home ever since.

He was working in Henry Ford's plant at River Rouge, just outside Detroit, when the ambition to be a fighter seized him.

Starts Career in 1932.

In the spring of 1932 Louis—he has long since discarded the Barrow for brevity—launched a career as an amateur. He had been attending trade school when he first donned the gloves in a gymnasium with a classmate. Ignorant of methods, Louis naturally was the recipient of a boxing lesson, but he continued to visit the gymnasium until he attained that degree of perfection which justified his entering the amateur ranks.

Forthwith Louis met with adversity. He suffered defeat in his first bout, but, undeterred, he persevered and quickly went through fourteen straight knockout conquests. Before deserting the amateur ranks Louis engaged in fifty-four amateur bouts, winning forty-three by knockouts, seven on decisions and losing only four.

Wins Golden Gloves Title.

He was runner-up for the National Amateur Athletic union light heavyweight championship in 1933, losing to Max Marek of Chicago, and in 1934 he won THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves title, regarded as the greatest honor in amateur boxing. Louis then turned pro.

As a professional Louis has been fortunate in one essential. He has had the advice and experience of a great colored fighter at his disposal. Jack Blackburn has been chief adviser to the youngster, and it is to Blackburn principally that many attribute Louis' amazing success. Blackburn handled Sammy Mandell and Bud Taylor when those boxers were headliners.

Louis' first professional fight was on July 4 last year and he knocked out Jack Kracken at Bacon's Arena on the south side in a single round. Going on from that encounter through a professional career of twenty-three engagements, he has yet to experience defeat.

Knockout Victories Numerous.

Eleven battles followed the Kracken engagement last year and in nine of them Louis knocked out his foes. His terrific punching power claimed Stanley Poreda, Charlie Massera, and Lee Ramage as victims. These were the better known fighters who lost to Louis in 1934.

He had ten fights this year leading up to the Carnera battle and won eight of them by knockouts. Ramage, knocked out in eight rounds last year, was beaten in two in a return meeting this year. Only Patsy Perroni, Adolph Wiater, and Natie Brown survived ten rounds with the former Golden Glover. Hans Birkie was among his knockout victims in a campaign that stamped Louis as one of the greatest colored fighters in ring history and a threat to the world's heavyweight champion.

Record of Louis' Rise to Golden Gloves Title

Back in 1934 when Joe Louis fought his way to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves championship in the light heavyweight division this was the record he made:

Feb. 27—Joe Louis, Detroit, knocked out Ray Wozniak, Chicago, third round.

Feb. 28—Joe Louis, Detroit, beat Harry Swanson, Northwest gym, Chicago, three rounds.

March 1—Quarter-final bout, Joe Louis, Detroit, stopped Cooney Tucker, Fort Wayne, second round.

March 10—Semi-final bout, Joe Louis, Detroit, beat Ario Soldati, Rockford, three rounds.

March 10—Championship bout, Joe Louis, Detroit, beat Joe Bauer, Cleveland, three rounds.

Blow by Blow Story of Fight

NEW YORK, June 25.—[Special.]—The blow by blow description of Joe Louis' sensational six round conquest of Primo Carnera, former world's heavyweight champion, in Yankee stadium tonight, follows:

FIRST ROUND—Primo's left lead was wild. Louis landed a light right to the jaw. Primo was not pressing as usual and Louis appeared to be biding his time. Primo's left went wild and Louis countered with a right and left to the jaw. He repeated the blows, then landed two rights to the jaw, but there was not much force behind them and Primo was not in distress. Louis' left jab cut Carnera's lips. Primo landed several lefts. Primo missed an uppercut. Louis hooked lefts to the face at the bell.

SECOND ROUND—Carnera came running out from his corner, but stopped to spar. Louis' looping right was high. He began a body attack to lower Primo's guard and blocked several of Carnera's lefts with his gloves. Carnera missed a right to the head. Louis missed a light left to the jaw, but hooked two rights to body. Louis put a left then a swinging right to Carnera's midsection. His tactics seem to be to keep the body attack up enough to lower Carnera's guard. Primo landed a light left to the ear and received a light left to the face in return. Louis put a left and right to the jaw at the bell.

THIRD ROUND—They sparred for an opening, with Primo missing light lefts. Louis hammered a left to the body. Despite his advantage in reach Carnera found Louis elusive. They went into a clinch after Louis swung lefts and rights to the jaw. Carnera was boxing better than he did against Baer a year ago. Louis sent two rights to stomach. He pounded two rights under the heart and Carnera looked worried. Another left and right crashed to Primo's body at the bell.

FOURTH ROUND—They sparred for an opening, then Louis stung Carnera with a hard right to the face. Carnera rushed in excitedly and they exchanged blows in the center of the ring. Carnera, so far, had not adopted his usual clinching and roughing tactics. He launched a long right without effect. Louis hooked a left to the jaw and then missed a right. He hooked another left to the jaw and Carnera countered with a heavy right, but Louis was protected. Louis again hooked a hard left to Carnera's jaw, but the Italian's recuperative powers kept him on his feet. Ringside critics said the first four rounds were Louis'.

FIFTH ROUND—Louis, unafraid of Carnera's feathery blows, came in under Primo's long right. In a rough clinch, Louis threw Carnera off balance with lefts and rights to the jaw. He followed with another right to the jaw and punished Carnera severely. Carnera's lips were puffed and bleeding. Louis hooked to the body, then raised it to the jaw. He came in close and landed a hard short right. Carnera had a wild, scared look on his face as he ambled to his corner.

SIXTH ROUND—Carnera went into a clinch and missed an uppercut. Louis hooked a left to the body. He blocked Carnera's left, stepped back from a right, then bore in with a left and a right. A short right to the jaw dropped Carnera to his knees and he flopped to his back. At the count of four he staggered to his feet, his face bleeding and his eyes glassy. Louis charged in and crashed another right to the head. Carnera fell as though shot. He got to his hands and knees and took another four count. As he got to his feet Louis weaved in and landed a terrific left hook flush on the chin, flooring Carnera for the third time. Dazed and battered, Carnera got to his feet again at three. He could not lift his hands and stood helpless as Louis moved towards him. Referee Donovan jumped in and waved Louis to his corner, declaring Carnera beaten on a technical knockout in 2 minutes and 32 seconds of the sixth round.

TRIUMPH FAILS TO ALTER JOE'S SERIOUS MIEN

Baer Next Foe

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—Joe Louis will be matched for a 15 round fight with Max Baer, former world heavyweight champion, this fall, Promoter Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century Sporting club announced tonight immediately after the Detroit colored boxer's knockout victory over Primo Carnera. The fight will be held in one of the New York ball parks around world series time, Jacobs said.

New York, June 25.—"No, he didn't hurt me."

"Yes, I hope to be champion."

"No, I wasn't sure I had him until the sixth round, after that second blow to his mouth, when he bled so badly."

"No, I wasn't afraid at any time. But the way he kept coming back with that jabbing left puzzled me, so I didn't feel sure."

"Yes, I think my victory really started in the third round when I continued the body attack begun in the second. That was to lower his guard for the blows to the jaw which I used in the fifth and sixth.

"I fought Carnera the way I used to fight when I was in the Chicago Golden Gloves tourney. And I might say some of those amateurs were a lot tougher."

"No, I don't feel any different. I'm the same Joe Louis with the same size hat."

These were the replies of a naked, ebony giant to a barrage of questions from newspaper reporters gathered in the New York Yankees' dressing room to hail the new heavyweight sensation, only a year out of Chicago's Golden Gloves ranks, who tonight convinced all skeptics that he has the makings of a champion.

Same Old Joe.

Stretched on the table which often has supported the frame of Babe Ruth, Louis was submitting to ministrations of old Jack Blackburn, faithful trainer of the Alabama born boxer living in Detroit, now claimed by New York, as New York has a habit of claiming celebrities. This 21 year old beardless colored boxer was not singing or dancing with joy. He revealed no unusual exuberance.

Still with the serious manner which he carries into the ring, a seriousness which has earned him the nickname of "Dead Pan Joe," Louis answered what was asked of him just as if it was as much a part of his evening's work as the elimination of Primo Carnera from among championship contenders.

"But, Joe, didn't you expect to win from the very first round when you saw Primo had no punch?"

"Yes, I expected to win, of course, because I always expected to win. But I had been told how game Carnera was, and he was game, so I did not know how long it would take."

"You said in advance you'd stop him in five rounds," he was twitted.

"Well, Carnera said it would end in the sixth round. Primo was right on that one."

Purse Approximates $35,000.

This was the only flash of humor during the interview from Joe Louis, who earned in the neighborhood of $35,000 tonight, compared to his first purse of $50 on last July 4. In the warm room, made warmer by the swarm of onlookers who had crashed the police lines, Louis patiently repeated to newcomers answers to questions previously asked. Meantime Jack Blackburn was fuming to get alcohol massaged on the muscles of his athlete.

"When do you expect to fight again?" we interjected.

"All along I've said I wanted to fight my way to the top and then be a fighting champion," replied Louis. "Of course, all my plans are up to Mr. Black and Mr. Roxborough."

They were standing by and Co-Manager Julian Black of Chicago replied: "We have no plans yet. We positively have signed to make our next appearance under the auspices of Mike Jacobs and the Twentieth Century club. We will stay in New York for several days, then go to Atlantic City. Joe has never been there and wants to see it."

"How about your hands, Joe?" was asked. "Are they all right?"

"Nothing the matter with my hands," exclaimed the colored boy grimly, holding them up for inspection.

"No Harder, No Easier."

"Was it a harder fight than you expected, Joe?" we inquired.

"No, it wasn't a harder fight and it wasn't an easier fight. It was just a fight."

"Aren't you glad it's over?"

"Well, yes, I guess I'm glad it's over. Now I won't have to train for a while, but I don't mind training."

By this time Trainer Blackburn insisted the rubdown must be completed and the questioning end.

When that task was completed and Louis was in street attire his party will dog the heels of Jimmy Braddock, the new champion. Manhattan had heard, but it scarcely believed despite the odds 6 to 5 on Louis. This largely was the result of support from Detroit and Chicago, where Louis lived and where he won his amateur laurels.

LOUIS WINS IN SIXTH; REFEREE SAVES CARNERA

Huge Italian Is Beaten from Start.

Had Said He Would Win.

Louis' victory tonight was born in deliberation and delivered in effect as he had promised the men who were behind him from the time he began training at Pompton Lakes, N. J.

Louis said he would knock out Carnera. He did. In the first round he leveled his attack at the jaw and face. A crushing right sailed over vain defenses and brought blood from Carnera's mouth.

But in the next three sessions, Joe boomed his left into Carnera's stomach. In the fifth round Primo backed up to pull his tights higher as Louis socked his tanned torso.

Louis Surprisingly Strong.

Most surprising was Louis' strength. In the fourth round he whipped a short right to the body and Carnera lurched from a clinch as if shoved by an invisible force. Carnera, the man who was supposed to overpower by strength, to beat an opponent insensible by lethal short blows to the head, had met a master. Primo paused, considered, but came back for more punishment.

The finale was heralded when Louis raised his swift lightning to the head in the fifth round. He continued in the sixth, hammering his best to Carnera's head and the Italian dropped again and again.

Hailed as Champion.

Tonight New York hailed the man it believes is the coming champion. From the topmost deck of Yankee stadium the crowd gave its accolade. More remains. Louis has proved he is more than a worthy successor of Jack Johnson, a former champion who was colored.

By his conquest Louis not only has stopped for all time the ominous threat of Carnera but he has shown that punching ability rather than size is the important factor. In this he repeated the master of Dempsey on the Maumee flats near Toledo when he humbled Jess Willard in 1919.

No Disturbances.

More than 1,00 police patroled Yankee stadium. Only one per cent were needed. They had come to supervise the first major contest between black and white, particularly because Louis represented the folk who sympathise with the Ethiopians of north Africa. But Joe Louis took charge with his dynamite punches. The police stayed only to enjoy the celebration.

Louis left the ring without a mark on his tan features. An hour later he appeared at celebrations in his honor in Harlem. He is expected to meet Max Baer in September. Two weeks ago this bout might have been for the world title. Now it is just another fight, but none who saw the battle tonight doubts that Louis can whip any of the present heavyweights.

Buddy Baer Wins.

In the semi-final bout of six rounds Buddy Baer, Max's little brother, engaged Frank Wotanski of Utica. Baer weighed 239, Wotanski 205.

There were five rows of press in front of the first of the special seats reserved for the favored fans at the ringside. At about the eleventh row, the A row of the $16.50 seats began.

Max Baer sneaked into the arena without arousing as much as a cheer. The bubble of fistic supremacy seemed to have burst completely as far as Livermore Max was concerned.

The crowd at ringside finally discovered Baer. At the same time the photographers found Jimmy Braddock, new heavyweight champion and they disrupted the proceedings during the third preliminary by posing the two together and shooting flashes.

George Getz, veteran member of the Illinois commission, was caught in the crush, but finally elbowed his way to a seat.

King Levinsky, the forgotten man of the heavyweights, who twice has lost decisions to Carnera, promenaded the ringside section in blue shirt and neat summer suit. Back in the more remote sections his sister, Lena Levy, and a sweetheart were waiting the King.

Some Snitch a Peek.

As the sky gradually darkened, the outline of the buildings to the north was brought out in relief. On each of these apartment dwellings, hundreds of people clustered. At that they had just as good a view of the activities under the lights as the two buck people in the bleachers.

The list of celebrities in ringside seats included Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey, former world champions, as well as Jack Johnson, the only Negro ever to hold the title, Mayor La Guardia of New York and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City also were among the élite.

Charles Stoneham and Col. Jacob Ruppert, rival baseball magnates, were present. Postmaster James A. Farley and his wife came in at the fourth preliminary to take seats directly behind THE TRIBUNE correspondents. Irving Berlin led the group from Broadway.

Bar and bench of New York were well represented. Joseph E. Widener and Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan were spotted among the group whose favorite scene of activities is on the race tracks of the nation.

JOCKY CLUB WINS FIGHT AGAINST OHIO COMMISSION

Columbus, O., June 25.—(AP)—The Dayton Jocky club won a temporary injunction in court here today restraining the Ohio racing commission from interfering with its horse racing program at Dayton, O., shortly after the commission suspended the club's license to operate. The 19 day program has been halted since a minor riot of spectators occurred last Saturday when Corida, the favorite in the last race, was left at the post in the grasp of an assistant starter.

'Body Blows' Beat Carnera,' Louis Explains

motored to the Savoy ballroom, 140th street and Lenox avenue, in the heart of deepest Harlem. There a victory celebration had been scheduled in advance.

Critics marveled that this young colored boy with so little professional ring experience, could conduct such a skilful and masterful battle. He worked to perfection.

In the opening round Louis found he could reach Carnera's chin with either left or right, but he was not getting the open target he wished. Primo sometimes was partly blocking, sometimes falling away from punches. Louis realized he might fight himself out in futile endeavor.

Strategy Works Perfectly.

So he shifted his attack to the body in the second round, intensified it in the third round, and continued it in the fourth. Primo, feeling those short blows of tremendous power from either hand, was instinctively and unknowingly lowering his guard more and more. His chin now loomed as a target.

In the fifth and sixth rounds, Louis raised his blows. He not only hooked, but he put body leverage behind his punches. The result was inevitable, even to a man of Carnera's recuperative power and gameness. It was a humane act when Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the encounter.

For Carnera, one must admire his courage, his willingness and then feel sorry for him. He never was a natural fighter. He assimilated what boxing prowess could be assimilated by a man to whom fighting was not instinctive. He never has been a hard hitter. He learned to box. But it will take a more clever boxer than Carnera to avail against the foe who opposed him tonight.

And a Year Ago Today—

Louis now has answered the question whether he could meet a foe of first flight pretentions and land the crushing blows which had sent 18 of 22 professional opponents to dreamland. It was a decidedly affirmative answer. The Louis record is now 19 knockouts in 23 engagements.

Joe Louis is called by the largest aggregation of fistic commentators attending a fight in recent years the greatest heavyweight fighter since Jack Dempsey. And just a year ago, this same Joe Louis was the CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves amateur light heavyweight champion.

"TOUGHER THAN BAER"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Primo Carnera took almost as much abuse after he left the ring tonight as in it. With a right hearty vigor and words that were powerful, if not well chosen, his managers and handlers began where Joe Louis left off.

"You dumb ox!" yelped Bill Duffy, the beaten giant's manager. "You done everything I told you not to do and vice versa. You fought just the way that guy wanted. If you'd only listen to me you would be something but a pushover."

"No, you listen to me," cut in Doc Bagley, trainer. "What you shoulda done, you big stiff, was stay down for nine when he dropped you that first time. You woulda been fresh as a daisy. Instead, whadda ya do? You bounce right up and he clips you again. This time you're groggy but you get up again. The third time he clips you and you're drunk."

Primo Is Silent.

Primo, his mouth a crimson gash, was silent under the tirade. He seemed to be struggling for words but none came. His head swayed as if trying to fend off the abusive shower.

By this time he was toweling his back. Suddenly he had an attack of modesty and turned to photographers who were snapping the undraped Carnera form.

"Not like dis," he snarled. "Not dis way; you stop now or I get sore."

When the shutters continued clicking he leaped up and grabbed a walking stick. "Quit, I tell you, or I let you have it," he shouted. "No more until I get clothes on."

"Hey, Primo," piped a newcomer, "what you think of that Louis? Is he tougher than Baer?"

"Yeh, he's tougher. He's lot tougher. He's a sharpshooter, he is."

"Do you think you hurt him? He says you didn't hurt at all."

"Sure I hurt him. I hurt him hard in the third round and he grunt like hell. I hurt him bad."

"Going to fight again?"

"I don't know. I don't know nothing. Maybe I fight again, maybe I don't. Maybe I go back to Italy for a while. How do I know what I do?"

In the WAKE of the NEWS

AT MOORE'S.

NEW YORK, June 25.—[Special.]—Lindy's and Dinty Moore's are two New York restaurants which have not felt the competition of Jack Dempsey's popular place as keenly as some of the others catering to theatrical and sports clientele. In fact, two or three eating places in the more immediate vicinity have closed their doors since the ex-heavyweight champion became an active host.

Moore's, once famed for its corned beef and cabbage, now more for its steaks, chops, and sea food, was started back in 1914 and enjoyed its greatest vogue during the prohibition era, when it managed somehow to serve its patrons that which they wanted and that at which the law looked askance. It has had only two locations, once on 37th street and now on 46th.

James J. Moore, founder of the establishment, to whom the nickname Dinty is distasteful, a man in his 60's looking much younger, is about the place, but does not mix with all-comers, preferring to sit at a table and chat with old friends or old patrons. His son Billy does the official greeting.

These New York restaurants have some wigwag system of learning the identity of patrons. Thus it was that Mr. Billy came up, called us by name, welcomed us to the place, and hoped we would enjoy our dinner before the fight tonight. Perhaps the clew to identification was in the hatband of our lid, which we had deposited on entering. At any rate, such attention is flattering to most guests.

We looked around to see whom we recognized. There was Max Baer, shorn of his title by Jim Braddock, at a table for three. He nodded and seemed to be explaining to his hosts or guests about his injured hands.

Actress Fannie Brice was at another table. So was Bill Benges, once of Chicago and San Francisco, now of New York. For Bill's Chicago friends we should add Fannie and Bill were not together. She was with a theatrical man whose face was familiar but whom we couldn't place.

Over in a corner Bill Corum, New York sports columnist, sat with his mother, who does not look old enough to be his mother. In another group were Jimmy Johnston of Madison Square Garden, who promoted the Braddock-Baer encounter; Packey McFarland of the Illinois boxing commission, and Mark Kelly, Los Angeles, here for the fight. Scattered throughout the place were others of whom you had heard either in theatrical enterprises or sports activities.

Prices are about the same as at Dempsey's, from $1.75 to what have you, according to your appetite and whimsiness.

After the Fight.

After the fight Joe Louis and his entourage motored to the Savoy ballroom, 140th street and Lenox avenue, where all Harlem attempted to crowd into the hall to pay homage to the representative of their race, who is thought to have the best chance of recent years ultimately to become heavyweight champion.

This Wake Is Conducted by Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

Not Too Near the Ring.

Mrs. Lillian Barrow Brooks, mother of Joe Louis, occupied a seat not too near the ring, because, as she explained, she did not wish to see blood. "Whose blood?" one asked. "Why, Mr. Carnera's blood, of course," she answered.

Joe Louis' full name is Joe Louis Barrow. After the death of his father Mrs. Barrow gathered together her little brood of five and moved from Alabama to Detroit. There she married again. Stepfather Brooks is a subforeman in an automobile factory.

Away from the Crowd.

Primo Carnera, like Louis, kept away from crowds before the battle, except at the boxing commission physical examination and weighing in, by going to a hideout to await summons to the arena. Primo did not appear in his hotel headquarters, the same at which The Wake is stopping, until after the battle. Louis was ensconced at the residence of a former Detroit friend, now living here on 153d street, near Yankee stadium, the house that Babe Ruth built.

Wide Public Interest.

Indicative of the wide public interest in the Louis-Carnera fight was application for nearly 1,000 press reservations. Four representatives are here from San Francisco newspapers, two from Los Angeles, three from Detroit, eight from Chicago, and others from Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Des Moines, Cleveland, New Orleans, and all points west and south with a solid quota from the east.

Relative Plans to Make Himself Known to Louis

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 25.—(AP)—A gray thatched Negro barber planned tonight to tuck away his shears and clippers and "move in" with his self-styled cousin, Joe Louis.

Anthony Barrow, who earns his living "a-barbering" on Chattanooga's 9th street, said he is "going to move in on Joe 'n help him spend all that money."

The barber explained his relationship to Joe as he manipulated a pair of clippers on a woolly head.

"Me an' him is both Barrows," he said of the heavyweight boxer. "His real name is Joe Louis Barrow. Our daddies wuz brothers."

"When did you last see Joe?" he was asked.

"Oh, its been a long time. He was jest a kid—'bout 8 or 9 years old. We all lived down in Alabama. His folk was in Montgomery and mine was in Lafayette."

Anthony opined that Louis had "plenty of fokses" in the south. Asked if they all were going to see him after the fight, he replied: "Ah don't know about them—but ah sure am. Ah'm goin' t' move in an' remind 'im who ah am. Yes suh."

Cubs Lose to Giants, 3 to 2, and Win, 10-5

fifth hit, a double to left center, with two out in the eighth. Klein was given an intentional pass. Cavarretta socked a terrific line drive to deep left center. Ott got his hands on the ball but it handcuffed him and fell for a double, Cuyler scoring and Klein stopping at third. Jurges was also passed, filling the bases. Then French lined to Moore.

Galan was safe at the outset of the ninth on Koenig's wide toss and went to second on Herman's sacrifice. Hack singled to right, scoring Galan. O'Dea then hit into a double play launched by Castleman.

Giants Break Up Game.

Koenig singled over second to start the Giant ninth. Jackson tripled to left center, scoring Koenig, and Warneke replaced French. Mancuso sent a short fly to Klein, and Jackson held third until he saw Cavarretta fumble Klein's return to the infield and deflect the ball out of the reach of all hands. Then he scored the tying run. Castleman fanned. Moore beat out a bouncer to Hack and stole second, but Bartell filed to Klein.

Terry opened the home tenth with a single to center. He advanced to second on Ott's sacrifice. Leiber singled over Cavarretta's head, scoring Terry with the winning run and giving Warneke his eighth defeat of the year.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs emerged from the first inning with a 1 to 0 lead as a result of Herman's first homer of the year. It was a straight shot into the upper deck of the left field stands. In the Giant half Stan Hack was laid low when he tried to grab Bartell's double along the left foul line. At first it was thought that Stan had a fractured finger, but the member was thrown out of joint, nothing worse. English replaced the injured athlete.

The Cubs took a 2 to 0 lead in the third when Galan knocked a triple over Moore's head and scored on Herman's long fly to Leiber.

The Giants tied the score in their half of the third. Moore got credit for a double when Galan chased Cuyler away from a fly to dead center and then failed to make the catch. Bartell followed with his second homer of the series to set the count at 2 all.

Cubs Ahead Again.

The Cubs gained another temporary lead in their half of the fourth when Hartnett landed on Bartell's error, paused while Cuyler fanned, went to third on Demaree's single to right, and scored on Cavarretta's infield out.

Jackson opened the home fourth with a single through Jurges. Danning beat out a dribbler to English, and when Woody threw the ball away Jackson reached third and Danning second. Hubbell was called out on strikes, then Moore was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Bartell forced Moore, scoring Jackson, Terry flied to Galan.

Hubbell Starts Trouble.

Hubbell began the sixth inning foray, from which the Giants emerged with a two run lead. He led off with a single. Moore followed with a single and when Galan fumbled the ball, Hubbell legged it to third and Moore took second. This brought up Bartell and all fears were quickly realized when he doubled, scoring Hubbell. Moore stopped at third, whence he scored after Demaree took Terry's fly. Ott and Leiber were retired without further embarrassment.

The Cubs got back one of these runs in the seventh when Galan doubled to center with two out and came home on Herman's single.

The Cubs went ahead in the eighth. Hartnett singled to right and Stout replaced Hubbell. Stainback ran for Hartnett. Cuyler sacrificed, Stout to Terry. When Klein batted for Demaree, Smith replaced Stout. Then Klein was called back and Lindstrom batted for Klein. Lindstrom walked. Warneke ran for Lindstrom. Cavarretta singled to center, Stainback scoring. Gabler replaced Smith and Jurges flied to Moore. O'Dea batted for Kowalik and O'Dea walked, filling the bases. When Gabler threw two wide balls to Galan, Fitzsimmons was called in to pitch and Galan knocked his second triple to left field, clearing the bags. He was out trying for a home run, Leiber to Bartell to Danning.

The Cubs added their ninth and tenth runs on Herman's fourth hit, a single, and Cuyler's homer in the ninth.

COOPER CARDS 138 TO WIN THE OPEN GOLF TITLE

Glen Oak Pro Shoots 66 to Tie Record.

Rockford, Ill., June 25.—[Special.]—For the third time in three years, Harry Cooper, Glen Oak Country club professional, is the Illinois state open golf champion. In the final eighteen holes today, Cooper equaled the Rockford Country club course record of 66, jointly held by Gunnar Nelson, home club pro, and Larry Moller, Quincy, whose state amateur crown is up for decision when the fifth annual tourney begins tomorrow.

Cooper's 66, coupled with a 72, one over par, yesterday, gave him a 36 hole total of 138, four strokes better than the card of Harry Hampton, the veteran Beverly Country club pro, who led the field yesterday with a 69.

Harry Bangs Out a 32.

The Glen Oak star, who had little luck in the national open at Pittsburgh and the Western at South Bend, but who came back to win the $3,500 Medinah open, posted the best nine hole score during the entire tourney on his way out this morning, reaching the turn in 32, four under perfect figures. Cooper then breezed in with 34 to get his 66.

Two strokes back of Hampton came Horton Smith of Oak Park, with 144 for third place. Following Smith, in the 146 class, were Tommy Armour of Medinah, Denny Shute of Westward Ho, Bob Stupple of Skokie, and Young Victor Brook of Decatur.

Williams Finishes with 147.

Eddie Williams, River Forest, who finished in second place yesterday with a 70, had to be content with a fifth place tie at 147, with Gunnar Nelson, Terl Johnson of Decatur, and Jim Foulis of Ruth Lake. Ky Laffoon of Northmoor, in third place with 71 at the close of the first eighteen hole round, wound up with 150.

Cooper, whose 138 was only a stroke short of equaling Johnny Lehman's record mark over the Rockford Country club course at 36 holes made during the Western amateur in 1932, enriched himself to the extent of $275 today, $25 of which was for the lowest score. Hampton got $100 today, and $25 for low yesterday. Smith's share was $50, while Armour, Shute, Stupple and Brook each received $25.

Cooper, who missed short putts on the last four holes yesterday, did not have any trouble in this respect today, requiring only 27 of them. He one-putted four of the last nine. Cooper was erratic at times off the tee, but great recoveries put him back in stride.

He started this morning with two straight birdies on the par five and four first and second holes, followed the card for the next four, scored a birdie deuce at the 7th when his drive stopped six feet from the pin, and, after taking a par four on the eighth, holed one from seven feet for a birdie four on the long ninth.

Cooper Coasts Home.

Cooper played regulation golf coming back for five holes; got himself another birdie, a 3, on the fifteenth with a fine putt, and then coasted in with three more pars.

While Cooper was master with his putter, Hampton repeatedly was using three on the greens going out. He made the home nine in 34, however, one under par.

Cooper and Hampton's cards:

"JIMMY" BRADDOCK
the Sensational New World's Heavyweight Champion, Brings New Encouragement to WEAK RUNDOWN AILING FOLKS!

PICTURE OF JIMMY BRADDOCK TAKEN DURING TRAINING FOR BAER FIGHT AFTER 6 WEEKS ON KELPAMALT—TOTAL GAIN 26 LBS.

Tells How Kelpamalt Helped Him Build His Crushing Strength, Vibrant Energy and the Solid Extra Lbs. That Won Him Victory!

Explains Why New Mineral Concentrate Corrects Commonest Cause of SKINNINESS and Rundown Conditions, How It MUST ADD 5 LBS. IN 1 WEEK OR NO COST!

Now at last the story of "Jimmy" Braddock's smashing victory and sensational comeback can be told. For years, the new champion had been underweight, too light, unable to handle real heavyweights. Yet in 6 short weeks, with the aid of Kelpamalt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea, he packed on 26 lbs. of hard, solid flesh, built up his rugged, shattering strength and flashing energy.

"The cause of most rundown conditions, weakness and underweight, in my opinion, is largely iodine starved glands", says "Jimmy". "When these glands—particularly the important gland which controls weight building—lack NATURAL PLANT IODINE (don't confuse this with ordinary chemical iodine), even diets rich in fats and starches fail to add weight and produce energy. That's why skinny folks often have huge appetites, yet stay skinny."

With the discovery of Kelpamalt—a mineral concentrate made from a huge 90-foot sea plant harvested off the Pacific coast, you can now be sure of your needed ration of plant iodine in concentrated, easy to take form. 1300 times richer in iodine than oysters, Kelpamalt helps your food to do you good, build rugged strength, add weight and banish fatigue. Its 12 other minerals stimulate the digestive glands which produce the juices that enable you to digest fats and starches. 3 Kelpamalt tablets contain more iron and copper than 1 lb. of spinach or 7½ lbs. of fresh tomatoes, more iodine than 1,386 lbs. of lettuce and more calcium than 6 eggs.

Start Kelpamalt today. Even if you are "naturally skinny", you must add 5 lbs. the first week or the trial is free. Costs but little to use.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, June 25.—Helen Wills Moody, former American woman's tennis champion, advanced to the second round of the Wimbledon tournament today by defeating Mlle. Baumgarten, Hungary. A large crowd, which included Ambassador Robert Bingham, his daughter, and Lord Desborough, cheered as Mrs. Moody scored a 6-0, 6-1 victory.

Mrs. Moody fell twice on the slippery court, but apparently suffered no injury. She found no difficulty against her opponent and scored points almost at will . The match was halted for a short time when Mrs. Moody put on socks over her shoes to prevent further spills.

Helen Jacobs, holder of the American title, also gained the second round. She defeated Mlle. Adamson, Belgium, 6-3, 6-3. Other matches scheduled for today were postponed because of the poor condition of the courts.

The former outfielder for the Chicago White Sox, now 47 and the owner of businesses in Savannah, Ga., and Greenville, S. C., arrived today with his wife to visit friends.

Indians Score 2 in 9th; Beat Yankees, 5 to 4

Cleveland, O., June 25.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians staged a two run rally in the ninth to defeat the New York Yankees, 5 to 4, today and reduce the league leaders' margin to three games.

The Yankees got to Mel Harder for 12 hits, while Johnny Allen was yielding six, but Cleveland's veteran right hander kept the hits scattered except in the first, when New York scored three runs.

Bruce Campbell opened the ninth with a single, and Hal Trosky shot a triple to left to score Campbell. Hale and Berger were passed to fill the bases and Pat Malone replaced Allen. Malone walked Phillips to force in the deciding run.

A crowd of 16,535 saw the games.

Michigan Wins Team Title in College Golf

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—The University of Michigan romped off with most of the prizes in the national intercollegiate golf tournament today, winning the team championship while two of its sharpshooters tied with a southerner for individual medal honors.

The Wolverines, with a four man total of 606, were hardly challenged as they drove to their second successive team championship. In addition Charles Kocsis and Woodrow Malloy of Michigan, were deadlocked with Lewis Johnson Jr. of Charleston, S. C., college, for individual low score during the two day, 36 hole qualifying test with cards of 148, four strokes above the Congressional course's par.

Michigan's team total was 21 strokes better than Oklahoma, which was second with 627. Georgia Tech was third with 629, while Princeton had 631.

Kocsis Gets Another 74.

Another Malloy, Jack, of Princeton who was tied with Woodrow Malloy for the half way leadership yesterday with 72, found rough going today and ended with a 79. Woodrow played steadily for a 76. Kocsis, who won the medal last year, and Johnson duplicated their opening 74s, with the latter coming home in 34 after a shaky start.

Another Dixie threat, Erwin Laxton of North Carolina, was a stroke behind with a 149. Jack Malloy and Joe Lynch of Georgetown were together with 151, Johnny Fischer of Michigan, the 1932 champion, and Fred Haas, Louisiana, wound up with 152. Haas, who had a fine 73 yesterday, listed five three putt greens today as he wabbled in with a 79.

Yates, Emery Get 156.

Both of the other former champions, Charles Yates, the defending titleholder from Georgia Tech, and Walter Emery of Oklahoma, who won two years ago, qualified safely with 156s.

Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

The waterfowl of North America have the best nesting conditions this year of any season in the last five years, said J. N. Darling, chief of the United States biological survey, Washington, D. C., yesterday when he was in Chicago to address the noonday luncheon meeting of the Associated Fishing Tackle Manufacturers association at the Hotel Sherman.

In response to a series of questions about the number of ducks and geese in America today, what the prospects are for a good hatch of birds this year, and similar inquiries, Mr. Darling gave an encouraging appraisal of the waterfowl situation, although he said that the number of birds that exist today will not warant a wide open season.

"I believe we are over the hill as far as the duck situation is concerned," said Darling. "There is plenty of water in the nesting areas. If present favorable conditions in the nesting areas continue there should be a hatch this year that will enable the ducks and geese to stage a comeback. The imperative need now is to retain a surplus of this year's crop of waterfowl so that America can build toward a normal duck and goose population.

The survey chief added that a closed season on duck shooting was not likely for 1935 in view of the favorable nesting conditions this season. However, he was emphatic in stating that whatever restrictions were necessary to save a surplus out of this year's hatch of birds to add them to the basic secd stock would be put into effect. The inference was that 1935 will see an open season on ducks and geese, but with restrictions that will enable hunters to take a safe margin of birds.

"I want 2,000,000 ducks and geese saved out of this year's hatch in order to add them to our breeding stock," said Mr. Darling, in explaining his program of building up the population of American waterfowl.

Midwest duck shooters probably will be surprised at one statement made by Darling during the course of his chat with us about ducks. He stated that already 250,000 requests had been received by the survey asking that all duck shooting be stopped this season due to the shortage of birds.

START 3D ROUND IN COLLEGE NET TOURNEY TODAY

Doubles Teams Also Will Open on N. U. Courts.

Third round matches in the national intercollegiate tennis tournament at Northwestern university were postponed yesterday because of rain. Weather permitting, the thirty-two remaining players in the singles will swing into action at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The first round of the doubles also is scheduled to get under way today.

Despite yesterday's setback by the weather, tournament officials stated that no trouble will be experienced in narrowing down the field in time for the finals in both singles and doubles Sunday afternoon.

Today's singles matches will bring together a number of favorites. Bert Weltens, University of Texas, sixth seeded player, will have his hands full when he goes up against Ralph Minnich, lone surviving Princeton player. The latter won his first round match against Willard Klunzinger, Michigan State, 6-0, 6-2.

Patterson to Meet Hamilton.

Leonard Patterson, California Institute of Technology, seeded eighth, will face Steve Hamilton, captain of the Cornell team. Both won hard fought second round matches. Patterson turned aside Norbert Burgess, Chicago, 6-4, 7-5, while Hamilton defeated A. F. Morrell, Georgia Tech, 6-4, 6-4.

One of the feature matches on today's program will bring together Wilbur Hess, Rice institute, first seeded player, and Trevor Weiss, University of Chicago star and runnerup in the Big Ten tournament. Both players breezed through their first two round matches in straight sets.

Hess disposed of Robert Rosa, Michigan State, and Maxwell Gurman, Western State Teachers, while Weiss beat Ted Thorward, Michigan, and Paul Rasmussen, Northwestern.

Coast Stars will Clash.

Sam Lee, Stanford, who had a battle on his hands to eliminate William T. Tilden III., in a second round match Monday, will face another Pacific coast player today in Richard Bennett, University of California. Ernest Sutter, third seeded player, will go up against Norman Bickel, University of Chicago star. Bickel has yet to play a match, having advanced to the second round on a bye and then proceeded to the third round on a default.

Thirty teams are entered in the doubles tournament today.

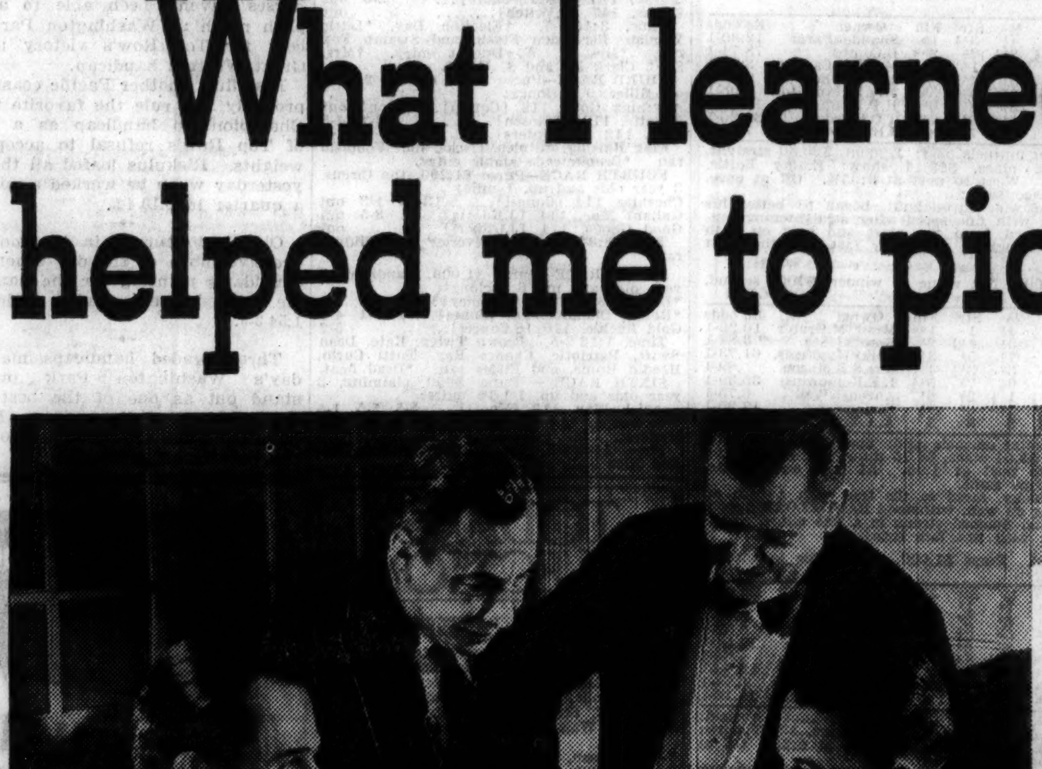
A TRUE EXPERIENCE OF MR. NEWELL D. ELY, OF EVANSTON, ILLINOIS



"When repeal came," says Mr. Ely—"I made it my business to learn a little on the subject of good wines. The experts told me that the trick was knowing the Vintage years."

AT LAST! a new way to select cigars
WHITE OWLS

"That night I saw a White Owl ad that told me about Vintage tobacco. It said that tobacco is mild and mellow in Vintage years—harsh, biting in non-Vintage crops. That interested me."

"Soon after, a cigar clerk recommended Vintage White Owls. I tried them... and found the mildest, mellowest cigar that I've ever smoked. From now on, I'm smoking Vintage White Owls. They get my vote every time."

Why you can be sure of Vintage tobacco in every White Owl

THE first requirement for Vintage tobacco is pure seed. To get such seed, we grow a few acres of finest tobacco. Each bud is covered with a paper bag... preventing contamination by pollen from inferior tobacco.

Our Crop Inspection System, the only known organization of its kind, keeps a check on growing conditions in the finest filler-tobacco districts in America. We know where Vintage tobacco is maturing and buy the best of it for White Owl.

But, even in Vintage years, our buyers classify all filler tobaccos into seven grades. And only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades is ever used in White Owl's filler. That's what we mean when we say Grade A Vintage tobacco.

If all the tobacco crops were ruined for the next two years—it would not affect the quality of White Owls. At the present moment, we have enough Grade A Vintage filler tobacco mellowing in our warehouses to make nearly one billion White Owls.

Same test for cigars as wines ...Vintage

A CONNOISSEUR KNOWS that Vintage wines are best... and he identifies them by a Vintage mark on the bottle. In a like manner—thousands of men are discovering that the finest cigars are made from Vintage quality tobacco.

There is only one Vintage filler cigar... White Owl. The filler tobaccos in this mild, mellow cigar are always of Vintage quality... they are produced under the strictest set of standards in the cigar industry.

That's why every box of White Owls—like a fine bottle of wine—can carry a Vintage mark. Look for this mark. Smoke a White Owl. You'll enjoy its rich bouquet.

A SURE TEST—LOOK FOR THE VINTAGE MARK ON THE BOX

CHICAGO HORSES GO TO TOWN AT WASHINGTON PK.

Spanish Babe and Lemont Win at Big Odds.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The customers at Washington Park who back Chicago owned horses left the course last night in a very happy frame of mind. Their pockets were bulging with money.

They had climbed aboard Mrs. Fred M. Grabner's Spanish Babe in the Lincolnshire purse at a mile for 3 year old fillies. And they also were down hook, line, and sinker on the Nash brothers' Lemont, which faced a band of the fleetest 2 year olds at the track in the Morton Grove purse.

"Home, James," Jocky Jack Westrope shouted into the ear of Lemont, and "Let's go, Babe," Jocky Willie Hanka whispered to Spanish Babe.

Win They Did, Boys!

That's what they did, although they had to do some high, wide, and handsome running in the stretch to get their decisions. But they did it.

The Nash boys' Lemont payoff was $26.60 to win, $13.30 to place, and $6.58 to show. Fred Grabner whistled a popular tune as he showed his south side friends the way up to the cashier's window. His Spanish Babe paid $22.52 to win, $9.74 to place, and $6.86 to show.

Spanish Babe met some of the fleetest 3 year old fillies at Washington Park. In the early stages, with Slim Rosie cutting out a dizzy pace, Hastinella running second and Mid Victorian the favorite third, her possibilities appeared anything but bright.

Up On Inside.

The leaders went wide at the head of the stretch and Jocky Hanka sneaked through next to the rail. Once in front, Spanish Babe stayed there, but she had to keep going at her best speed to beat Bandalore by a neck. Irksome from Milky Way Farm stables was third, a length back of the two leaders.

Spanish Babe was only a little more than a second off the track record when she ran her seven furlongs in 1:25. The light showers failed to change the track conditions until the last race was run.

Lemont's race was the more sensational of the two. A slow beginner, he was away last in his field and he didn't begin to improve his position until the field hit the turn in the five furlong dash.

Lemont and Westrope tore after the two leaders and Lemont whipped the two of them in time to get up in the final strides and win by three-quarters of a length from Grand Duke. Empty Bottle was just able to save third money from Joseph E. Widner's Seven Pines. Lemont ran the five furlongs in the good time of 1:00 2-5. Regarded all season as the best 2 year old in the Nash brothers Shandon farm stable, this was the first victory he has been able to score in Chicago.

Winner trained by C. E. Durnell. Went to post at 2:15. At post two minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

DIANE S., well in hand until reaching final three-eighths and taken to outside on stretch turn, came around leaders gradually and weakened after getting up, but stalled off COURT SONG. Latter, rushed into a long lead, saved ground after first three-eighths and came again after being headed, but could not get up. LITTLE DOGGIE began to improve his position fast after reaching stretch and continued well to final fifty yards, where his speed slackened, yet he continued to gain on leaders in closing stages.

JASCHA showed good speed from the start and held on well. HALF DAY, jostled about early, came with a rush on outside in stretch.

HASTY PETER, well up from the start and on inside throughout, came through a small opening when racing to the front, and was vigorously ridden out. VERY WELL, raced wide throughout, was a keen factor at all times and held on courageously. WHIZZ JAMES, probably best and sharply blocked, closed with fine speed after coming to outside in stretch.

LEMONT, going in his best form and raced wide throughout, began to better his position when nearing final quarter, continued with fine speed after straightening out, and won going away. GRAND DUKE had speed from the start and held on with good courage. EMPTY BOTTLE, on inside throughout and away fast, had the most speed, but faltered in final sixteenth.

SPANISH BABE, going in top form and lucky, raced to the lead with a rush on inside soon after reaching stretch and, holding on well, withstood BANDALORE'S rush. Latter, away slowly, raced wide throughout and finished strong in a fine effort. IRKSOME, allowed to drop out of it, also closed with fine late speed.

MAREVE, rated along under snug restraint for three-quarters, was briskly shaken up entering stretch and, continuing well, held DORIS B. safe. Latter, taken far out of it and in middle of track throughout, bettered her position with a rush, but hung near end. SHALOT, taken back on far turn, came through on inside soon after reaching stretch and went evenly in the drive.

Winner trained by E. Haughton. Went to post at 4:50. At post one-half minute. Start good for all but Brains. Won driving; place same.

INTEGRITY, under top weight and having the most, made the pace under good rating, came away slowly on stretch turn, and outstayed WHIPPER CRACKER in the drive, during which he swerved out slightly. WHIPPER CRACKER lost much ground when bettering his position, particularly on stretch turn, and, despite light interference, held on doggedly in the drive. BRAINS, away poorly, showed a fine effort.

WILCO, suited by the going, began to improve his position after reaching final three-eighths, swerved over, forcing THE SINGER into close quarters, before drawing clear, and won with something left. THE SINGER, reserved off the pace, appeared beaten when slightly impeded in stretch, but recovered fast and finished well. IRISH IMAGE weakened in last three-sixteenths.

Top Row Passes Up Washington Park Handicap

A. A. Baroni didn't fancy the 124 pounds assigned his horse Top Row in the Washington Park Championship handicap Saturday, so he made plans to ship his steed to New York. Top Row will go in a $10,000 handicap at Empire City July 6. The Baroni horses haven't been able to accomplish much at Washington Park, except for Top Row's victory in the Great Western handicap.

Riskulus, another Pacific coast star, probably will rule the favorite in the Championship handicap as a result of Top Row's refusal to accept the weights. Riskulus loafed all the way yesterday when he worked a mile and a quarter in 2:10 4-5.

Old Gusto turned in the most impressive move of the day among the candidates pointing for the handicap. He breezed a mile and a furlong in 1:54 3-5.

Three graded handicaps make today's Washington Park program stand out as one of the best week day offerings of the season. Evenly balanced fields are scheduled to go to the post in all of them.

ALL AMERICAN GOLFERS QUALIFY IN BRITISH OPEN

Colton and Burton Lead Trials with 141.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

MUIRFIELD, June 25.—Henry Cotton, the titleholder, and Richard Burton, young Cheshire pro, shared the honors of leading the field with 141 apiece at the end of the qualifying rounds of the British open championship today. MacDonald Smith, who led yesterday with a 66 over Gullane, was set back on Muirfield, his 76 putting him one stroke behind Cotton.

All seven Americans were among the 109 who qualified for championship play, but Henry Picard, Robert Sweeny and W. Lawson Little had to score low in the seventies to do it. Sweeny, who established an amateur record for the Deal course in the preliminaries to last year's open, three putted the eighteenth green at Gullane for a 71, thus missing tying the amateur record of 70 for that course established earlier in the day by Hector Thomson. Thomson, who ranks higher than Jack McLean in the opinion of many Scottish experts, was the first amateur with 144, only three strokes behind the leaders.

Mist Reduces Visibility.

At the outset a cold drenching mist reduced the visibility to 100 yards. Many employed fore caddies but the real hazard of the mist was its deception. The players stood in astonishment when having taken a full mashie found the green easily reachable with a mashie niblick.

Ernest Whitcombe, one of the most experienced players under these conditions, was sixty yards over the fifteenth green at Muirfield and thirty yards over the sixteenth.

Conditions gave Picard a grand chance to complete his education of British golf under almost the worst possible conditions. A hook that developed in his drive nearly wrecked his chances, but he stuck to it with grim determination, and the story of his round is one of a succession of magnificent recoveries for a 74. This made his total 151.

Smith Troubled by Mist.

Mac Smith had the worst of the weather at Muirfield, and it was a real struggle for him to reach the turn in 40. He had a 6 at the fifth through being in the rough, and a misjudged shot cost him a 5 at the tenth.

Frank Ball of Great Britain had plenty of strokes in hand, and the only blots in his 75 were shaky putts.

The mist had cleared somewhat when Little, again hitting prodigious drives, attacked the hilly Gullane course with the millstone of a 78 tied around his neck. Instead, he had to contend with a cross wind. In these conditions he had a rare struggle to keep in the competition.

Joe Kirkwood cruised round steadily. "The mist covered all the traps, so I didn't worry about them nor them me," he said.

Joe Ezar of Waco, Tex., who also qualified comfortably, is getting his share of the galleries. Missing a short putt for a 4 at the eighteenth he turned to the crowd: "You see, ladies and gentlemen, my nerves have broken at last—just tell Mr. Cotton."

The 72 hole championship play will begin tomorrow and will continue Thursday and Friday.

Frank Sagilio to Box Bobby Pacho at Comiskey Park

Frank Sagilio, the Cicero fighter, and Bobby Pacho of Los Angeles, Cal., have been matched to meet in a ten round bout at White Sox park next Tuesday night. The match, which will be fought at 140 pounds, is supplementary to a 15 round colored lightweight title contest between Holman Williams, Detroit, and Baby Tiger Flowers, Omaha, Neb.

There will be four other matches, each at five rounds, on the card. Lorenzo Pack and Max Marek, both heavyweights, and Clinton Bridges, light heavyweight, and Dave Clark, middleweight, all of whom have won Golden Gloves titles, will appear in these. Pack will clash with Pete Wistort, South Chicago; Bridges will meet Lou Thomas, Indianapolis, Ind.; Clark is paired with Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., and Marek will box Scotty Fuller, Indianapolis.

Pack, 1935 Golden Gloves intercity and international titleholder, will make his third professional appearance. He scored knockouts in each of his previous pro efforts. Marek, who won the light heavyweight Golden Gloves crown two years ago and finished second to Otis Thomas for the heavyweight title in 1934, will be making his first appearance in the pro ranks. Clark knocked out Bob O'Signac in his pro debut. Bridges stopped Ray Tucker and Wilson Dunn and scored a six round decision over Thomas in his three pro engagements.

Nango Singh and Bert Rubi, both of whom are undefeated since first showing in Chicago some months ago, will meet in the windup encounter of the wrestling show tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. They will wrestle for one fall. The time limit is 90 minutes. Preliminary matches:

Stanley Buresch vs. Frank Hart, 30 minutes.
Ivan Rasputin vs. Cleve Welch, 30 minutes.
Turk Grimes vs. Jack Schomer, 30 minutes.

DOZENS SHARE IN FOUR MILLION CUTTING ESTATE

La Follettes Beneficiaries —Paper Given Away.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—In simple, nonlegal language, written in longhand on senate stationery, the late Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico today parceled out to relatives and friends—including Wisconsin's Senator La Follette—his $3,976,260 estate.

His will, admitted to probate today, listed more than a million dollars in cash bequests.

All of the members of his Washington office force, staf members of his newspaper—the Santa Fe New Mexican—and friends in high places and low were remembered in the 133 bequests.

The will, 12 pages long, was dated Dec. 20, 1934. His lawyers termed it an "unusual document," eschewing as it did most legal verbiage and merely listing his numerous bequests.

Senator Bequeathed $50,000.

In memory of the battles he had waged for legislation side by side with La Follette he left the Wisconsin senator $50,000 while his brother, Gov. Phillip La Follette of Wisconsin was bequeathed $25,000.

Persons of Spanish-American descent in his adopted state of New Mexico—he was born in New York—shared largely in Cutting's bequests. He also left to the Spanish-American Normal school at El Rito, N. M., $150,000.

The largest personal bequest went to Jesus M. Raca, a close friend of Cutting's and his associate in matters of veterans' welfare, a subject close to Cutting's heart. Baca was left $150,000 and Cutting's Santa Fe paper.

Bequests of $100,000 were left to Herman G. Baca of Belen, N. M., and Brian Boru O'Dunne of Santa Fe, a member of the staf of the paper. H. H. Dorman and Clifford McCarthy, both of Santa Fe, each received $50,000.

Office Employés Remembered.

Legacies were left by Cutting to every person employed in his Washington office, including his secretary, Edgar Puryear, who received $25,000, and his stenographer Florence Droney, left $2,500.

Senator Cutting's mother, Mrs. Olivia M. Cutting of Oakdale, New York, and Jesus M. Baca were named executors.

Mrs. Cutting and Baca were accepted by the court today as executors and posted bond of $60,000.

Cutting made no specific bequest to his mother, friends explaining the omission probably was due to the fact that she is independently wealthy.

Senator Cutting's sisters, Mrs. Justine B. Ward, who lives abroad and Mrs. Olivia James of New York and a niece, Iris Origo, who also lives abroad shared equally in the bulk of the estate. The senator was unmarried.

Father Was Financier.

Senator Cuttings' family is of old New York stock and have long had varied interests and wide holdings. His father, W. Bayard Cutting, was a widely known financier and railroad man. He was known for his philanthropies as was his son and is credited with building some of the first tenements in New York.

Jesus M. Baca, largest beneficiary under Cutting's will declined comment on the bequests. As one of the executors of the estate he said he has "a lot of work to do" and plans to go to New York tomorrow for filing the will there. He then will return to Santa Fe, arriving the latter part of this week or the first of next.

5 TELL OF 'WIFE' INTRODUCTION IN SUIT OVER WILL

Depositions of five witnesses were read yesterday into the record of the suit, now on trial before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, in which Attorney Lionel R. Barbour of Detroit is seeking to set aside the will of Miss Fannie Bishop Henderson of Aurora. The will left an estate of $650,000 to charity, and Barbour claims he is the legal heir because he went through a common law marriage ceremony with Mrs. Henderson in 1925.

Charles H. McCulloch, supervisor of a Detroit automobile plant, was one of those whose deposition was read. He said Barbour had introduced the gray haired Mrs. Henderson, who was 77 years old when she died in 1931, to him as "my wife." The other affidavits were of similar character.

Attorneys Harold Shapiro and Harry G. Hershenson, for Barbour, said they would present five more witnesses and then close their case. Attorneys John K. Newhall and Cassius Poust, representing William George of Aurora, executor under the will, then will present their evidence to uphold the validity of the testament.

RABBI DEPLORES MOVEMENT FOR JEW CIVILIZATION

Insists Religion Is Key to Racial Cohesion.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Which of two courses is more likely to assure survival of a nation or people—dependence upon spiritual insights with God at the center of the nation's life, or dependence upon progressive civilization with its disciplines and its intricate social and political mechanism?

Last night these alternatives were pressed upon the 200 members of the Central Conference of American Rabbis assembled at the Congress hotel by Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson of New York, president of the conference. He made his opinion clear that survival of the Jew or of any other people depends upon religious faith rather than upon the growing movement he pointed to among Jews which would make Judaism a cilivilization with Jewishness of its institutions and culture the binding force.

Prof. Kaplan Leads Movement.

The growing secular movement Dr. Goldenson cited is largely among conservative Jews for whom Prof. Mordecai Kaplan of a New York Hebrew theological seminary is the accredited spokesman His recent book, "Judaism as a Civilization," depicts a Jewish national existence which demands no religious tests of its citizens.

"It is thought," Dr. Goldenson declared, "that by regarding Judaism as a civilization instead of a religion, it will be easier to cope with the disintegrated forces of modern life.

"The simple fact is that Israel, when it was most completely itself, did not produce any great art or science or speculative thinking. It was interested almost exclusively in spiritual aspects of life. When the children of Lsrael lost their national home they themselves looked back to no glories of a secular nature."

Cites Resistance to Hitler.

Proof that religion exhibits greater strength for survival than any other body of sentiments was pointed out by Dr. Goldenson in citing the resistance of Hitler's program by German confessional Christian groups.

ROBBERS HOLD UP 2 ROADHOUSES; BATTLE POLICE

Five robbers held up 25 patrons of two roadhouses in suburbs southwest of Chicago early today and escaped with their loot after a spirited battle with state highway policemen, who interrupted them at their second stop. The automobile of the police was riddled with bullets from a machine gun fired by one of the bandits.

The robber band first appeared in the Leaping Inn, 147th street and Cicero avenue, Midlothian. From the owner, Fred Reali, they took $85 and from ten patrons an additional $115. When they had left Reali notified the state highway police station at 123 street and Cicero avenue, and Policemen Frank Maurino and Rocco Gragido were sent to investigate.

They learned that the automobile of the robbers had been driven west in 147th street and they followed. In front of Jack Gibbons' resort at 147th street and Harlem avenue, Tinley Park, Maurino and Gragido found the car with one man at the wheel. He signaled the other robbers, who were inside robbing the owner and 15 patrons, and they all rushed out.

Their fire was poured on the policemen's car. The policemen also fired. As the robbers drove to the west Maurino and Gragido pursued, but were distanced after a chase of several miles. Gibbons reported that his patrons had been robbed of only $25.

SHREVE BADGER, RETIRED LUMBER MERCHANT, DEAD

A. Shreve Badger of Lake Forest, retired Chicago lumber merchant, died early today at St. Luke's hospital after a lingering illness at the age of 73. Mr. Badger was born and educated in Chicago. He began his business career in the lumber office of T. W. Harvey in 1876. Later he was connected with the National Lumber company at Creston, Ia., and in 1888 became that company's manager in Chicago.

In April, 1896, he became president of the A. S. Badger company and continued in that position until he retired. He is survived by his wife, the former Sarah Frances Cowles of San Francisco, one daughter, Frances, and two sons, Edwin H. and Shreve C.

Residents of the southwest side were given a pre-Fourth of July pyrotechnical display early today when a fireworks stand at 9336 South Western avenue, in Evergreen Park, just outside Chicago, caught fire from an unknown cause. For 15 minutes the neighborhood was brilliantly lighted and explosions aroused sleepers for a mile around. The stand was owned by Thomas Long and operated by Max Hardte. The loss was between $200 and $300. Chicago firemen were called to extinguish the flames.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Dorothy Page, titian haired songstress who was acclaimed the most beautiful girl in the firmament of radio last winter, will be Ben Bernie's guest on his sponsored program on WMAQ-NBC at 8 p. m. next Tuesday. A little more than a year ago Miss Page was getting her start in radio as a girl singer with Seymour Simons' orchestra, then playing over W-G-N from the Blackhawk. NBC then gave her a "buildup" and made her the headliner of the "Supper Club" program built around Jan Garber's orchestra.

A movie talent scout encountered her and took her to the coast two months ago. There she is working for Universal and has just completed her first picture, "Manhattan Moon," and immediately afterward went to work on a second one titled "King Solomon of Broadway."

Simons' orchestra will return to W-G-N for a few days beginning Saturday, when he opens a four day engagement at the Trianon. Mary Jane Walsh is the new Simons' songstress. On July 4 Wayne King will return to the Aragon and W-G-N, and Anson Weeks, who has been pinch-playing for the waltz king, will move to the Trianon, where Earl Burtnett is holding forth at present.

NBC broadcasters will descend into the crater of Mount Vesuvius to put the rumble ond hiss of boiling lava on the air from 2 to 2:30 next Sunday afternoon. John F. Royal, an NBC vice president now visiting Europe, and a group of Italian engineers from station EIAR will accompany a party of scientists into the depths of the volcano.

Capt. Henry's Show Boat crew, temporarily putting on a tent show because of the "fire" which burned their radio vessel, will "play" Chicago on July 11. If the sponsors would study their maps they would find that it is possible to reach Chicago without traveling overland. Chicago could have been "visited" long since by the mythical Show Boat, using either the Illinois-Mississippi waterway or Great Lakes routes. The tent show device is said to have been resorted to so that the sponsors might bring their show, in fancy, to cities not accessible by water.

Pat Kennedy, a Ben Bernie disciple, is organizing a band of his own. The musicians are said to be a group of former University of Wisconsin lads. . . . Alex [Nothing but the Truth] McQueen got a letter from a fan the other day who says that McQueen is her mother's first sweetheart and that if he is still unmarried will he please write to her mother and declare himself again. Alex says it's a case of mistaken identity. . . . Bob Andrews, who writes "The Romance of Helen Trent," "Betty and Bob," and several other radio sketches, has gone to Hollywood where he is turning out scenarios for the next pictures starring Everett Marshall, Dick Powell, and Glenda Farrell.

STOMACH SUFFERER FRANTIC WITH JOY

Emma Gottwaldt, Box 203, Sheridan, Ore., tells of a friend who suffered severely from stomach trouble. When he finally found a treatment that brought him relief he was frantic with joy and says it is the only treatment that ever helped him. Now Mrs. Gottwaldt, herself a stomach sufferer, uses this same treatment, called Udga, a stomach specialist's formula. If you've tried soda, tablets and powders without getting lasting relief, don't be discouraged. What you need is a more thorough medication like Udga. Over 54,000 letters from former victims of acid stomach, indigestion, heartburn, gas pains and other indications of excess acidity recommend that you try Udga. One trial will show you the difference in results or your money is refunded. Ask your druggist today for Udga.

VACATIONERS CAN GET NEW THRILL BY AIDING CAMP

$9 Check Means 2 Weeks at Algonquin.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

TRIBUNE readers who are departing on vacations next month and wish to feel an extra sense of carefree luxury may obtain it for the price of $9. A check for that amount, sent to the Camp Algonquin fund, will provide a two weeks vacation for a mother or a child—away from the crowded, underprivileged areas of Chicago, where vacations are unheard of treats.

Then the traveler and donor of $9 setting off for the north woods or Banff or the coast of Maine can be assured that no matter how good a time he has it probably will fall short of the thrill a Camp Algonquin vacation is proving to some one through his gift.

2,000 to Get Vacations.

Camp Algonquin is a forty-three acre tract, rolling and oak shaded, on the Fox river near Cary. Some 2,000 mothers, babies, children, and young boys and girls of high school age are picked by the United Charities each summer as worthy of and needing vacations. It costs them nothing. They are sent to the camp for two weeks each, the cost being borne by readers of THE TRIBUNE.

The first 200 mothers and children of the season are in their second week at the camp now. Baseball games between the young girls and mothers and the boys of the camp, swimming in the spring fed pool, hiking, and nature study, sewing and handcraft, bonfires and outdoor singing in the evenings and rowing the twelve boats on the river are keeping them busy.

Special Routine for Eighty.

Next Monday forty undernourished girls and forty underweight boys, who are not included in the season's regular 2,000 campers, will arrive at Camp Algonquin from the stockyards district. They will remain for two months to receive a special diet and routine of rest. The expenses of these children, called the Halawarden group, is largely borne by the stockyards council of the United Charities board, the council being made up principally of Hyde Park citizens.

Contributions last received for Camp Algonquin are:

E. A. M.	$ 2.00
"In loving memory of Dorothy B. Newey"	10.00
Pearl H. Clark	5.00
Total	$ 17.00
Previously acknowledged	1,856.69
Grand total	$1,873.69

At the same time the Free Ice fund supported by readers of THE TRIBUNE benefited by:

Anonymous	$ 1.00
Proceeds from play by 9 children	3.50
Mrs. Oliver Picher	15.00
Total	$ 19.50
Previously acknowledged	51.85
Grand total	$ 71.35

Contributions either to Camp Algonquin or to THE TRIBUNE Free Ice fund may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower, and acknowledgement will be made in the columns of this newspaper.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Speculative bonds encountered trading apprehension today as a result of reactionary influence of the government tax program in the stock market. Investment buying orders, however, arrived in substantial proportions, particularly in the second grade rail group, with the result that selling by traders was easily absorbed and concessions were generally held to fractions. It was regarded as encouraging that bonds of this category showed resistance.

In the utility group, holding company issues gave up slight ground, but the bonds of operating units held steadily. High grade rail issues also showed firmness.

Federal Bonds Easier.

Government bonds were somewhat easier, but trading was relatively quiet. It was generally considered that treasury issues were receiving support to counter such selling as the treasury offer of 3s might tend to inspire. Several of the treasury issues were absent from the tape all day. Closing prices ranged from 2-32ds higher in the 3¼s of 1943 to 4-32ds lower in the 3s of 1946.

Great Northern Bonds Strong.

Several issues of Great Northern railway bonds got into new high 1935 ground at one time during the late rally, but slipped a notch under the peaks to end ¼ to nearly a point higher. Others showing small net advances included American Water Works 6s, Denver Gas 5s, American Telephone 5s, Santa Fe 4s, and Illinois Steel 4½s.

Heaviest losers included Otis Steel 6s, Richfield Oil 6s, Warner Brothers 6s, American and Foreign Power 5s, and International Telephone 4½s. Others yielding less than ½ point included obligations of Delaware and Hudson, Nickel Plate, American Smelting, New England Telephone, Penn Dixie, and Laclede Gas.

Continental Motors.

Investors' Guide: Will you tell me how I can secure the latest financial information of Continental Motors?

Answer: For many years Continental Motors corporation was the leading manufacturer of internal combustion engines for passenger automobiles. During the last few years the trend among automobile manufacturers has been toward manufacture of their own engines and the company's principal market practically disappeared.

Continental, therefore, ventured into the automobile manufacturing field in 1932. This, however, was a failure and was discontinued. It now manufactures gasoline engines for trucks, buses, and industrial purposes. On May 15, 1935, the company announced that it had developed a two cycle Diesel engine suitable for industrial applications.

Losses for the last five years have been heavy. In the year ended Oct. 31, 1934, loss was $917,000, against losses of $2,111,000, $1,626,000, $935,000, and $692,000 for preceding years.

These deficits ate into current position. On Oct. 31, 1934, current assets were $979,000 and current liabilities were $637,000. Profit and loss deficit was $7,757,000.

Straitened current position demanded relief and on May 22, 1935, it was announced that the corporation secured a million dollar 6 per cent Reconstruction Finance corporation loan.

On April 19, 1935, it was announced that two orders, totaling $920,000, had been received.

In October, 1934, a group of stockholders instituted suit against officers and directors for $16,000,000 "lost or dissipated." W. R. Angell, president, branded the allegations as "ridiculous."

There are outstanding 2,436,752 shares of no par stock on which nothing has been paid since Oct. 30, 1929. The stock is purely speculative.

B. & O. R. R.

Investors' Guide: Kindly let me have your opinion as to securities of Baltimore and Ohio southwestern division first 5s, due 1950.—B. E. W.

Answer: The $45,000,000 issue of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company southwestern division first 5s, due 1950, are secured by collateral lien on a mortgage secured by about 900 miles of important road in Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, an average of $49,482 per mile. This segment of road is part of the important main western artery. The bonds are considered sound.

The issue is somewhat unusual in that although the bonds themselves are in effect secured by the mortgage, interest to the amount of only 3½ per cent a year is so secured, the remaining 1½ per cent a year being unsecured.

30 MILLION BOND ISSUE IS OFFERED BY PACIFIC GAS

4 Records Set in Federal Land Bank Sale.

A public offering of $30,000,000 Pacific Gas and Electric company additional 4 per cent series G first and refunding mortgage bonds, due 1964, is being made by a banking group consisting of Lazard Freres & Co., Inc., Brown, Harriman & Co., Inc., Blyth & Co., Inc., Edward B. Smith & Co., The First Boston Corporation, Dean Witter & Co., Bonbright & Co., Inc., H. M. Byllesby & Co., Inc., and E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc.

The bonds are priced at 104, exclusive of accrued interest from June 1, 1935. An earlier offering of $45,000,000 of the series G bonds was made at par on March 28, 1935, and are outstanding. Proceeds of this issue, as in the case of the earlier financing, will be used to retire funded debt bearing higher interest rates.

Land Bank Issue Records.

A final check-up made of last week's sale of $239,000,000 Federal Land bank obligations revealed that four records were broken in handling the transaction. The loan was the largest ever floated for the land banks, the coupon rate was the lowest yet attained for that type of security, oversubscription was the highest and distribution to the public was on the widest scale yet achieved.

A total of 1074 banks and dealers participated in the underwriting which was handled directly by Charles R. Dunn, fiscal agent for the federal land banks. The bonds were priced at 98½ to yield about 3.10 per cent, a high water mark for the institutions' long term credit.

With this transaction out of the way, fiscal agent and his staf are now turning their attention to financing for the federal intermediate credit banks. Mr. Dunn declined yesterday to comment on what form the next financing for these banks will take, but bankers expressed the belief that $15,000,000 of three, six and nine month obligations would be offered. The federal intermediate credit banks, it was stated, will have that amount of maturities to take care of on July 15.

Offer Railroad Bonds.

Offering is to be made today of $12,500,000 Toledo & Ohio Central railway refunding and improvement mortgage 3¾ per cent twenty-five year bonds. The railway, which is a subsidiary of the New York Central, will use about $5,000,000 of the proceeds to reimburse the parent company for funds advanced and $7,500,000 to meet the maturities of $2,000,000 of general mortgage 5s on June 1, $3,000,000 of first 5s on July 1 and $2,500,000 of first 5s on Oct. 1. This will be one of the few railway issues to bear interest at 3¾ per cent. The bonds will be redeemable until June 1, 1941, at 105, the premium declining from that date.

OLIVER FARM'S CAPITAL CHANGE LACKS PROXIES

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Oliver Farm Equipment company was adjourned to July 19 because sufficient proxies were lacking for approval of the proposed plan of recapitalization when the session was called to order yesterday.

M. H. Pettit, president of the company, said the principal difficulty in obtaining enough votes for adoption of the plan has been inability to locate many stockholders.

"The recent rate at which proxies have been arriving has been very encouraging," he added, "and it would seem the plan has an excellent chance of securing approval at the July 19 meeting."

No organized opposition has developed, Pettit added, and none showed itself at the meeting yesterday.

Adoption requires the approval of two-thirds of the 188,610 preferred shares outstanding and a majority of the 621,805 common shares. Proxies yesterday totaled 83.8 per cent of the necessary preferred vote and 77.5 per cent of the common required.

A quorum of the preferred shares being represented, the five directors representing the senior stock were reelected. These are Pettit, S. A. Russell, S. W. White, W. C. Frye, and T. A. Freeman. Because a majority of common stock was not represented, representatives of this issue on the board were not chosen. C. R. Messinger, chairman, and M. W. Ellis thus will continue until reëlected or their successors are chosen. Two vacancies exist in the common representation.

Cherry-Burrell Company to Redeem Bonds on Aug. 1

The Cherry-Burrell corporation announced yesterday that the company has arranged to redeem $855,000 of 6 per cent sinking fund debenture bonds, due Aug. 1, 1938, on Aug. 1, 1935. The call price for the bonds is 101½, part of the funds for redemption being obtained by a $600,000 serial bank loan to mature in two and one-half years. The company will have no funded debt outstanding after this redemption.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today. Sales confirmed were 5,250 bags of Cubas and 2,250 Philippines from store concluded late yesterday at 3.29c per lb, a decline of 1 point in the spot price. Shipment sugars held at 3.35c. Buyers as a rule showed little general buying interest. The disappointing spot demand, and continued nervousness over the legality of the processing tax, caused further liquidation and commission house selling in exfutures. Final prices were 3 to 4 points net lower for the No. 3 contract and 2 to 5 points lower for the No. 1. Sales were 30,000 tons in the No. 3 contract and 950 tons in the No. 1.

Raw sugar prices in cents per pound:

Refined was unchanged at 5.25c per lb for fine granulated, and aside from a continued good withdrawal demand, there was little new feature.

[Note—The above raw sugar prices exclude processing tax of ½c per lb. Refined sugar prices include the tax.]

BUTTER FUTURES ADVANCE; EGG PRICES ARE UNCHANGED

Short covering and new buying advanced butter futures ⅛ to ¼ cent on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. November closed at 24⅛ cents per pound. The upturn was regarded as a natural reaction from a severe decline. News continues bearish with the into-storage movement at thirty-five cities last week aggregating 12,000,000 pounds, or 5,700,000 pounds in excess of the corresponding period last year.

While trade in October eggs was slightly large, prices held within narrow limits and the close was at 25½ cents per dozen or the same as on Monday. Sales of butter were 81 cars and eggs, 60 cars. Prices follow:

PRODUCE MARKETS

There was little change shown yesterday in the price of fresh eggs and butter. Receipts were 21,252 cases of eggs and 19,486 tubs of butter. The live poultry market was somewhat unsettled. Receipts were 37 trucks. Offerings of new potatoes were only fair but demand was not aggressive. The market was steady. Receipts were 101 cars with 436 cars on team track.

PRICES OF LARD FUTURES DECLINE 5 TO 10 CENTS

Weakness in hogs led to moderate selling of the nearby deliveries of lard futures yesterday, and the close was at net losses of 5 to 10 cents. The December delivery again fluctuated in an erratic manner, losing 2½ cents, while the May future, in which there has been little trading so far this season, was 10 cents higher.

Realization that a decision on the hog processing tax by the Supreme court would not be made for a number of months, and by that time the current supply of lard would be practically exhausted, tends to cause many local interests to continue on the buying side of the nearby futures on the sharp dips. Cash lard closed at $13.60; loose, $13.85; leaf, $14.00, and bellies at $17.25 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

Note—Above prices include processing tax of $2.47 per 100 lbs on lard and $2.62 per 100 lbs on bellies processed since March, 1934. This tax is rebated on products exported, but varies according to the amount due to the fact that the tax was gradually increased.

SENATE EXTENDS GUARANTEE FOR BANK DEPOSITS

May Force Change in Omnibus Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—The senate today passed a joint resolution extending for one year the existing temporary federal insurance of bank deposits, which would otherwise expire on July 1 and be supplanted by a so-called permanent plan under the terms of the 1933 banking act.

The action, taken independently of the administration's omnibus banking bill, whose title I relates to deposit insurance, was regarded as a victory for Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] for it leaves him in a position to force modifications in the radical credit and currency control provisions of title II. Glass insists that action upon the deposit insurance resolution as a separate measure does not preclude passage of the omnibus bill at this session, and says that he and the administration measures of the banking and currency committee are "not so far apart."

Glass May Win Concessions.

Nevertheless, Glass is apparently certain to win important concessions, under which control of open market operations, the rediscount rate, and reserve requirements would be divided between the federal reserve bank governors and the politically dominated federal reserve board, instead of being placed solely in the latter's hands.

Senator Glass sought unanimous consent to bring up, out of order, his FDIC extension resolution, which had been approved by the full banking and currency committee earlier in the day, immediately after the senate convened. Senator Robert La Follette [Rad., Wis.], however, objected and blocked action for the time being. Later he withdrew his objection, explaining that members of the committee had assured him the resolution would not jeopardize action on the omnibus bill at this session. The measure was then passed without a record vote.

Committee Adopts Glass' Views.

The full committee adopted the recommendation of Senator Glass' subcommittee without a record vote after rejecting, 11 to 7, a proposal of Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.] to extend the existing FDIC plan for a period of three months. Byrnes, an administration leader, was supported in this move by Senator Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.], chairman of the full commission.

Glass said the extension of the temporary plan insuring deposits up to $5,000 for a year was approved because 14,277 banks were "in a state of consternation over the matter and wanted to know whether they should remain in the deposit insurance fund or withdraw."

The house of representatives has already passed the Eccles omnibus banking bill but it now will have to act upon the FDIC extension separately. Some house leaders favor a 3 month extension, fearing that the senate will ditch the Eccles bill, but the senate resolution is expected to prevail.

However, right after the senate action, Chairman Steagall [Dem., Ala.] of the house banking committee came back from a conference with President Roosevelt to say:

"The senate kept that big bill over there two months without seeming in any hurry to act on it. I'm not in any hurry to pass the senate resolution. The house won't pass the resolution in the same form that it passed the senate."

Some of Steagall's colleagues interpreted his remarks as meaning that President Roosevelt had expressed willingness for the house to reduce the extension period from a year to 30, 60, or 90 days so as to force action this session on the omnibus banking bill. Representative Hancock [Dem., N. C.] remarked:

"If we in good faith expect to pass the omnibus bill this session, then why is it necessary to extend temporary deposit insurance a year? Sixty, or even thirty, days ought to be plenty of time."

Details of FDIC Plan.

The FDIC plan, which the senate voted to extend, insures bank deposits 100 per cent up to $5,000, for which banks have been assessed ¼ of 1 per cent of their insured deposits and are subject to an additional assessment of the same amount. Under the Eccles bill, deposits would be insured 100 per cent up to $5,000 and the banks assessed ⅛ of 1 per cent under the house measure or 1-12 of 1 per cent under the senate plan.

The so-called permanent plan that would go into effect July 1, without further legislation, however, would provide 100 per cent insurance up to $10,000 and partial insurance above $10,000. The banks would be required to buy class A capital stock in the FDIC in the amount of ½ of 1 per cent of their total deposit liabilities. An immediate payment of 160 million dollars would be required, and many banks would not be able to meet their assessments.

NAT. GYPSUM PLAN TO CHANGE STOCK GIVEN APPROVAL

A plan to wipe out arrears on the preferred stock and increase the authorized class A common stock by 100,000 shares was approved at a special meeting of stockholders of National Gypsum company yesterday at Buffalo, N. Y.

One share of new $20 par 5 per cent preferred stock and $1.50 in cash is to be given for each share of present preferred stock of $100 par value on which arrears are $21.50 a share. On part of the preferred which has arrears of only $16.25 a share the distribution will be ¾ of a share of new stock at $1.25 in cash for each present share.

A total of 26,000 shares of the new preferred was authorized. The company is the second largest in the gypsum industry.

Eastman Asks Roads Set Up Fiscal Agency

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Moving for further economy of operation of rail carriers, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, has recommended to the regional coördinating committee that a transportation fiscal corporation and transportation trust company, both to be owned and controled by the railroads collectively, be established in New York City. The potential savings would be at least $750,000 per annum, he asserted.

While the report containing the suggestions was sent out to the regional committees on June 12, Eastman did not make it public until today. It was the third of a series of four reports embracing suggested changes in the general management and operation of all carriers, and the final volume is expected soon.

Report Result of Research.

Credit for the research work entailed in the report was given by Eastman to J. Edward Davey and N. B. Haley, his research assistant. In transmitting the report Healy remarked that practically all of the larger railways of the country maintained fiscal officials in New York City. Roads that do not have town offices make arrangements with banks and trust companies.

Thus, the item of rent alone afforded one of the important avenues of savings were the roads to handle their fiscal work through a consolidated office, he said. In this statement he emphasized previous assertions by Eastman that consolidation of terminals, etc., offered the greatest potential economies of operation.

Recites Cost of Offices.

Of over 1,200 railroads of all classes, 185, including system lines, maintained fiscal offices in New York City during either or both years 1929 and 1933, at overall costs of $1,351,900 and $891,500, respectively, for those years. The survey also showed that 621 railroads paid a total of $2,715,380 to 287 fiscal agencies, both domestic and foreign, for the two years combined. The highest amount paid to any one agency was $363,500 in 1929, and $340,700 in 1933.

"It is interesting to note that one agency alone acted for 127 railroads, and that one railroad employed 26 agencies, located both in and outside of New York City," Haley observed. Maximum rent paid by the railroads per square foot was $6.22 in 1922 and $5.33 in 1933, while the minimum for both years was $1.19.

Foresees Larger Savings.

"While savings along specific lines brought out in the report are impressive, I feel they are only indicative of larger potentialities for savings after the organizations proposed have been completed," Haley said.

"The conclusion is reached that a very substantial amount of money can be saved in this way," Eastman wrote. "Under the plan proposed, the establishment and development of these agencies in full operation would proceed gradually, beginning with the fiscal corporation, but there would be important initial economies. It also appears that these could be secured without conflict with section 7B of the emergency act."

As in the case of the previous reports and suggestions, he informed the regional committees that "any final conclusions on my part will wait your advice on the matter."

NATIONAL TEA REPORTS SALES ABOVE YEAR AGO

The National Tea company yesterday reported consolidated store sales of $5,037,571 for the four weeks ended June 15, compared with $4,796,725 in the corresponding four weeks of last year, an increase of $240,846, or 5.02 per cent. For the first twenty-four weeks of the year sales totaled $28,955,393, an increase of 3.8 per cent. The number of stores in operation on June 15 was 1,225, or 19 fewer than a year ago.

For the first twenty-four weeks aggregate sales were $107,734,294, against $101,456,701 a year ago, an increase of 6 per cent. Stores in operation on June 15 numbered 4,283, or 1.4 per cent below a year ago.

Sales of Dominion Stores during the four weeks' period ended June 15, amounted to $1,350,740, against $1,557,863 in the 1934 period, a decline of 13.3 per cent.

Roosevelt O.K. Asked for 24 Slum Projects

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Twenty-four PWA low cost housing and slum clearing projects involving expenditure of $91,000,000 were sent to President Roosevelt today by Secretary Ickes for final approval. The projects, situated in 21 cities, have already been endorsed by the advisory committee on allotments.

Ickes refused to reveal the cities in which work would be undertaken, "because of the danger of sending up land prices," but revealed that President Roosevelt has "earmarked" $249,000,000 of the work relief funds for federally financed low cost housing. Of this sum $110,000,000 represents funds lent by the PWA housing division to FERA for "direct" relief activities during the period before congress passed the work relief act.

New Projects Get Funds.

Some of this $110,000,000 will be reallotted to the cities to which it was already tentatively committed, but much of it will be reassigned for new projects.

In all, PWA has approved 72 low-cost housing projects for about sixty cities, the secretary said, but the allotment board has not yet taken action on forty-eight of these projects.

The government is already quietly taking options on or appraising land on the projects approved, and Mr. Ickes remarked that "if we get land without any particular difficulty, the projects should be completed during 1936."

Urges Local Action.

The expenditure of this large sum of federal money for housing purposes should encourage cities and states to spend further funds, the secretary said, adding:

"I think cities and states ought to get on the job, as the main part of the housing burden should be carried locally."

New York City savings banks have informally suggested that they might take over bonds posted with PWA for New York housing loans, to create a revolving fund for housing purposes, Ickes revealed.

"We are willing to consider the offer," he said. "A good deal depends on the interest rate established."

Acting PWA directors from nineteen states confered today with Horatio Hackett, assistant PWA administrator, about plans to be carried out under the work relief program.

CONFER TODAY ON MILWAUKEE'S REORGANIZATION

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Insurance company and savings bank officials will confer with officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad tomorrow on the company's plan of reorganization. The meeting will be held in the railroad's offices here. The Milwaukee's board is scheduled to meet tomorrow for final action on the plan.

Directors of the Chicago and North Western railway will meet here on Thursday to discuss the company's plan for a deferment of interest, later, the directors will resume conferences on the plan with the institutional investors.

Domestic or former Blue Eagle copper continued to be quoted nominally at 9 cents a pound delivered to the end of September.

NEW YORK BANKING HEAD LIMITS DEPOSIT INTEREST TO 2 PCT.

New York, June 25.—(AP)—Establishment of a maximum annual interest rate of 2 per cent to be paid by banks, trust companies and private banks to depositors was announced tonight from the office of the New York state superintendent of banking. The new regulation was adopted by the state banking board June 21 and will become effective Oct. 1.

It also was announced that "by the same regulation the maximum dividend rate which may be paid by savings banks after Oct. 1, 1935, is likewise fixed at 2 per cent subject to the power of the board to make exceptions in proper cases." The action was taken, it was stated, "in the best interests of sound banking throughout the state."

The new rate, which will establish the lowest average interest return on bank deposits in the history of the state, will supersede a rate of 2½ per cent which has been in effect since Jan. 1.

Authorities declared the new ruling would assure uniformity of interest rates between state institutions and national banks, since under the national bank act the national institutions are not permitted to pay interest at a rate in excess of the rate permitted to state institutions.

"The action of the board is in accord with similar action which has been taken in some other states and with voluntary reductions which have been announced by numerous banks in this and other states," it was declared.

U. S. TO ATTACK SELL AND SWITCH STOCK HOUSES

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—A drive against "sell and switch" operators, a fraudulent stock promotion system particularly prevalent in New York and Chicago as a form of "bucket shop" practices, is being made by the justice department under the securities exchange act and with the SEC's coöperation.

Attorney General Cummings has warned those unfamiliar with stock transactions to beware of this type of seller because of the danger of buying worthless securities. Formerly such prosecutions were instituted under the mail fraud laws.

Officials said that in some transactions good stocks were sold to investors over the long distance telephone, and bogus confirmation notices of sale were given. Later, further long distance conversations were held to persuade the investor that it was advisable to sell his good stock and invest in worthless securities in which the "sell and switch" promoter dealt.

In some cases known holders of good stocks were persuaded to sell them, on the ground that they were about to decrease in value and to buy securities of little or no value. Justice officials said that this class of "bucket shop" had been under investigation for more than a year and a half. A considerable number of prosecutions have been made.

French Franc Speculators Are Squeezed

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Foreign speculators who sold future French francs short at big discounts in the latter part of May, when that currency seemed on the point of devaluation, were paying heavily today. They were compelled to buy spot francs at high prices to make deliveries due now or at the end of this month.

They had sold francs at discounts running as high as 40 per cent on a yearly basis for delivery in one month.

Their efforts to cover held the gold currencies today close to their high levels established late yesterday when there was evidence that speculators were pinched and losing a lot of money.

Francs Ease Slightly.

French francs eased only slightly at 6.63¼ cents, still about par, while guilders and Swiss francs reacted small fractions. Italian lire were off ½ point at 8.29 cents.

According to dealers the speculative shorts were in a predicament chiefly because the Bank of France had asked French bankers to refuse to lend money to extend short positions and to demand immediate deliveries of spot francs.

The French franc was again below its parity with the dollar after rising above that level yesterday. The value of the dollar today against francs was $1.0001, compared with 99.90 cents yesterday. Based on the old parity of the franc the dollar was worth 59.07 cents, against 59 cents yesterday.

Reason for Silver Break.

The break in the price of silver yesterday and today was attributed to the fact that the speculators in exchange had bought silver when they sold francs, in the belief that its price would be advanced by American buying, and are now compelled to sell at a loss to cover commitments.

Strength of sterling, which advanced today to $4.95⅝, but eased later to close at $4.94½, is believed by some dealers to be due to American buying of silver at the low prices. In London the price of bar metal dropped ½ pence to 31 1-16 pence.

In New York foreign bar silver declined ¾ of a cent to 69½ cents an ounce, compared with a domestic price of 77.57 cents.

London lifted the price of gold 1 penny to 141s ½d, equivalent to $34.92 an ounce, up 8 cents, with sterling at $4.95 at the time of price fixing.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed receipts of $1,710,500 from Canada and Guatemala. There were no exports.

COURT ENJOINS AAA COLLECTION OF PROCESS TAX

Temporary Order Is Granted Packer.

Birmingham, Ala., June 25.—(AP)—Collection of processing taxes from meat packers under the AAA was enjoined today as a court attack was started against the cotton levy here and in Macon, Georgia.

Federal Judge W. I. Grubb, who recently held part of the New Deal's Tennessee Valley authority legislation was unconstitutional, granted the Alabama Packing company a temporary restraining order against the Alabama collector of internal revenue.

Ten days ago the packing company filed application for an injunction to halt collection of the processing taxes based on alleged unconstitutionality of the AAA. The company seeks to recover $135,119 paid in taxes and to prevent collection of $51,444 now due.

Amends Original Petition.

Amending the original petition today, the company asked the collector be enjoined from collecting the tax under amendments to the AAA now pending in congress. Judge Grubb did not rule on the constitutionality of the act.

Final hearing on the petition of the packing company is scheduled July 20.

Seven cotton mills in Georgia joined in a suit filed at Macon in United States court seeking to recover $1,138,000 paid to the government in cotton processing taxes and the floor stock tax.

W. E. Page, collector of internal revenue in Georgia, was the one against whom the suit was brought. The mills contend the AAA is unconstitutional and that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has not complied with all provisions of the act, by failure to decree a new crop year beginning Aug. 1.

Sues to Recover $308,000.

The Alabama Mills Co., cotton textile operators, filed in U. S. district court here a suit seeking to recover $308,000 paid in cotton processing taxes, alleging the agricultural adjustment act is unconstitutional.

Judge Grubb granted a temporary injunction restraining Harwell G. Davis, collector of internal revenue, from assessing or collecting any further processing taxes from the mills, pending final hearing set for July 20.

The Alabama Mills Co., petition attacked the AAA as violating the fifth and tenth amendments to the federal constitution.

The petition alleges the act is an illegal delegation of legislative power by congress to the secretary of agriculture; imposes a tax on one class for the benefit of another class; and is in furtherance of a state and not a federal function.

The Alabama Mills company operates a number of small textile mills in Alabama.

Textile Plant Seeks $2,500,000.

Concord, N. H., June 25.—(AP)—The Amoskeag Manufacturing company of Manchester, largest single cotton textile unit of its kind, today brought suit in federal court against the government for $2,500,000, charging the cotton processing and floor taxes were unconstitutional.

The suit, brought against Peter M. Gagne of Somersworth, as collector of internal revenue for New Hampshire, claimed that $2,170,628 was paid to the government from August, 1933, to March, 1935. The Amoskeag company contended that the taxes were unlawfully assessed and unlawfully collected.

The hearing on the Congress hotel reorganization under section 77B of the bankruptcy act, before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, was continued yesterday until July 12.

Wilson to Pay 12½c Dividend on Common

Directors of Wilson & Co. yesterday declared a dividend of 12½ cents a share on the new common stock and a quarterly payment of $1.50 a share on the new 6 per cent preferred stock. The common dividend is payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 15, and the preferred disbursement will be made on Aug. 1 to stock of record July 15.

This brings the total paid on the common stock so far this year to 25 cents a share, an initial payment of 12½ cents having been made on June 1. The first payment on the 6 per cent preferred was made on May 1 and the declaration just made is for the period from May 1 to July 31.

A special meeting of stockholders has been called for noon July 20 in the company's office at 4100 South Ashland avenue to discuss the plan for refunding $17,000,000 of outstanding debt. The company proposes to issue new bonds amounting to $20,000,000.

Atchison to Pay $2.

Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway declared a dividend of $2 on the common stock for the year commencing July 1, 1934, and ending June 30, 1935, payable out of accumulated surplus on Sept. 3, 1935.

A year ago at this time a similar dividend was declared, before which no common dividends had been paid since June, 1932, when $1 a share was distributed.

After the directors' meeting, S. T. Bledsoe, president of the Santa Fe, stated that the Western Improvement company had declared a dividend of $2,100,000 and the Santa Fe Pacific Railroad company a dividend of $160,000. Both disbursements will be taken into the account of the Santa Fe in the first six months this year.

Electric Household Utilities declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the capital stock, bringing the total for the year to date to 75 cents a share. The dividend is payable July 25 to stock of record July 10. John R. Hurley was elected treasurer and assistant secretary. Other officers were re-elected.

Crane Company Dividend.

Crane company declared a dividend of $1 on account of accumulations on the preferred stock, payable July 25 to stock of record July 10. Dividends were resumed on the stock on April 25 when a similar payment was made. After the disbursement on July 25 arrears will amount to $19 a share.

Holly Sugar company declared a dividend of $7 to apply on arrears on the 7 per cent preferred stock. After this payment accumulations will amount to $8.75 a share.

Glen Alden Coal company declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly payment of 25 cents on the common stock.

International Printing Ink declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis, and the regular quarterly preferred dividend of $1.50 a share, both payable on Aug. 1. Special dividends of 25 cents were paid on the common on Nov. 1 and Dec. 20, 1934, and on Feb. 1 and May 1 this year.

American Cast Iron Pipe declared a dividend of $3 a share on the 6 per cent preferred on arrears, payable July 1. Fitch says that overdue dividends will total $6 a share after this.

DIVIDEND RAISED FOR SECOND TIME BY LINK BELT

Directors of the Link-Belt company yesterday increased the common stock dividend for the second time this year and declared the $1.62½ quarterly distribution on the preferred stock, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 14. A 20 cent payment was declared on the common for Sept. 1 on shares of record Aug. 15, placing the stock on an 80 cent annual basis. The March and June quarterly payments were 15 cents each, the stock having been raised to a 60 cent basis March 1 after successive reductions had cut it to 40 cents from its $2.60 yearly rate obtaining on Sept. 1, 1930.

No further plan for elimination of the company's preferred stock arrears was decided upon, although the directors' usual morning session extended to midafternoon as the matter was discussed from all angles.

'SOAK THE RICH' TAX PROPOSALS HIT STOCK MART

Blue Chip Issues Chief Losers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's "soak the rich" tax program had an adverse effect on the stock market today, causing a shrinkage in values ranging from fractions to more than $3 a share.

The blue chip favorites were the chief sufferers, although the whole list was under pressure. The list began the day with moderate losses, picked up a little during the middle of the session, and then gave way at the close on increasing volume. Total turnover for the session amounted to 1,144,330 shares.

Watches Tax Program.

Chief interest in the financial district centered on the exposition of the terms of the administration's new tax program, and the determination of the President to force congress to write and pass his punitive tax measures altering the basic structure of existing revenue legislation within the next four days. Needless to say, the latest developments in the situation were held to have exerted a highly bearish effect on the stock market.

As though higher taxes and a confiscatory system of taxation were not enough, the President, in the opinion of the street, proposes that corporations also must bear greater taxes in proportion to their sizes. It is pointed out that the larger corporations face the lifting of the tax rate to 17½ per cent which, in the present state of their earnings, will not bring in a penny more than the present rate does or a lower rate would do. That proposal, it is held, seems to overlook the fact that corporation earnings, after paying present taxes again go through the mill in the way of dividends and interest received by their owners and creditors, whose taxes also will be increased.

Lose 2 Points or More.

Stocks to lose 2 or more points during the session were American Can, Brooklyn Union Gas, International Business Machine, Continental Can, du Pont, United Fruit, Louisville and Nashville, and U. S. Smelting.

Renewed uncertainty over the fate of the holding company bill brought some selling into the utility division.

Large fractional losses were sustained by the majority of the rails after they had shown signs of resistance following the news of the $2 dividend by Atchison. The stock closed the day fractionally higher after sagging following the announcement. The dampening effect was blamed on the fact the dividend would be paid out of the accumulated surplus instead of current earnings.

Auburn and Mack both lost more than a point, while Chrysler and General Motors managed to confine their losses to fractions.

Farm implements were soft, Case, Harvester, and Deere all losing fractions. Silver mining shares were inclined to sag. Foods, tobaccos, and oils took fractional losses.

Some of the stocks to move against the trend were Eastman Kodak preferred, which moved up 5½ points for a new high; Industrial Rayon, Radio preferred B, and Hat corporation preferred.

Aeronautical Insurance Rates Lowered Sharply

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—New actuary figures in aeronautical insurance risks have made possible sweeping reductions in rates. The reductions include 25 per cent on fire and windstorm risks, and unit rate reductions of $10 and $5, respectively, on each aircraft insured against public liability and property damage.

NRA RANG OWN KNELL, HARVARD DEAN ASSERTS

Asks Chance to Establish Business Security.

Boston, Mass., June 25.—[Special.]—Expressing the belief that the NRA had died of its own inherent weaknesses long before the invalidating decision of the Supreme court and warning his hearers that further steps toward regimentation in this country could come only through fascism or communism, Dean Wallace B. Donham of the Harvard business school urged a breathing spell for establishing business security today before the National Association of Cost Accountants.

The majority of people want security more than progress, he said, pointing out that the industrial situation during the last six years has failed to restore the previous sense of security.

"NRA Prolonged Depression."

"In my opinion," he said, "the whole NRA has prolonged the depression. It was foredoomed to failure for several reasons; because no organization can proceed both fast and successfully; because it was artificial and failed to consider such factors as competition and the ever changing scenes caused by new products, and because control of competition, if successful, creates stagnation. Because of the latter factor, if nothing else, the NRA would eventually have broken down."

Henry I. Harriman former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said the present problem before congress is to salvage the good of the NRA and at the same time to limit the burocratic practices which were growing up under it.

Offers Four-Point Program.

With that goal in view, he outlined a four-point program which he said he thought might serve the purpose. The plan would include:

First, the broadening of powers and increasing of size of the federal trade commission, with eight members instead of the present five.

Second, voluntary agreements by trade and industrial associations, and recognition of them by the federal trade commission, provided they did not oppress the industry or create a monopoly, and were in the public interest.

Third, contracts or treaties of the states, one with another, through a group known as the house of state delegates.

Fourth, a combination and agreement by states, under which the sale of goods made under sweatshop or child labor conditions would be prohibited.

2,595 Brokers and Dealers Ask Registration of SEC

Washington, D. C., June 25—[Special.]—Registration applications of 2,595 brokers and dealers in the over the counter markets have been received by the securities and exchange commission, and while they continue to come in slowly well over 3,000 are expected to have been received by July 1. The commission has warned that only those brokers and dealers who apply by the latter date will be assured of obtaining registered status by Aug. 1 if their applications meet the requirement of the regulations promulgated some time ago.

BUYERS CROWD STORE ON TRAIN AT SPRINGFIELD

Air Conditioned Cars Get First Workout.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—[Aboard Merchandise Express.]—Merchants and buyers of this city and other central Illinois towns today got their first glimpse of this eleven car traveling merchandise store which arrived this morning from Peoria, Ill. Retail store representatives from a dozen cities and towns in this section visited the mobile wholesale unit of Marshall Field & Co., which is promising to begin a new style in merchandising.

Gov. Henry Horner and United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, in Springfield to address the general assembly, were expected to inspect the train during the day.

Officials Are Reassured.

It was the reception given by the retail buyers, however, that reassured the Field officials who are traveling with the caravan. If there were any merchants who did not share the general hearty approval given this venture they remained inarticulate.

Stanley Bullard, Illinois general sales manager of the company, said that the train is attracting buyers from stores in this vicinity who previously had not been customers of Field's. The visitors today included buyers from Decatur, Bloomington, Alexander, Tuscola, Pana, Jacksonville, Roodhouse, Girard, Kincaid, and Virginia.

Buy in Cool Comfort.

One of the features of the train which proved most attractive today was the air conditioning. With the city experiencing its first warm summer weather, buyers were able to look over the displays in the six merchandise cars in cool comfort. Field officials admit that an expedition such as this would be impractical at this season of the year if air conditioning was not possible.

O. Leroy Parr, general manager of the John Bressmer company, leading department store here, said that the train enabled buyers who ordinarily would not visit the Chicago market to get a pre-view of coming styles in merchandise.

BILL TO CONTROL MINING OF SOFT COAL ASSAILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—The Guffey coal bill was labeled as "plainly unconstitutional" today by James A. Emery, general counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers, when he appeared in opposition to the measure before the house ways and means committee.

"The bill presents a plan," he stated, "whereby the mining and shipment of bituminous coal is declared to be connected with public interest to the extent that the congress may treat it as a public utility. This is not so in any legal sense.

"Even though the bituminous coal industry were so affected by the public interest in the legal sense as to justify the regulation by the respective states, this fact would not confer upon congress the power so to regulate. The mining of coal has been repeatedly held to be an act of local production and may not be directly regulated by the congress under the commerce power.

"If congress may not directly regulate the production of bituminous coal under the commerce power, may it do so indirectly by the taxing power to compel acceptance under penalty of regulation imposed, although on the face of the bill it is evident that the purposes of the tax levied is not to produce revenue but to compel, under penalty, the acceptance of the regulation?

"The pending bill proposes a detailed regulation of employment relations in the mining of bituminous coal. Such regulation is not a valid exercise of the commerce power nor would it be if the industry were held to be affected by the public interest as that term is legally defined."

Emery urged as a substitute that voluntary coöperation be undertaken by the coal industry.

OFFER NEW RAIL PENSION PLAN TO MEET DECISION

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—A new railroad retirement plan, to replace the law held unconstitutional by the Supreme court, was offered in congress today by Senator Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] and Representative Crosser [Dem., O.].

In an attempt to meet the Supreme court's objections, they offered the program in two separate bills, one providing for payment of benefits out of the treasury and the other levying a tax on payrolls against both employers and employés without reference to the retirement plan.

An appropriation of $50,000,000 out of the treasury to pay the benefits would be authorized in the retirement bill.

Employés would be taxed two per cent of their wages and the carriers would have to pay four per cent. Neither tax would apply to wages in excess of $300 a month.

U. S. TRADE GROUP URGES SETTLING OF WAR DEBTS

Linked with Stabilization as Recovery Measure.

PARIS, June 25.—(AP)—America's delegation to the International Chamber of Commerce convention today urged settlement of the war debt issue as one of the essentials for world recovery.

A resolution submitted to the business congress, at which 35 nations are represented among the 1,000 delegations, by the 100 from the United States linked war debt settlement and currency stabilization as prime factors for ending the world-wide depression.

The Americans received an invitation to visit Berlin as guests of the German branch of the international chamber after the Paris meeting closes, and many of the 100 said they would accept. United States Ambassador William E. Dodd will entertain them at the Berlin embassy.

French Expert Urges Stability.

Stabilization of currencies at approximately their present levels as advocated before the convention by Charles Rist, leading French financial authority long associated both with the Bank of France and governmental finance.

Declaring such procedure "quite possible," Rist said stabilization should be "on a fixed gold basis at a level for each country which would avoid the risk of either too sudden increase or decrease of domestic prices." Each country should choose "the level that would make its domestic debt bearable," he said.

Baron Luke of Pavenham, British manufacturer, who with T. E. Gregory, British economist, led the discussion at the second day's session, said British business wanted stabilization only if it were linked with destruction of excessive trade barriers.

British Wants Trade Equalized.

"The British empire shares the view that immediate improvement of trade would follow effective stabilization of currencies," he said, "but it is firmly convinced that no general stability can exist unless an agreement to stabilize is associated with an agreement that international balances be settled by sales of goods and services instead of by transfer of gold and silver."

Gregory, asserting tarifs and the currency depreciation "war" resulted in continuance of the depression affecting international commerce, said:

"Admittedly the reintroduction of stabilized exchanges is not a simple solution of the difficulties from which the world is suffering. Admittedly also stabilized exchanges can not work satisfactorily without a cessation of the economic war at present engaging the nations of the world. But one must make a start, and it is certainly easier to start with currencies than with tarifs."

ARMOUR MAY BUY MEMPHIS PACKING PLANT

Memphis, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—Stockholders of the Memphis Packing corporation will hold a special meeting July 6 to consider an offer for purchase of the corporation by Armour & Co. Because of the reported acquisition price of close to $1,000,000, it was predicted in local packing circles today that the sale will be approved by the stockholders, the board of directors having given favorable vote Saturday.

The Armour offer does not include the South Memphis stockyards, large packers being prohibited by the federal consent decree from owning stockyards, but G. D. Strauss, Memphis Packing corporation president, has made an offer personally for the stockyards, he said today. This offer also has the approval of the board of directors.

The proposed sale will bring the Memphis Packing corporation stockholders $9 to $10 a share for their stock, local brokers said. About 26 acres is involved in the proposed transaction. The plant was established in 1920.

LET ARMOUR PLANT CONTRACT.

Jacobson Brothers, Chicago contractors, yesterday were awarded the contract for building the new $1,000,000 beef house of Armour & Co. at 43d street and Packers avenue. A contract for the plumbing was let to the M. J. Corboy company. The two awards will provide work for several hundred men in the building trades through the summer and fall. The foundation has been laid and steel is being erected now.

COFFEE INDUSTRY VOTES TO RETAIN CODE PROVISIONS

The Associated Coffee Industries of America voted to continue voluntarily the labor and fair trade practice provisions contained in their NRA code and to take steps toward elimination of disastrous price cutting in the interest of stabilizing the industry. The coffee men will end their annual convention at the Drake hotel this morning with the election of officers.

Led by W. F. Williamson, secretary, who presented a report on code work and conditions in the industry, the delegates consumed an entire session in an open discussion of policies and procedure to promote sound trade practices and competitive stability.

Only a small minority opposed continuance of NRA standards for working hours and wages.

The association went so far as to decide on setting up machinery in its New York office for filing open lists of prevailing selling prices of coffee throughout the country. The data will be available to all members as a check on prices either of competitors or members in other parts of the country. This is designed to stop price cutting rumors and help stabilize the entire industry.

Creditors Offer New Plan to Reorganize Rosenbaum Co.

A new plan of reorganization for the Rosenbaum Grain corporation providing for the transfer of the lease on the Northwestern elevator in South Chicago to the Cargill Grain company and the sale of the balance of the properties to a new concern was proposed yesterday by creditors. The plan was presented to the federal District court by Murry Nelson, head of a creditors' committee.

If the new plan is carried out members of the Rosenbaum family, who own a majority of the stock in the present firm, would be eliminated from the management. A new company would be organized with $600,000 of new capital to take over all properties but the Northwestern warehouse, which is now controled by lease.

Continental Grain as Manager.

The new company would be managed by the Continental Grain corporation, which has headquarters in New York and extensive foreign connections. The persons providing the new capital were not named by Nelson. In return for the new cash, however, they would receive 51 per cent of the common stock in the new concern. The remaining 49 per cent of the stock would be divided as follows: 40 per cent to creditors and 9 per cent to the present stockholders of the Rosenbaum Grain corporation.

The plan differs radically from the previous program, submitted on behalf of the former management, under which the Rosenbaum family would have retained control to a great extent.

It is understood that the Chicago and North Western railroad has served notice canceling the Rosenbaum lease on the Northwestern elevator and has agreed to lease the property to the Cargill interests. The Northwestern house, with a capacity of 10,000,000 bushels of grain, represented two-thirds of the total storage space controled by the Rosenbaum corporation. The new reorganization plan concerns only the remaining properties, which have a capacity of about 5,000,000 bushels.

To Pay Preferred Claims.

If the creditors' plan is accepted by the court all preferred claims against the Rosenbaum Grain corporation and administrative expenses will be paid in full. Bank claims, amounting to $2,686,000, are to receive 75 per cent in cash. An option settlement of 50 per cent in cash will be offered to unsecured creditors in full satisfaction of their claims.

The unpaid portion of the bank claims, amounting to about $672,000, and those of unsecured creditors who do not accept the cash offer would receive stock in the new corporation and beneficial interest certificates in the remaining assets, which would be turned over to a special trustee for liquidation.

Federal Judge William H. Holly is scheduled to conduct a hearing on June 28 on all reorganization proposals submitted to the court.

EUGENE F. M'DONALD SAYS ZENITH READY TO SECURE BUSINESS

Eugene F. McDonald Jr., president of Zenith Radio corporation, yesterday told the annual meeting of stockholders that the company is prepared to meet competition and obtain its share of the business. He spoke in detail of company plans and its line, including a new radio set for farmers, and how the company has met the "new metal tube scare" which has been described as threatening to make the present type of sets obsolete.

After the meeting of distributors here last week, it was reported that orders amounting to $1,250,000 at wholesale were received. This is expected to rise to $1,500,000 shortly, and is substantially more than a year ago. The company is in production now, and expects to have present orders filled by July 20, insuring a substantial gain for the July 31 quarter over the same period of 1934.

McDonald explained that Zenith's new sets are designed to use the new metal tube when perfected, and that the company has developed a special tube of its own for use in the sets in the meantime. The farm sets make the use of dry cells no longer necessary, and an arrangement has been made with another manufacturer for a wind generator to keep the storage battery charged.

Directors, reëlected without opposition, renamed the present officers.

JOBS AND WAGES IN CHICAGO AREA DECLINE IN MAY

For the first time since last November declines were shown in employment and pay rolls during May as compared with the preceding month in the Seventh Federal Reserve district. The drop in the number of workers and wages received amounted to 0.5 per cent in each case, according to a report on business conditions released yesterday by the Chicago Federal Reserve bank.

The manufacturing industries, represented by 3,450 concerns in the district, showed losses of 1 per cent in workers and 0.8 per cent in pay rolls. A majority of the manufacturing industry groups shared in these declines.

In the nonmanufacturing group, including 2,127 concerns, there was a gain of 1.3 per cent in employment and an upturn of 1.1 per cent in wages earned, with all members of the group sharing in the improvement except the merchandising industry.

Public to View New Alton Streamlined Steam Train

The Abraham Lincoln, new streamlined steam train of the Alton railroad, will be open for public inspection at the Union station Friday from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. before being placed in service between Chicago and St. Louis on July 1. The new train will leave Chicago on its initial run at 4:15 p. m. and arrive at St. Louis at 9:45 p. m. Built on a low center of gravity, it is said the Abraham Lincoln assures greater safety in high speed travel.

GRAINS EASIER; TRADING ALMOST AT STANDSTILL

Wheat, Corn, and Oats Show Fractional Losses

Trading approached a standstill in all grain pits in the Chicago market yesterday. It was one of the dullest sessions that has been witnessed this year, both in commercial and speculative operations. So shallow was the market that on comparatively small transactions of 5,000 bushels the level of prices changed.

When the listless business was brought to an end all grains were quoted slightly below the level of Monday's prices. September wheat was selling ⅜ cent lower at 79⅜ cents a bushel and the corresponding future in corn was down ¼ cent at 75¼.

Weather News Bearish.

The day's weather news constituted a bearish market factor but it brought out little selling. It was the almost complete absence of buying support that led to the moderate price recession.

The lateness of the wheat harvest is an important factor in dullness now being encountered. Normally the crop is moving rapidly to market by this time and the futures markets are the target of heavy hedging selling. Such hedging pressure has not been felt in the Chicago market, although the recent price declines have anticipated it to some extent.

Weather conditions yesterday in the southwest states, where the harvest is under way, were favorable, with little rain of consequence reported. At the same time the additional rain received in the eastern portion of the spring wheat belt in the northwest came as a favorable development for that section, where the harvest season is still several weeks away.

September Closing Prices.

Closing quotations on September futures, with comparative prices, were:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk. Ago.
Wheat	.79⅜	.80⅛	.81⅞
Corn	.75¼	.75⅝	.76⅞
Oats	.32¼	.32⅞	.33⅜
Rye	.46⅝	.46⅞	.48¼

Commercial buyers are taking their time in stocking up on wheat. This is true not only in this country but also in Europe. The good crop outlook with the possibility of lower prices gives buyers in the present market an advantage. In Europe indications that Russia will again become a free seller in the international market naturally influences buyers to delay purchases on the chance that a further downward adjustment in world prices is coming.

Reports from three Kansas points yesterday, Hutchinson, Wichita, and Salina, gave aggregate receipts of wheat at 32 cars. On the comparable day last year the same markets received 719 cars, which shows the degree of delay in harvesting operations.

SOARING MEATS WORRY AAA; FEAR BUYERS' STRIKE

Protests Over High Prices Deluge Officials.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—Rising meat prices today had agriculture adjustment officials worried over whether they might lead to an organized consumers' strike.

Protests over the recent increases in beef, pork, and lamb quotations are deluging the agriculture department. Some have reached Capitol hill. Two groups have appeared to protest to the department over the AAA processing taxes and what had been termed the "packers' spread."

Rumors that efforts would be made by some organizations to start a consumers' strike have reached AAA officials and Chairman Smith [Dem., S. C.] of the senate agriculture committee.

Expect Further Price Rise.

Farm administration officials said today they were looking toward a continued rise in meat prices until fall and there was little they could do about it. As a barometer of future meat prices, AAA officials said they were looking to the spring pig farrowing crop report due Friday.

Senator Smith said "the high meat prices are the natural result of two factors; first, the artificial or government destruction of farrowing sows and immature pigs; second, the extreme drouth of 1934 that cut off the food supply necessary to support cattle, hogs, and sheep that survived.

"The prices will continue to rise unless the consumers buck up their sales resistance though a consumers' strike or their inability to buy meat," he added.

Davis Expects Higher Prices.

In a report to Secretary Wallace, Farm Administrator C. C. Davis said today cattle and hog prices this year would be higher than in 1934 due to the control program and the drouth.

"The changes which have occurred in the supply of cattle," Davis said, "are expected to result in materially higher prices for cattle throughout 1935."

On the future of hogs, Davis said, prices this year would be "relatively high" and surpluses "will have disappeared and excess production will be potential and not actual."

U. S. COTTON CONTROL BLOCKS ANY DELIVERY ON JULY CONTRACTS

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—For the first time since 1916, when the present cotton futures act was passed by congress, an active trading month on the New York and New Orleans Cotton exchanges is going "off the boards" without any deliveries of actual cotton against the maturing contracts.

This extraordinary situation, due, it was said, to virtual control by the government of American supplies of cotton, became apparent today when "first notice day" for the July options on both exchanges failed to bring out any notices.

The government pool, of which Oscar Johnston is manager, was known to have held a large interest on the long side of July some time ago but, apparently, this has been completely sold out or transferred to more distant options. Some mill hedges are known to exist in the July position, but the lack of notices today indicated that spot houses had taken up a long position capable of absorbing the mill contracts.

Prices in the two markets held steady despite the strange developments. July ran up a few points, but buying there ended not so much for lack of bids as for lack of available contracts.

Johnston served practical notice on the trade several days ago that the government pool would not permit any appreciable widening of differences between July and distant months. Since the pool acquired all certificated stocks by outright purchase several weeks ago, his control of the situation has not been questioned.

NARROW RANGE IN COTTON; PRICES IRREGULAR AT CLOSE

Cotton futures held within a range of 2 to 6 points yesterday, trade being extremely slow. The last of delivery notices on July contracts in the New York market had the effect of strengthening that future. However, the undertone was generally easy with Chicago closing unchanged to 3 points lower and other markets 4 points higher to 2 points lower.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to 5 points higher with New Orleans and New York 11.90c and Galveston and Houston 11.75c per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

PRICES IN LIVE STOCK AND MEAT MARTS ERRATIC

Trends in live stock and meat markets were mixed yesterday. Following Monday's sharp rise in meat prices, consumer demand fell off at some places, resulting in an erratic set of markets in wholesale channels. Beef at the various distributing points sold from 50 cents lower to 50 cents higher. Veal sold steady to $1.00 higher, while lamb and pork ruled steady to $1.00 lower.

Most changes since the close of last week have taken place in the east. Meat prices in the Chicago area are not much different than at the close of the week, but demand yesterday slowed down some for all classes.

However, better action characterized the cattle trade at slightly higher prices than on Monday. A large part of the steers in the receipts sold 10 to 15 cents better and in places 25 cents higher. Beef cows brought mostly steady prices. Hefers advanced 15 to 25 cents, most strength being in the plainer cases. The top for steers was $12.65 and the bulk of sales were made within a range of $8.75 to $11.25.

A severe break hit the market for hogs yesterday. Opening mostly 10 cents lower the market weakened rapidly and closed fully 25 cents lower in spots 30 to 35 cents under the best prices on Monday. The average for the day dropped 20 cents to the $11.15 line, the lowest since April 29. Packers obtained top grades in load lots at $11.80, only the second time their top costs have been under the $12 line, processing tax included, in almost six weeks. One small lot yesterday brought $11.85.

A better outlet for lambs raised the top price 10 cents, but the bulk of the day's supply changed hands at mostly steady to strong prices.
